RESCUING MINERS.

Forty Taken From Fremont Mine.

Flames Enter Hoisting Shaft and the Air Shaft is Badly Caved-in.

Explosion of Electric Generator Causes the Disaster. Heavy Loss.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FLORENCE (Colo.) Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tonight, many coal miners who volunteered for rescue work are working like Trojans removing comrades imprisoned in the Fremont coal mine, three miles southwest of Florence, by the burning of the top buildings of the mine today. Between fifty and sixty coal miners were in the mine when the fire started. At midnight, about forty had been taken out. It is believed that all will have been removed safely by 5 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The imprisoned miners, most of whom are in Plutonian darkness because the oil in their lamps has been exhausted, are being removed through the air shaft, one at a time, a rope 500 feet long being used, and each miner being hoisted by a score of his comrades on the surface, after the rope has been made fast about his body.

Grouped in a circle about the air shaft, their tearstained faces lighted by the flickering light of the torches, are wives and sweethearts of the miners. As each miner is hoisted out of the shaft there is a cry of joy from some woman, frequently a mother with a babe in her arms.

When the fire started, Superintendent Robert McAllister went down the shaft and warned the imprisoned men. The fire got into the hoisting shaft, but the men in the mine, under his direction, stretched canvas across it and kept out the smoke. The men hurried to the air shaft, which had caved badly. A rope was lowered and fully fifty men were required to hoist the first man, who repaired the airshaft as he was hoisted. There was great fear that the rope would break, and although assured that the men would be rescued, the women and children gathered around the shaft could not keep back their tears.

The fire started at 11:50 o'clock from the explosion of an electric generator or the dropping of sparks from it into an oil cup. It caused a loss of between $60,000 and $70,000. All the top buildings were destroyed, but fortunately the compressor was not disabled, and the miners were kept supplied with good air. The building over the airshaft, being some distance from the others, also escaped. To these two fortunate happenings the imprisoned miners owe their lives.

Those rescued thus far report no discomfort except that caused by fear that the fire might reach them or the air supply be shut off.

DEATHS FROM DIPHTHERIA.

Horrible Suspicions That South Chicago Children Who Carried Insurance Died Prematurely.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The health authorities have begun a rigid investigation of the numerous deaths among children in South Chicago. The fact that many of these children were insured and that the parents permitted them to become exposed to diphtheria and delayed calling physicians until too late to save life has excited grave suspicions in the minds of the medical fraternity and others.

The investigation, so far as it has progressed, shows that life insurance agents have been doing an extraordinary business in risks on children in the district. In the majority of cases, the children were insured for $300.

WANTS SAINTS OUT OF DEBT.

CUT OUT CREDITORS IS SMITH'S ADVICE TO MORMONS.

Semi-annual Conference of Plenty-of-Wives Church Begins at Salt Lake, With Over Seven Thousand of "Elect" Present—Young Men Much Wanted.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 6.—The seventy-sixth semi-annual conference of the Mormon Church began here today, with more than 7000 Latter Day Saints present in the Tabernacle at the opening session. Apostle and United States Senator Reed Smoot, whose absence from the recent conference caused some comment, was present today with the other apostles.

The feature of President Joseph F. Smith's address to the conference was his appeal to the Saints to get out of debt and keep out. He deplored the readiness of Mormons to be "gulled into contracts under ironclad notes," and urged his followers to "live so that they will have means on hand, instead of their means being in the hands of others."

Many of the elders who had been called to missions, President Smith said, had been unable to respond because they were in debt. "We want the young men," he said, "to prepare themselves financially, intellectually and spiritually to preach the Gospel."

THIRTY JAPANESE DROWN.

Salmon Fishers Lost in Great Gale Raging Off Coast of British Columbia.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Oct. 6.—The great northeasterly gale of the early morning hours of today is believed to have been responsible for the death of at least thirty Japanese fishermen who were out fishing for sock-eye salmon when the gale broke.

The tug Lorne reached port this afternoon from Victoria, bringing eleven Japanese whom she had picked up when they were in extremis through exposure.

The whole gulf shore of the mainland from Howe Sound to Texada Island is lined with the wrecks of fishing boats.

DEATH OF EDHEM PASHA.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—A dispatch from Constantinople, today, announced the death of Field Marshal Edhem Pasha, who was commander-in-chief of the victorious Turkish army in the war with Greece.

RAILROADS TO "PACK" LAW CONVENTION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Interstate Commerce Law Commission, which is to hold a national convention here October 26, to endorse President Roosevelt's policy regarding railroad rate legislation, charges that the railroads are making strenuous efforts to "pack" the convention and defeat the object for which it is called.

It is charged that the agents of roads and mushroom "railway news bureaus" are circulating all over the Middle West, "educating delegates." In many instances, it is said, entire delegations are brought to Chicago on passes, lavishly entertained, and at the proper moment put on record as being against rate legislation.

Members of the organization are investigating these cases, wherever delegates are found to have been pledged, they will be denied seats in the convention. The "railway news bureaus" are also maintaining costly establishments and sending attractive literature to all country papers which will print the matter.

BRIDGE MONOPOLY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The President instructed Atty.-Gen. Moody today to begin such legal action as will break up the railroad monopoly of the Mississippi bridges at St. Louis and the St. Louis terminals. This action is likely to cause as great a sensation in the railroad world as the Northern Securities suit.

It is believed the President was led to take this step because of the fierce railroad opposition to his policy of having a law enacted for the Federal control of freight rates. It is alleged that the Terminal Railroad Association is a monopoly that holds St. Louis in a tight grip.

POLITICAL.

TARIFF REVISION.

Bay State People Demanding It.

Curtis Guild, Jr., Nominated for Governor and Olin for State Secretary.

Platform Indorses Administration of President of the Whole Party.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON (Mass.) Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At the Republican State convention, today, the party declared by a solid convention vote, after a spirited debate, for tariff revision, adopting the following resolution:

"We approve the position taken by our Senators and Representatives at the last session of Congress in favor of present action, and we urge that they shall continue to press upon their party associates from other States the wisdom of the consideration of the tariff for the purpose of revision and readjustment."

Curtis Guild, Jr., was nominated by acclamation for Governor; Eben S. Draper, for Lieutenant-Governor; William M. Olin for Secretary of State; A. B. Chapin for Treasurer, and H. E. Turner for Auditor.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—With only one voice raised in opposition the Republicans of Massachusetts, in State convention, today, declared for a revision of the tariff. Contrary to expectations, the radical wing of the party, under the leadership of Eugene N. Foss of Boston, did not offer a substitute for the plank in the platform relating to the tariff, although in a speech to the delegates, Foss declared that the revision of the tariff favored in the State platform was not sufficiently wide in its scope. Foss said, however, that he and his followers were encouraged at the concession made to them, and that next year they would expect to have the convention accept their proposition in its entirety.

Governor—CURTIS GUILD, JR., Boston.

Lieutenant-Governor — EBEN A. DRAPER, Hopedale.

Secretary of State—WILLIAM M. OLIN.

Treasurer and Receiver General—ARTHUR B. CHAPIN, Holyoke.

Auditor—HENRY E. TURNER, Malden.

Attorney-General—DANIEL MALONEY, Greenfield.

One of the surprises came when Gen. William F. Draper, former Ambassador to Italy and a leading member of the Home Market Club, opposed in a vigorous speech the adoption of the tariff-revision plank of the platform. Gen. Draper said he would not offer any substitute plank, for the reason that he knew there was no chance of his or any other substitute being accepted. Gen. Draper contended that tariff revision would be followed by financial and commercial depression, and, speaking as a manufacturer, he could see no reason why there should be a revision.

The platform presented by the Committee on Resolutions was adopted without amendment, and contained, in brief, an endorsement of the administration of President Roosevelt, especial mention being made of his part in bringing about peace between Russia and Japan and of his enforcement of the laws preventing corporations from oppressing the people; a resolution for the enactment by Congress of a tariff provision which shall protect American markets against discrimination and secure to the United States the treatment accorded to the most favored nation in all foreign markets; a resolution for the increase of the navy and the up-building of the American merchant marine and an endorsement of the administration of Former Gov. John L. Bates.

"We congratulate the President upon his overwhelming triumph at the polls at the last election. Such a splendid endorsement was given by the people because it was deserved."

Referring to the President's part in securing peace in the Far East, the platform says:

"It is everywhere gratefully recognized that peace so earnestly desired is due in large measure to the untiring efforts of President Roosevelt. He has earned the gratitude of all the world."

The President is also heartily endorsed for his "fearless enforcement of laws enacted to prevent great corporations from oppressing the people by unjust discrimination or by the destruction of lawful competition."

On the subject of the tariff, the platform says:

"We believe that the policy of protection to American labor and American industry should be maintained. The Republican party of Massachusetts reaffirms its devotion to the principle of protection, and is opposed to tariff changes tending to depress or destroy any of our industries or to lower the wages of American labor. But we recognize the fact, as declared by the national Republican convention at Chicago, that rates should be changed when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands the alteration of schedules.

"The time at which revision of the tariff should be undertaken must be determined by the representatives of the party from all parts of our country. We approve the position taken by our Senators and Representatives at the last session of Congress in favor of present action, and we urge that they should continue to press upon their party associates in Congress from other States the wisdom of a consideration of the tariff for the purpose of revision and readjustment.

"We further refer for the consideration of Congress the reënactment of tariff provisions which shall protect our exports against discrimination and secure to the United States the treatment accorded to the most favored nations in all foreign markets."

The President is endorsed in his efforts "to devise a just and effective method of building up a strong commercial fleet, through the commission authorized in response to this request which makes its report to the next Congress. The lack of American steamship communication with South America and our feeble share of the ocean trade to the Orient are both a peril and reproach to the United States. The large and active merchant shipping would mean profitable employment in a large field for New England capital and labor. It would mean widening markets for the entire nation and the reinforcement of the navy by an indispensible reserve of auxiliary ships and seamen."

Senator Lodge in a parliamentary manner censured Foss for his strictures on the Massachusetts representation at the capital. Lodge also said that the time for tariff revision was when the Republican party was in power. He argued that "free raw materials" was but another term for free trade, and that the admission of free raw materials would sound the death knell of reciprocity, as well as of protection.

HUGHES FOR MAYOR.

NON-PARTISAN NEW YORKERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Charles E. Hughes, principal counsel of the committee of the Legislative Investigating Committee, was unanimously nominated for Mayor of New York by the Republican convention in Carnegie Hall. The other nominations were: Richard Strong of Brooklyn for comptroller, and James T. Wells of the Bronx for president of the Board of Aldermen.

Senator Page read the platform, which embraced a denunciation of the Democratic municipal administration; an affirmation of the non-partisanship in municipal affairs; a demand for the passage of legislation during the next session of the Legislature to insure life insurance policy holders, and a more rigid scrutinizing of life insurance companies, and the control of future subways by the municipality and the establishment of a municipal lighting plant.

Hughes was asked later if he had any statement of his position to make for publication.

"There's nothing just now," he said.

Richard Young of Brooklyn, who was nominated for comptroller, said tonight at his home he could not be a candidate.

SCIENCE OF TUBERCLES.

Prof. Behring Explains How He Came to Recognize Possibilities of Cure.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prof. Behring of the Pasteur Institute, who believes he has discovered a cure for tuberculosis, explained today how he had been led to recognize the correct science and fertility of French anatomo-pathologists of the first half of the nineteenth century, Baile, Laennec, Lebert and Robin, who distinguished two sorts of tuberculosis transparent gray granulations (Baile's granulations) and tubercule, which dip into suppuration or ossification.

"A minute study in spleen and lungs of these two dissimilar lesions," said Behring, "led me to ask myself whether I had not discovered a remedy, placed, so to speak, by nature, beside the malady, and by utilizing Baile's gray granulations, by a process which will be made known later, I succeeded in arresting the evolution of other tuberculous lesion, one of which is really dangerous, a granulation which suppurates and causes a prurient dissolution of the lung. I cannot at present define more completely the method I employ."

JUDGE TAKES IN THE TOWN.

CITES SHERIFF, MAYOR AND OTHERS FOR CONTEMPT.

Law-Dispenser A. H. Guthiel, Who Was Roughly Handled by a Mob at Brighton, Colo., Tuesday, Starts More Trouble Brewing—Threats to Storm Jail.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BRIGHTON (Colo.) Oct. 6.—Trouble is brewing here again, tonight, as an outgrowth of the feeling against County Judge A. H. Guthiel, who was roughly handled by a mob Tuesday last. Judge Guthiel came to town from his country home and opened court today. He immediately issued citations for contempt of court against Sheriff James B. Higgins, Deputy Sheriff L. Birel, Mayor J. N. Counter, Trustees R. C. Cable and H. J. Schloo, Town Marshal Edward W. Denny and several others. The writs were given into the hands of the Sheriff, who served all but his own, accepting service upon himself through his deputy.

When the persons named in the writs appeared in court, Judge Guthiel imposed various penalties, including fines and imprisonment. Mayor Counter was the only one discharged. The cases of the Sheriff and one other were set for trial November 7. Deputy Sheriff Ireland and R. U. Talbot, a Republican politician, were sentenced to six months and ninety days imprisonment, respectively.

They had hardly been committed to jail when talk began of releasing them by mob force. The Sheriff declared he would resist any attempt to storm the jail.

PACKERS FILE DEMURRERS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Formal demurrers to nine of the counts in the indictments returned by the Federal grand jury against five of the meat packing companies and 17 of their employés were filed in the United States District Court today and pleas of not guilty on the first count are to be entered next Monday, when the entire matter will be taken up before Judge Humphrey.

CRITICISM OF LODGE.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—Eugene N Foss, a leader of the reciprocity wing of the Republican party, tonight issued a statement to the press in which he severely criticised the speech of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge at today's Republican State convention. In his statement, Foss classed the speech as "a direct insult to a majority of the Republican voters in the State." He declared that the speech of Senator Lodge would cost Curtis Guild, Jr., nominee for Governor, thousands of votes.

NEW CABLE IN ATLANTIC.

Final Splicing Completed After Bad Weather—Signaling Speed is Surpassing.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CANSO (Nova Scotia) Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Commercial Company's new Atlantic cable was completed this morning, the bad weather having delayed the final splice. The signaling speed of the new cable is 15 per cent. greater than the Atlantic cables of similar lengths.

Its cost varied from $1000 to $6000 per mile, according to the depth of water and the character of the ocean bed. The greatest depth in which it is laid is 2500 fathoms.

PAY ROLL IN VIEW.

Cheerful Jobs of Life Insurance.

President of the Mutual Gets a Hundred and Fifty Thousand.

General Manager Willing to Work for Twenty-five or Thirty Thousand.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Closing a week, every day of which has produced a sensation that has stirred the country, the special legislative committee investigating the methods of insurance companies adjourned today until Tuesday of next week, the sessions to be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, instead of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. This change was made because Friday is registration day in this State and members of the committee desired to be present in their various districts.

When the investigation opened today, it was expected that the president of the Mutual Life would be called to the stand before the day was over. By a misunderstanding, however, President McCurdy had left the office of the Mutual Life before he was called for, and it is expected he will be the first witness Tuesday.

In today's testimony, sensational developments were brought out when Hughes demanded the pay roll of the executive officers of the company. This was produced, and showed the various salaries of these officers since 1877. For the year 1904, President McCurdy received $150,000; two vice-presidents were paid $50,000 each, a second vice-president $17,000, the third vice-president $10,000 and the general manager $25,000, who this year will receive $30,000, and the treasurer $50,000.

Robert McCurdy said he never knew the salary his father received until today, when he heard it read in the committee room. He thought, however, that there should be no limit to the salary of such positions, because they should be in accordance with the accumulations of the company.

When asked if it was any benefit to the policy holder to increase the president's salary, McCurdy said he thought the trustees had considered that when they had increased the president's salary. No increase, however, had been considered when he was present at the trustees' meetings.

Earlier in the week, when McCurdy was on the stand, Hughes tried to bring out why C. H. Raymond & Company and their partners of the firm received larger emoluments from the business than any other agency. McCurdy said he did not know what Thebaud received from the business, and had never talked to him about his personal affairs. He said it was "a large reward for large achievements," and that all businesses of large magnitude were built upon that principle.

In McCurdy's testimony, it was brought out that George Raymond, a brother of Charles H. Raymond, was the general agent for New Jersey; that Howard Lewis, the general agent for Northern New York, with an office in Albany, was a cousin of either the vice-president, Granniss, or Mrs. Granniss; that Dr. E. J. Moss, the medical director of the Mutual Life, married a sister of the president of the company and that P. Stuyvesant Pillot, an inspector of risks, is a cousin of Louis Thebaud, son-in-law of President McCurdy and partner of the Raymond firm.

G. W. White, a secretary of the company whom McCurdy was asked about, he said was no relative of any officer of the company, but that Mrs. White was a niece of Mrs. Granniss, wife of Vice-President Granniss.

At one point in the day's testimony, much interest was manifested when the expenditures of the company were taken up. An auditor of the Mutual Life, C. A. Preller, was on the stand and he was asked as to the method of recording the expenditures. It was gathered that these were passed upon by an expenditure committee, of which Robert Olyphant was chairman. Three entries on the book of payments to Olyphant of $25,000 each were looked into, but no connection could be gleaned. Preller was asked about the campaign contribution to the Republican Congressional Committee, which was disclosed yesterday, but he said none had come under his observation.

The $25,000 contribution to the Congressional Committee was looked for when the ledgers were produced, but up to adjournment this afternoon this had not been found.

GETS ACTION IN CARSON.
NEW YORK LIFE EXISTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CARSON (Nev.) Oct. 6.—The State Board of Revenue met today at the Capitol to take action on the request of Messrs. Hawes and Harris, agents of the New York Life Insurance Company, to postpone final action relative to revoking the license of the company in Nevada.

The request of the representatives of the company was that the State postpone final action upon the case until the company had a chance to make its defense before the investigating committee in New York. They did not ask any revocation of the action of the comptroller, but a suspension of final action.

Gov. Sparks, in addressing the representatives of the company, stated that he fully endorsed the act of the Commissioner of Insurance. It had been urged that many agents throughout the State would feel the hardship of the revocation of the company's license, and the State desired to do nothing unfair to anybody. He considered the request to postpone final action until after the committee's report was a reasonable one.

Atty.-Gen. Sweeney maintained that a clear case of the misuse of funds had been proven by the company's own admission, when it contributed money to political committees. He was willing to await the action of the investigating committees.

Comptroller Davis said he was willing to abide by the judgment of the board, and agreed to take no final action until after the investigation in New York. The board decided to suspend all further action until after the New York investigating committee had finished its work.

TOM PLATT'S COMMITTEE.

INVESTIGATION OF COST OF PUBLIC PRINTING BEGUN.

Senator Gorman and Representatives Landis and Perkins Attend the Meeting and Landis is Made Chairman of the Board of Inquiry. Two Members Absent.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Four of the six members of the joint committee to investigate the cost of public printing met in Senator T. C. Platt's office here yesterday. Those present besides Senator Platt were Senator Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland and Representatives Frederick Landis of Indiana, and James P. Perkins of New York.

It was decided to appoint a subcommittee of three of the joint committee to go over the work already accomplished, and to prosecute the future work. Senator Platt, chairman, appointed this sub-committee: Representative Landis, chairman; Senator Gorman and Representative Perkins.

RATES UNFAIR TO WINDY CITY.

EXPERT TESTIMONY BY SECRETARY OF STOCK GROWERS.

T. W. Tomlinson Thinks Present Figures from Missouri River Points and Southern Minnesota Too High. Even With Equal Rates, Interests Would be Discriminated Against.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Expert testimony on the subject of freight rates was given in Judge Bethea's court, today, in the Interstate Commerce Commission's suit against seventeen western railways. T. W. Tomlinson, secretary of American Stock Growers Association of Denver, traffic agent for the Chicago Live-Stock Exchange and for fifteen years connected with the freight departments of a number of western roads, was on the witness stand, and was questioned at length by counsel regarding his opinion of the reasonableness of the rates on cattle, dressed meat and packing-house products.

"In my opinion, the present rates on live-stock from Missouri River points and Southern Minnesota to Chicago are too high," said he. "The rates on live-stock should be lower than on dressed meat and packing-house products from these points. Even with equal rates on these commodities, the live-stock interests would be discriminated against. The present schedules are unfair to Chicago. They give an advantage to the St. Paul and Missouri River markets."

FOUND MURDERED IN CELLAR.

MIDDLETOWN (N. Y.) Oct. 6.—Alice Ingerick, nine years of age, was found murdered in the cellar of a farm house near here tonight. Her mother, Mrs. George Ingerick, was later discovered in a barn on the same farm suffering from severe wounds about the head and probably fatally hurt. The woman kept house for Willis and Fred Olney, two aged brothers. No trace of the brothers can be found and some are of the opinion that they also have been murdered and that their bodies will soon be discovered. A blood-stained iron pipe, with which the crime was probably committed, was found in the kitchen.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Twenty-six union printers and two apprentices failed to report for work in four Omaha job printing offices this morning. Last night, at all the four offices, the men were paid off and informed that if they desired to return to work they could do it only as individuals and not as members of the union. Despite the serving of this notice at Klopp & Bartlett Company's establishment, all the men employed there returned to work this morning.

Although the fifteen largest shops had posted notices declaring that after the expiration of the contract with the union, October 5, the union would not be recognized and that an "open shop" would be maintained, the union did not call a strike. The union took the stand that the old contract provides for thirty days' time after the agreement ends for the discussion of negotiations.

Aside from the four offices where the men were paid off and did not return, the usual union forces were at work today and no intimation of a walkout was given.

Should the strike resolve itself into the bitter conflict that is promised, suits against the Omaha Business Men's Association, charging coercion and conspiracy, are threatened by the union men, who say that the association, which was organized to fight the labor organizations, has driven the employing printers into declaring for the "open shop."

UNION IS TURNED DOWN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "There is no such thing as peaceful, polite and gentlemanly picketing any more than there can be chaste, polite and gentlemanly vulgarity or peaceful mobbing or lawful lynching."

This was the comment of Justice Smith of the Appellate Court in an opinion handed down today against Franklin Union No. 4 and three of its members, who were fined $100 each and sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment for violation of an injunction secured by the Chicago Typothetae.

BERLIN STRIKE BIGGER.
PROMISE OF METAL WORKERS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A striker stated this evening that the present strikers will be joined Saturday by 20,000 metal workers, who will not wait until the general lockout announced for October 14. The tramway employes are also expected to join the strike. The Berliner Theater will be unable to open Saturday, its electric plant being unfinished.

Capt. Kieffel, secretary of the Berlin Metal Manufacturers' Association, says in an interview: "We will not yield. We can hold out, and our offer of concessions will not be repeated. The workmen must yield unconditionally."

The total value of manufactured products for the year is $8,153,392. Reports for the county have not been made up. These figures will be reported in the statement to be made under the new State law.

MEET INSTANT DEATH.

Ten Men Buried by Falling of Bank of of Slate in a Quarry in New York.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

GRANVILLE (N. Y.) Oct. 6.—Ten men met instant death at the quarry of the Vermont State Company here today when about one hundred feet of the bank crashed down without warning, burying the victims. Five bodies were recovered, but it is doubtful whether the others can be reached before next week.

The dead, with the exception of John Williams, president of the company, are all Hungarians.

CATCH RABID ANARCHIST.

Female Red Flag Waver of International Reputation in Custody in Cleveland.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Oct. 6.—Arecisina Balling, arrested here today by United States Marshal Chandler on the charge of being in the country illegally, is alleged by the Federal authorities to be an anarchist of international reputation and a leader of one of the largest bands of anarchists in this part of the country.

Several boxes of rabid anarchist literature were found in the apartments occupied by the woman. She is alleged to be a native of Bruenn, Moravia, Austria, and the wife of an anarchist editor. It is charged that she was convicted of perjury in her native town several years ago and that she fled to America to escape punishment.

For about two years, the immigration branch of the Department of Commerce and Labor has been searching for her, with a view to having her deported. She is said to be known as Anna Majeday and that anarchistic circles the world over are familiar with her. A number of persons who have attended meetings addressed by her were examined by the authorities today.

REJECTS SUFFRAGE MOTIONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VIENNA, Oct. 6.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The lower house today rejected several urgency motions in favor of universal suffrage after a speech by Premier Gautch von Frankenthurn, which, while not opposing the principle of reform, argued that the empire was not prepared for it; that there was danger of different nationalities swamping others and that the interest of Austria must be safeguarded.

An imperial rescript was read, proroguing the house, and the sitting closed in an uproar. The Socialists are angry at the rejection of the urgency motions.

It is reported from Budapest that the government is determined to meet resistance to recruiting and paying taxes by forcible means.

WAVES OVER HER SMOKESTACK.

EUREKA, Oct. 6.—A visit to the wrecked steamer St. Paul, today, found the vessel in the same position in which she lay when deserted by her officers, crew and passengers. At times the seas were breaking over her smokestacks. Portions of rails, spars and rigging have been swept away. Three boats left in the port davits are gone. Wreckage is being washed ashore. Capt. Randall, with six men, left for the scene of the disaster on the tug Defiance this morning but he was unable to get closer than a mile to the wreck. Many of the St. Paul's passengers will go north on the Alliance tomorrow.

ALTITUDE MAKES HER VIOLENT.

OGDEN (Utah) Oct. 6.—Mrs. Andrew Goodall, an apparently well-to-do woman, of San José, Cal., whose family resides there, arrived here over the Union Pacific yesterday from a visit to Hamilton, Ont. She registered at one of the hotels and shortly afterward became violent. She was taken into custody by officers and removed to the county jail, and there confined under watch. County Physician Gordon was called and he gave her attention. She is now in greatly improved condition. Dr. Gordon believes her condition was due to high altitude. Her recovery is expected.

HUNDRED BURIED IN THE RUINS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 6.—A five-story building in course of construction on Motschtschankaja street collapsed today and a hundred workmen were buried in the ruins. Up to the time this dispatch was filed only seven of the men had been rescued. They were seriously injured.

OPENING PROCEEDINGS IN RAMSEY'S SUIT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That votes held by the Missouri Pacific Railroad were cast by proxy by the Gould-Ramsey interest at the last annual election of directors for the Wabash Railroad developed at the afternoon session of the first day's proceedings in the injunction suit of ex-President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., against George J. Gould and others.

Alexander G. Cochran, general counsel and vice-president of the Missouri Pacific, declared in his answer that Ramsey has instituted the proceedings in an attempt to insure his election as president of the road.

UNION PACIFIC MEETING.
STRONG REPORT FORTHCOMING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An annual meeting of the Union Pacific stockholders will be held October 10, and at that time the principal items of the annual report will be read to the stockholders, but the full document will not be ready for distribution until about two weeks thereafter. In addition to making an excellent presentation of earning power, the report will play an interesting part in throwing light upon changes during the year in the company's securities. Exaggerated reports from time to time have been circulated as to the extent to which the company's holdings of Northern Securities or Northern Pacific and Great Northern, for which they were exchanged, have been liquidated, and even the report makes no specific statement on this point, but pretty fair conclusions can be drawn from changes in the total amount of securities and cash on hand.

The officials of the company look forward to a very prosperous year, the crops being now secure and the business in the company's territory being in excellent condition. The outlook for the year ending June 30, 1906, is that earnings, both gross and net, will be the largest in the company's history.

NEW SANTA FE OFFICE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Owing to the expansion and growth of the system, according to an official announcement today, a new office in the counting department, that of Consulting Auditor, has been created by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad Company and H. C. Whitehead, the general auditor of the company, has been appointed to the position. W. E. Bailey has been appointed general auditor and J. E. Baxter Assistant General Auditor.

The consulting auditor will act in an advisory capacity with the general auditor, and will inquire into new and more efficient economical methods of auditing and departmental reporting.

ITS PROVISIONS OUTLINED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Post says that announcement was made today that the administration programme relative to railroad rate legislation is complete, and that, as already suggested, the plan the President will favor will be embodied in the Esch-Townsend bill which passed the House last winter, with some modifications in important particulars. The bill will provide, the Post says, as follows:

First. That the Interstate Commerce Commission shall be given the power to decide, upon complaint after a full hearing, whether a rate is unjust or unlawful; that the commission shall have authority to substitute a rate which shall become immediately effective, and so remain unless reversed by the courts.

Second. The commission shall have the authority to declare that a rate charged for shipment on private cars is unjust and unreasonable, if it be so, and that the common carrier shall be held responsible for such charges.

CHICAGO BOY CRUCIFIED.

Dangling from an improvised cross, Edward Cullinane, the 5-year-old son of a North Side police sergeant, was literally crucified for more than an hour and a half before his cries attracted rescuers. Desiring to exemplify the scene embodied in a religious picture, four of the boy's playmates bound him tightly to a wooden cross, and after carrying him several times around a lot, left him leaning against a fence.

DRIVING-ROD DISASTER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] While running at full speed near Echols, Ky., both driving rods of an Illinois Central engine pulling the fast passenger train from this city to Memphis broke and, striking the cab, quickly reduced it to kindling wood. The fireman was killed, but Engineer Henry Frisz bravely stuck to his post, and, though badly scalded and burned by escaping steam and threatened with death every second, managed to bring the train to a standstill, but not until it had jumped the track and run nearly a hundred yards. There were nearly two hundred passengers on board.

BACHELOR MURDERED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES (Ia.) Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Edward Gresser, aged forty years, a bachelor, was murdered, Wednesday night, at his home in Allen township. The discolored and distorted remains, with an ugly bullet wound in the temple, were found this morning. Gresser was reputed to be worth about $40,000, and by many it was said he kept this hidden in his house.

CLASS-RUSH VICTIMS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MADISON (Wis.) Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] More than six hundred students thrown into Lake Mendota, two perhaps fatally injured in mid-air fighting for a class flag, and upwards of forty other minor casualties sustained, are the net results of the annual freshman-sophomore class rush of the University of Wisconsin this afternoon.

BRITISH LION'S MOUTH WATERING FOR CUBA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

HAVANA, Oct. 6.—[By West Indian Cable.] Owing to the development of strong opposition to the ten-year treaty of commerce and navigation between Cuba and Great Britain, the ratification of which is pending in the Senate, the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations yesterday authorized the publication in the government organ of the text of the treaty, in order that its provisions may be understood by the public.

Since the outline of its main conditions in these dispatches September 10, the treaty has been the subject of much criticism i nleading newspapers here, which agree with the commercial bodies that its ratification would be inimical to Cuban interests. This criticism has resulted in the publication this week of a statement by Juan Francisco O'Farrill, Secretary of State, defending the provisions of the treaty in a general way.

The Associated Press last night secured an authentic copy of the treaty, an examination of which reveals various reasons for the strong opposition to it interposed by the United States government, one of the principal of these being the fact that throughout the document Great Britain receives the most-favored-nation treatment in every respect except in the matter of import duties. The latter, owing to the reciprocity treaty between the United States and Cuba, is expressly excepted, but Great Britain, by the terms of the treaty, is to be included in any favors other than tariff provisions which Cuba might hereafter concede to the United States.

The clause permitting British warships as well as British merchantmen to refit and provision in Cuban waters in the event of accident or stress of weather is, as outlined September 10, including the much discussed right of "pertrecharse," a Spanish terms, meaning the resupplying of vessels with war munitions, objected to.

Secretary O'Farrill was asked by the Associated Press to explain the latter provision, and he replied that it would apply only in times of peace, since international law would not permit the refitting and supplying of vessels in neutral ports, notwithstanding the existence of treaties. He added that precisely similar conditions were written in treaties between the United States, Spain, Russia and eBlgium.

The treaty at the outset covers the privileges to be accorded to the citizens and ships of each country in ports of the other, these being equal to the privileges enjoyed by the people of each nation, except with reference to the coasting trade, in which, however, each is given most-favored-nation treatment. From the standpoint of the United States, this is considered distinctly inimical to the project for including Cuba in the coasting trade privileges of the United States.

Article III of the treaty prohibits export duties from one country to the other country other than those to any other country.

Article V prohibits greater duties on goods imported in British vessels than on those brought in Cuban ships. This latter article apparently checks any project for lowering the duties between the United States and Cuba on goods carried in either Cuban or American vessels. The treaty accords favored-nation treatment with respect to all port tonnage charges.

Article VII provides that any privileges granted to vessels of a third power in harbors or rivers be extended immediately and unconditionally to either of the contracting powers.

Article VIII covers the right of warships and merchanimen to refit and resupply in cases of accident or stress of weather.

Article X says: "Except as regards the duties leviable on imports, the contracting parties agree that in all matters relating to commerce, navigation and industry any privilege in favor of immunity of whatever kind, which either party has actually granted or may grant to the citizens or subjects of any other State, shall be extended immediately and unconditionally to the citizens or subjects of the other contracting party, it being the intention that the commerce, navigation and industry of each country shall be placed by the other on a perfect equality with the commerce, navigation and industry of the most favored nation."

It is provided that controversies respecting the treaty shall be submitted to arbitrators and an umpire. The treaty is to become applicable to Great Britain's over-sea colonies if any of the latter give notice of intention to adhere thereto within a year. The treaty contains twenty-two articles.

Some of the Senators are strongly in favor of ratifying the treaty as a means of showing Cuban independence of the United States, but it is now believed that the strong opposition of President Roosevelt, combined with that of the Spanish commercial element, will prevent ratification.

Secretary O'Farrill insists that the treaty is entirely harmless either to Cuba or to the United States. He pointed out to the Associated Press that the Cuban government is entirely willing to make a similar or even a more liberal convention with the United States.

Americans here, however, contend that the United States is entitled by all reasons of friendship and commerce to privileges which the peculiar relations of the two countries demand shall not be shared by any other power

PANAMA CANAL BOARD.

Engineers Return to Colon After Carrying Out Programme in its Entirety.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

COLON, Oct. 6.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The members of the advisory board of consulting engineers of the Panama Canal Commission returned to Colon at 6 p.m., yesterday, after having carried out yesterday's programme in its entirety, except that they were unable to come down the canal to Colon, being prevented by heavy rains. All the party got wet, although well equipped for the journey. At Bohio, the party examined the proposed site for the dam there, and by means of boats examined the Chagres River and its deviations at all points in that region.

Coming down from Bohio as far as Gatun, the board took a train for Colon, after exploring the Gatun region and Mindi Hills. The entire party, with the exception of Chairman Shonts of the Canal Commission, who is still at Panama, started this morning for Gergona, going as far as Cascades.

Today's programme included a study of the site of the proposed dam at Gamboa and other engineering features beyond the district examined yesterday.

Senator Joseph H. Millard and several other guests of the commission accompany the party, and H. F. Dose and J. H. Nichols, the engineers who, for several months have been in direct charge of the region explored yesterday, accompany the visiting party daily. No expressions as to the merits or demerits of the damsites have yet been made by the visitors.

BLOCK SWEPT BY FLAME.

New York Firemen Have Hard Battle, but Succeed in Saving Horses and Oil Tanks.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The block bounded by the East River, One Hundred and Seventh street, Pleasant avenue and One Hundred and Eighth street, occupied by the stables and lumber yards of J. Reeder & Sons, was swept by fire early this morning. Five firemen were overcome while aiding in the rescue of 250 horses, all of which were led out in safety.

Before the fire was got under control there was much danger of the flames attacking the big gas tanks of the Consolidated Gas Company, on the north side of One Hundred and Eighth street. At one point the flames jumped to One Hundred and Seventh street and ignited the coal yard of Meyer Brothers.

About 200 Italian families were compelled to vacate tenement houses in the vicinity.

At 2 o'clock this morning, the fire was under control.

Grangers Will Establish Statistics Bureau.

Patrons of Husbandry Be at Napa Meeting.

Insane Man Shoots His Wi and Daughter Fatally.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NAPA, Oct. 6.—At today's session of the State Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, an amendment to Article I of the bylaws was passed, providing that the Master and State Lecturer be paid $700 per annum, in addition to their necessary expenses while engaged in work of the order. The by-laws of the State Grange were also amended by making the compensation of district and county deputy masters $3 per day. Article VIII of the bylaws was amended, fixing the fee for membership in subordinate granges at $2.

It was decided to establish a bureau of statistical information to collect data concerning crops and resources in various counties of the State and forward the same to subordinate granges; also to establish a State Agricultural Federation, to consist of representatives from the State Board of Agriculture, the State Board of Horticulture, the State Grange and other bodies interested in agriculture. This will enable legislation on agricultural matters to be more readily effected.

A special committee, W. W. Greer of Sacramento Grange, chairman, presented the following resolution, which was adopted by the convention: "We request that the commission proceed with as little delay as possible with the selection and purchase of a university farm; that the farm be put to use not only for purposes of instruction, but also for experimentation on agricultural problems; and we request that such farm be selected from land in an interior county and from land about Berkeley."

The installation of new officers was held tonight.

SHOOTS WIFE AND DAUGHTER.
WILL NOW RETURN TO ASYLUM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

VALLEJO, Oct. 6.—At 8 o'clock this morning, Nathaniel Melvin, a well-known resident of this place, shot his wife, Elizabeth Melvin, and his daughter, Mrs. P. A. Radcliff, wife of Boatswain Radcliff, of the naval transport Solace, at the Melvin residence on upper Georgia street. Boatswain Radcliff had just driven away to go to the Solace and Mrs. Melvin and her daughter were in the front yard.

Melvin asked them to come into the house, but they refused. He then ran out of the house with a revolver and fired three shots. The first hit Mrs. Radcliff on the first finger of her left hand. The second struck her in the left breast one inch from the heart, and the third struck Mrs. Melvin half an inch from her heart. The bullets have been extracted, but the condition of the wounded women is critical. Mrs. Radcliff may recover, but Mrs. Melvin is not expected to survive.

Nathaniel Melvin was sent to an asylum a year ago, but was discharged as cured six months ago. He had been quiet up to two days ago, but seemed to fear he would be sent back and was nervous. He seems rational now, but gives no reason for the shooting. He formerly worked in the navy yard and his family is highly respected here. After the shooting, he barricaded himself in a room of the house and made an attempt to cut his throat, but only slashed his cheek with a razor. It took the police three hours to subdue him and take him to jail. Melvin will be returned to the insane asylum at Napa. It is said that he was released on parole at the solicitation of relatives.

ENGLAND AND MAY GET

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Following closely upon the publication of the text of the Anglo-Japan treaty has come considerable talk of the possibility of an understanding between Great Britain and Russia. All the newspapers are devoting columns to discussion of the question, pointing out that if Russia is sincere in her expression of a desire for peace in Central Asia there is no reason why the two ancient enemies should not come to an agreement that will not only assure peace but clear away the suspicions leading to friction that has existed for years.

Definite negotiations with this object in view are pending seems possible, but definite official confirmation is lacking. Color is lent to the rumors that have been afloat by the recent frequent visits paid to the Foreign Office by the Russian Ambassador since his return from his holidays a fortnight ago and the fact that Foreign Secretary Lansdowne, who returned from his vacation to publish the text of the Anglo-Japan treaty, has remained at his post continually since then. Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador, had a long interview with Lord Lansdowne at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon, the latter left London immediately afterward for Balmoral, Scotland, where Premier Balfour is present as the guest in attendance to King Edward.

It is thought here that the present is a most opportune moment for reaching a satisfactory understanding between the two countries, both British and Russian papers have strongly advocated it for some time past. The position of the British government was clearly stated in a speech delivered by Gerald Balfour,

Grangers Will Establish a Statistics Bureau.

Insane Man Shoots His Wife and Daughter Fatally.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NAPA, Oct. 6.—At today's session of the State Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, an amendment to Article I of the bylaws was passed, providing that the Master and State Lecturer be paid $700 per annum, in addition to their necessary expenses while engaged in work of the order. The bylaws of the State Grange were also amended by making the compensation of district and county deputy masters $2 per day. Article VIII of the bylaws was amended, fixing the fee for membership in subordinate granges at $2.

It was decided to establish a bureau of statistical information to collect data concerning crops and resources in various counties of the State and forward the same to subordinate granges; also to establish a State Agricultural Federation, to consist of representatives from the State Board of Agriculture, the State Board of Horticulture, the State Grange and other bodies interested in agriculture. This will enable legislation on agricultural matters to be more fully effected.

A special committee, W. W. Greer of Sacramento Grange, chairman, presented the following resolution, which was adopted by the convention: "We request that the commission proceed with as little delay as possible with its selection and purchase of a university farm; that the farm be put to use not only for purposes of instruction, but also for experimentation on agricultural problems; and we suggest that such farm be selected from land in an interior county and from land about Berkeley."

The installation of new officers was held tonight.

SHOOTS WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

WILL NOW RETURN TO ASYLUM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

VALLEJO, Oct. 6.—At 8 o'clock this morning, Nathaniel Melvin, a well-known resident of this place, shot his wife, Elizabeth Melvin, and his daughter, Mrs. P. A. Radcliff, wife of Boatswain Radcliff, of the naval transport Solace, at the Melvin residence on upper Georgia street. Boatswain Radcliff had just driven away to go to the Solace and Mrs. Melvin and her daughter were in the front yard.

Melvin asked them to come into the house, but they refused. He then ran out of the house with a revolver and fired three shots. The first hit Mrs. Radcliff on the first finger of her left hand. The second struck her in the left breast one inch from the heart, and the third struck Mrs. Melvin half an inch from her heart. The bullets have been extracted, but the condition of the wounded women is critical. Mrs. Radcliff may recover, but Mrs. Melvin is not expected to survive.

Nathaniel Melvin was sent to an insane asylum a year ago, but was discharged as cured six months ago. He had been quiet up to two days ago, but seemed to fear he would be sent back and was nervous. He seems rational now, but gives no reason for the shooting. He formerly worked in the navy yard and his family is highly respected here. After the shooting, he barricaded himself in a room of the house and made an attempt to cut his throat, but only slashed his cheek with a razor. It took the police three hours to subdue him and take him to jail. Melvin will be returned to the insane asylum at Napa. It is said that he was released on parole at the solicitation of relatives.

ILLEGAL NATURALIZATION.

SECRET SERVICE DISCOVERY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sixty-nine persons, charged by secret service agents here with illegal naturalization, had previously had papers in San Francisco, which were revoked after an investigation. These men, all of them seamen, had been deprived of their licenses and had almost immediately come North, made new applications and secured their papers. The secret service agents say that more than two hundred cases of fraud have been uncovered by the government's activity on the Sound. The naturalization frauds, it is stated, will exceed in seriousness the scandal unearthed at San Francisco.

The first arrests will be made either Saturday or Monday. Two suspects are at small ports on the Sound; two in Seattle, and one, at least, in Tacoma. It is stated positively that the government will question the legality of the papers of masters and officers formerly employed by the Northern Pacific Steamship Company.

"STUMP" STOTT SUFFERS.

RUPTURES ANKLE BLOODVESSEL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Stump" Stott, Stanford's 'varsity quarterback, suffered an injury in practice yesterday afternoon, which may keep him out of the inter-collegiate game with the University of California next month.

While trying to heel punt, this morning, he wrenched his ankle severely, tearing away both ligaments and blood-vessels. Both trainer and doctor concur in saying that it will be a month before the clever quarterback will be able again to appear upon the field.

BIG BARGE BLOWN UP.

DYNAMITING AT SPOKANE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With a detonation which broke the windows for blocks around, the big barge Newport was blown to bits with dynamite, at an early hour this morning. It is supposed the work was that of persons who are at litigation with Capt. George Jones, owner of the boat, who is out of town. The boat was valued at $4000.

Capt. Jones is suing over transportation rights on the Pend O'Reille River, and much feeling has been aroused.

"SWIFTWATER BILL'S" ESCAPE.

JUST MISSES THE OFFICERS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Swiftwater Bill" Gates leaped ashore from the Nome steamer Ohio before the boat tied up at her dock and eluded two deputy sheriffs, eight uniformed policemen and a squad of detectives who had been set to the dock to arrest him and any known criminals from the North who made the trip out.

The gale blew the Ohio across the slip close to an adjoining dock, and a crowd of passengers leaped ashore. Gates was among them, and he escaped before the officers could reach him. The deputy sheriffs were attempting to arrest Gates to hold him pending the suit of his second wife to recover $100,000. The arrest was authorized, because it was represented that Gates would escape from the jurisdiction of the court immediately.

At intervals during next week delegates will visit Stanford University, Lick Observatory and other local points.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—United States Inspectors Bolles and Bulger completed taking testimony today in the investigation of the wreck of the steam schooner Santa Barbara and took the matter under advisement. Capt. Zaddart testified that he ordered the vessel steered in the direction of the mainland, but that he expected to be called on deck in time to change the course. He admitted that the ship's compasses had not been tested for four or five years.

Collides With Switch Engine.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 6.—Passenger train No. 30, from San Francisco, left the main track a mile from this city at 4:45 this afternoon, and collided with a switch engine. A mild panic followed, but no one was seriously injured. J. B. Schroeder of this city, and F. B. Searing of Alameda received cuts about the face and hands. The passenger train was delayed thirty minutes. Both engines were damaged. The accident was due to a misplaced switch, and that it was not more serious is due to the slow rate at which the passenger train was moving.

MURDERED BY A DEGENERATE.

Little Girl Maltreated and Poisoned in Chicago.

Son of St. Louis Millionaire in Shocking Dilemma.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Dr. Oliver Hart, aged 39 years, a physician residing in the suburb Rogers Park, is in the custody of the police, pending further investigation of the death of Irene Klokow, 10 years of age, which occurred yesterday in the residence of the physician.

The girl died in a bedroom of the Hart residence, in which she and the physician had been locked for several hours. It is the opinion of the authorities, based on facts disclosed at the inquiry held today, that the girl was maltreated and then poisoned in an attempt to conceal the crime.

After finding that it was impossible for the child to recover, the physician swallowed morphine and lay in an unconscious condition all of last night and during the greater part of today.

The girl was taken about a year since from the Illinois Industrial Home for Girls by Dr. Hart and his wife, who desired a girl who could serve in a measure as companion for Mrs. Hart, who is but 17 years of age, and at the same time do light work about the house.

Yesterday, two sisters of Irene Klokow called at the Hart residence, and, in company with Mrs. Hart, went on a shopping expedition to the city. Irene complained of a headache and was left alone in the house with the physician.

What happened in the house is not known exactly, but the first intimation that anything was wrong was a telephone message sent by Dr. Hart to a neighbor, Mrs. Richard Cortis. Dr. Hart told the woman to summon help at once, as he was dying.

Mrs. Cortis sent word to a physician and then ran over to the Hart residence. She let her little daughter climb through a cellar window and unlock the front door. After entering, she called to Dr. Hart and he shouted from the floor above:

BROKE IN THE DOOR.

"Here I am. You will have to break through another door." Mrs. Cortis threw her weight against the bedroom door and broke it open. The Klokow girl was lying on the bed, partially dressed, her hair disarranged and much of it torn from her head, and the room showed evidences of a desperate struggle. The girl was unconscious and evidently dying, and Dr. Hart informed Mrs. Cortis that she had swallowed morphine pills, after he had given her some medicine.

Dr. Hart then went into an adjoining room and swallowed a large quantity of morphine.

The efforts of Dr. Hulsteron, a physician, who had been called, to revive the girl, were unavailing and she died in a short time.

Dr. Hart was given some restoratives, and Dr. Hulsteron labored on him for several hours before being convinced that he would ultimately recover.

A detail of police officers was placed at Dr. Hart's bedside, and he was practically under arrest until late this afternoon, when the Coroner's inquiry over the Klokow girl was adjourned. Dr. Hart was then formally taken into custody.

The inquiry, which brought out no facts other than those stated above, was adjourned until next Tuesday, at which the Coroner's physician will present his report. The police, however, declare that they will not have the slightest difficulty in proving by circumstantial evidence that Dr. Hart gave morphine to the girl, and is responsible for her death.

Dr. Hart has resided in Chicago but a short time, and is the son of a millionaire residing in St. Louis, who has sent him regularly an allowance of money which has supported him and his wife, as he had no practice in his profession.

GET BACK BOY, BUT NO CLEW.

KIDNAPING CASE IS PECULIAR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The abandonment of Tony Mariendino by the persons who had kidnaped and held him for ransom and the return of the little Italian boy to his parents, which occurred last night, has given the police no clew to the kidnapers. So impressed with fear of the persons who had stolen him was the little fellow that he either could or would give no other description of his captivity than a mass of confusing contradictions out of which the police could extract nothing that would point to the identity of his captors. He had even been so schooled by them that he called them "papa" and "mama," but declared upon closer questioning that they were not his real parents.

The boy, who is 6 years old, was found on a Third-avenue trolley car last evening, where he had been abandoned by two men. He was turned over to the police, who recognized him as the son of an Italian contractor in Brooklyn. He had been missing twelve days, and in the meantime his captors had endeavored to extort $500 and then $5000, in ransom from his parents.

In response to the questioning of the police, the boy said he was taken from his home by two men "who shoveled dirt for my father. They took him he said, to his cousin's house in New York, where he had a good time. Although the child told the police many things of seeming importance, he would contradict them in the next sentence.

The police are mystified by the conduct of the child's parents. In reply to one question by the police, the child said that he had been at his father's home yesterday, but when his father, who was present, spoke to him angrily, he contradicted himself. The police believe he is schooled to make confusing replies. They also believe that the manner in which he was abandoned indicates that the men who held him for ransom also had something to do with the abduction of Tony Mannino, more than a year ago. The Mannino boy was abandoned on a ferryboat and could give the authorities no clew to his abductors.

MITCHELTREE FAILS TO FURNISH NAMES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6.—Fayette Mitcheltree, Assemblyman from Palo Alto, stated to a representative of the Associated Press today that he had not given the names of any of his fellow-Assemblymen who are alleged to have received money for their votes to defeat the pugilistic reform bill. Mitcheltree practically admitted that he had no names to give to Dist.-Atty. A. M. Seymour in order to start proceedings against supposed bribe-takers. Mitcheltree also denied the authenticity of the purported note from him to Harry Corbett, in which he wrote that his share of the boodle would be $450, according to the agreement with Col. Martin Brady and others. Mitcheltree came to Sacramento last Wednesday night to testify in the Emmons case, but found he was shut out on a ruling of court.

In regard to the boodle story anent the anti-prize fight bill, Mitcheltree said: "I told Dist.-Atty. Seymour all I knew at the conference we had last night. I could not give him any names of Assemblymen who are supposed to have received money to defeat the Ralston Anti-Prize Fight Bill, because that is impossible. I did tell him, however, what were my conclusions in the matter, my statement being based on a series of apparent facts that would naturally lead to a conclusion."

Mitcheltree was asked about the story published in a San Francisco paper last night to the effect that he had sent a note to Harry Corbett while the fate of the Ralston bill was pending in the Legislature, in which he said his share would be $450, the inference being that that amount was required by him to stop hostile legislation against prize fighting. Mitcheltree was told that Eli Wright, the former Senator, now awaiting trial on a charge of boodling, is alleged to have the original note.

"If any note of that character is held by anybody," said Mitcheltree, "it is a forgery, and one trumped up for the purpose of injuring me. I do not fear any such showing as the forced note might indicate to people not familiar with the situation."

H. L. Partridge of San José, who is associated in the defense of Emmons, and who is also retained in the case of former Senator Wright, said in answer to a number of questions by an Associated Press representative: "We have had the copy of the note Mitcheltree sent to Harry Corbett four or five months. I rather think that it must have been my law partner who gave the story out. We have had it all along, but did not see fit to use it."

Partridge's law partner is F. C. Jacobs, who was the principal counsel for Harry Bunkers. Partridge would not say if he or his associates had the original note.

The introduction of testimony in the trial of former Senator E. J. Emmons of Kern, charged with bribery in having accepted money to abstain from an investigation of certain building and loan associations at the last session of the Legislature, was practically completed this morning, with Dist.-Atty. Seymour still putting in evidence in rebuttal.

Dist.-Atty. Seymour called Detective George N. Tichnor, who testified, against Johnson's objection, that he is an inspector of loans for the Continental Building and Loan Association. Tichnor said he had investigated the values of properties in many localities, nearly all of which are in Southern California, upon which the Continental had made loans. The witness said his examination into values dated back to January 21, 1905, the period covered by the legislative scandal. Tichnor said his investigation showed the association had loaned money on Southern California properties ranging from forty to eighty per cent. of their sale value.

Former Senator Harry Bunkers, the man already convicted and sentenced for his share in the bribery scandal, was then called by Seymour. The convicted legislator was but a shadow of the robust man who went to trial last April. He looked pale to the point of ghastliness as he entered the courtroom this morning, which was his first appearance in the presence of his associates since he made his sensational confession on the witness stand at the opening of Emmons's trial, nearly a month ago. When Bunkers entered the courtroom he cast a furtive glance about him. Wright, who is next to be tried for bribery, caught Bunkers's glance, but the latter dropped his gaze and hurried to the witness stand. While giving his testimony Bunkers did not look in the direction of Wright and Emmons.

Seymour asked about the conversation between Bunkers and the other defendants and Attorney H. V. Moorehouse in the county jail after Bunkers had been convicted. Objections were made by Johnson, but were overruled. Seymour then asked the witness if, at the conversation referred to, anybody promised to give $500 to his wife and child for their support. Bunkers said such an offer was made by Emmons. Bunkers was not subjected to any cross-examination.

Bunkers was recalled and testified in rebuttal of the statements made by Wright and others, who affirmed that Bunkers had been in a hurry to leave the first committee meeting in order that he might take his sick child to the train. Bunkers denied that the child had been in this city on the day in question, and stated that the child had gone back to San Francisco on an afternoon train. Bunkers affirmed that he was in Sacramento Thursday, February 19.

MAKE A TRIP TO THE CANAL.

Secretary Taft Has Wish to View the Work.

May Go Before Congress Begins Sessions.

Ocean Race of Warships. Cabinet Discussion.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Simultaneously with the fact that the President had determined to continue the supervision of canal matters under the War Department for the present, at least, it is announced that Secretary Taft will take a trip to the Isthmus at some date between this time and the assembling of Congress for the purpose of looking over the situation. The date of his departure is not yet determined. Col. Clarence Edwards, it is said, will probably accompany him.

Recently, Secretary Taft called upon the Bureau of Insular Affairs to furnish an account of the expenditures made in behalf of the canal up to the present time and an estimate of the amount of money required to round out the fiscal year. A memorandum was furnished him, but as it lacked a number of details which he regarded as essential, the bureau has set at work upon a more complete statement.

IMPORTANT CABINET MEETING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Several important questions were discussed at today's Cabinet meeting, although, at the conclusion of the session, it was announced officially that no details of the discussion could be made public. In fact, it was announced that hereafter no information would be given out by Cabinet officers of their semi-weekly meetings with the President, but that such information as it was deemed proper for the public to have would be given to the newspaper men by Secretary Loeb.

Despite the injunction of secrecy, it is learned that action was taken on two or three important matters and that others were considered. The monopoly enjoyed by the Merchants' Bridge Company of St. Louis of bridge and ferry routes across the Mississippi River was considered at length. The Attorney-General made the following statement of the action taken: "It was determined by the President that, upon the complaint pending in the Department of Justice against the monopolization of the two bridges and the ferry across the Mississippi into St. Louis, appropriate action should be begun by the Attorney-General."

Moody said he could not say at this time what action he might consider appropriate.

After discussion in the Cabinet meeting regarding the Chinese emigration to this country, it was determined that no changes or modifications in conflict with instructions to United States consuls contained in the circular issued several months ago by the President's direction will be made. It was definitely decided that the management of the Isthmian canal should remain under Secretary Taft.

Secretary Wilson brought to the attention of the President and the Cabinet a determination he had reached regarding the inspection of meats. He indicated that under the law, ment packers could not be forced to pay the cost of meat inspection. He had decided, however, that hereafter the packers should pay for the seals or tags placed upon inspected meats intended for export. This will bring a revenue to the Department of Agriculture of nearly $50,000 a year. This sum the Secretary proposes to expend in extending the inspection of meats to packing-houses which have requested that they be given inspectors, but whose requests have not been complied with because the department had not had the funds with which to pay the inspectors.

The idea of Secretary Wilson was approved by the Cabinet, and it will be put into operation at once.

Upon leaving the White House, today, after the session of the Cabinet, Attorney-General Moody said: "It was determined by the President that upon the complaint pending in the Department of Justice against the monopolization of the bridges and the ferry across the Mississippi into St. Louis, appropriate action should be taken by the Attorney-General.

UNADULTERATED GOODS.

EUROPE WATCHING EXPORTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture today made public the report of Dr. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, concerning his investigation in Europe of the production of food products for export to the United States. He concludes his report with this statement:

"Everywhere I found manufacturers and merchants intensely interested in the inspection laws of this country, and in most cases they are endeavoring to the very best of their ability to conform to the provisions of the law.

"The law and its regulations and enforcement have had a most salutary effect upon trade relations. We are getting in this country now better and purer goods, and the result will not be, as was expected, a diminution in the volume of trade, but, on the contrary, a large increase. Thus commerce and trade between us and foreign countries will be facilitated."

PHILADELPHIA'S "MACHINE."

NO SUPPORT FROM CABINET.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Efforts on the part of the Republican organization of Philadelphia to enlist the aid of the national administration in its fight for continued control are destined to failure. The organization is now engaged in a desperate struggle with independent Republicans under the leadership of Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia.

The leaders of the organization invited members of the President's Cabinet to go to Philadelphia to make speeches for their ticket. The recipients, it is understood, will make excuses for declining them. This will be done with the advice of the President and Secretary Root. Secretaries Shaw and Taft have both been invited by Senator Penrose to speak.

PRESIDENT'S OCEAN RACE.

SQUADRON'S FORCED DRAUGHT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] On his return voyage from New Orleans at the close of his southern trip, the latter part of this month, the President will enjoy one of the greatest ocean races ever run, in which he will be practically the only spectator, as well as judge, time keeper and referee.

After the flagship West Virginia has replenished her coal bunkers at Key West, the squadron, the largest, speediest and best-equipped ships in the navy, will enter upon a race of 1200 miles under forced draught.

PROMOTION FOR RUSSELL.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The President today appointed Charles W. Russell, formerly special Assistant Attorney-General in charge of the Insular Bureau of the Department of Justice to the office of Assistant Attorney-General, vice William D. Purdy, recently promoted to the position of assistant to the Attorney-General. The position of special Assistant Attorney-General, formerly held by Russell, has been abolished.

ARMY'S HEALTH MUCH IMPROVED.

EXHAUSTIVE REPORT MADE BY SURGEON-GENERAL O'REILLY.

By Far the Most Important Diseases Affecting the Men Have Been Those Resulting from Immoral Habits—How Soldiers Met Their Deaths. High Proportion for Alcoholism.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Surgeon-General R. M. O'Reilly of the army has submitted an exhaustive report on the health conditions of the army to Secretary Taft. The report says that the enlisted strength of the army, as shown upon the monthly sick reports, was 58,740 and on the returns of the military secretary, 60,139, and calculations are made upon the latter figures. There were 79,586 "admissions to the sick report," during the year; 406 deaths from all causes and 1377 discharged for disability.

The figures, he says, show a steady and progressive improvement in the health of the army. The report says that by far the most important diseases affecting the efficiency of the army during the year have been those resulting from immoral habits, which caused 16 per cent. of all admissions. This class of diseases advanced from third to first place in number of admissions to the sick report. There were constantly on sick report for this class of diseases 715 men, equal to the loss for the entire year of the services of eleven full companies of infantry.

"The control of these diseases," says Gen. O'Reilly, "lies largely in the hands of the civic authorities, and one of the most important steps to that end would appear to be classing them with other infectious diseases and the requirement that they shall be reported as such and controlled by health departments.

"In the military service, a similar course should be followed."

As to causes of death, pneumonia advanced to first place and tuberculosis to second.

"There were 206 admissions for gunshot wounds, with 44 deaths, and 2850 admissions for wounds other than gunshot, with 15 deaths. Twenty-one men were killed in action and 42 wounded. Of the killed, 2 were by gunshot; of the Wounded, 23 were by gunshot. There were 45 soldiers drowned, 11 per cent. of the total deaths from all causes, indicating how important it is that all soldiers should have systematic instruction in swimming. Twenty-seven soldiers committed suicide; 11 deaths were due to homicide.

"Notwithstanding that a large part of the army was serving in the tropics, there were no admissions for snake bites."

The strength of officers was 3421 for the medical department reports and 2815 from the military secretary. There were 2206 admissions, 27 deaths.

Comparison with foreign armies shows that the highest rate of admissions is in the American army and the lowest in the Russian. The highest death rate was in the American army and the lowest in the Prussian. The highest non-effective rate was in the American army and the lowest in the Prussian. Regarding these facts, Gen O'Reilly says:

"The very high proportion for alcoholism in the American army, as compared with that of the British army, is clearly due to the fact that, in the latter service, only admission to the hospital are counted. It is notable that while the British have less than half the American admission for dysentery, their death rate is practically the same, and that while their ratio of admission for malaria is about the sanie, their death rate is nearly three times as great. The American admission rate for malaria is nearly eighty times that of the French, while the death rate is only five times as great. These facts point to difference in the method of computing admissions. The figures for measles and mumps compare very unfavorably with other armies except the French.

"The comparatively high American death rate for tuberculosis is explained by the fact that, in the United States army, tuberculosis patients are sent to a sanitarium and retained in service for long periods, while in other armies they are promptly discharged. The high admission rate is no doubt due to the present defective system of medical examination of recruits. The undue prevalence of typhoid fever in the army is partly explainable by its undue prevalence in the civil communities where the troops are stationed, as a result of general failure to purify water and sewers in American municipalities. Notable is the absence of smallpox in the Prussian, Bavarian and Dutch armies. More care in vaccination would give like results in other services."

The strength of the army in the Philippines was 11,996, and there were 20,246 admissions to the sick report and 165 deaths. The strength of the Filipino troops was 4610, and there were 5242 admissions and 103 deaths.

Wrecked Steamer St. Paul Cannot be Saved.

Many Passengers Have Arrived in San Francisco.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—With hardly a chance of holding together the balance of the day, the wrecked steamer St. Paul, ashore at Point Gorda, is slowly but surely pounding to pieces. While the position of the vessel is reported unchanged since last night at dark, as far as can be judged from shore the incessant pounding on the rocks has damaged her considerably and it would create no surprise to receive a report any moment that she had gone to pieces. The officers of the vessel were afraid of this from the moment she struck the rocks, all hands fearing she would turn turtle. It was for this reason that three boats were sent out, but later the stern swung in toward the beach and the danger was past. The captain of the St. Paul expressed surprise to learn this morning that the steamer had not yet gone to pieces.

It is out of the question to think of saving anything from the wreck. It lies in twelve feet of water, with rocks all around; and, with the heavy sea that is running now, no craft of any size can approach within a mile or two without danger of striking the rocks. The vessel sets low in the water, bottom punctured and her hold full of water.

Capt. Randall of the wrecked steamer attributes the disaster to the thick weather. The ship ran into a fog bank as Point Gorda was approached. The master of the unfortunate steamer stated that Third Officer Holmes was on the bridge at the time the vessel struck.

The steamer Pomona arrived here today with fifty-one passengers and members of the crew of the stranded steamer. All report that they have experienced no extreme discomfort. Among those arriving is Third Officer Holmes. He refused to talk about the wreck until he had seen the agents of the vessel.

The statements of the passengers praise the bravery of officers and crew. All agree that, though they suffered considerable hardship, they consider themselves fortunate to have escaped with their lives.

PASSENGERS AT EUREKA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

EUREKA, Oct. 6.—The greater number of the passengers are in Eureka, having arrived on the tug Ranger of Eureka and the steamer Vanguard. The captain and most of the crew are in Eureka. Capt. Randall states that the disaster was due to the fog and attaches blame to no one.

The vessel was on her usual course and the weather was clear until Point Gorda was approached. The first warning of danger was the roar of the surf, when Third Officer Holmes immediately changed the ship's course. A moment later, she struck, bow first.

Capt. Randall was just about to get up and take a look around when the ship struck. The shock awakened the passengers and the watch below. Considering the circumstances, there was unusualy good order preserved among all on board, says the captain, and there was no panic or unnecessary confusion.

At 7 o'clock, a small boat was sent to the lightship off Blunt's Reef, in order that any passing steamer might be signaled. Later, a second boat was picked up by the Vanguard, which turned around and went to the rescue. The Vanguard arrived at the scene of the disaster about 2 o'clock and immediately began transferring passengers, three small boats plying between her and the St. Paul, carrying passengers. The life-saving crew took off eighteen passengers and transferred them to the Ranger.

When the ship was deserted the Ranger started toward Eureka and the Vanguard soon followed. The Ranger met the steamer Pomona a short distance out from the lightship and permitted all but five passengers to board her. Many people were gathered at the wharf to receive any who might have been in distress.

As many passengers as can find accommodations will continue the voyage to Portland, on the steamer Alliance, which will sail from here this afternoon. The Alliance cannot carry all, however, and arrangements for the remainder will be made.

The women passengers suffered much from exposure and a number of them fainted when they realized their peril.

THE ALAMEDA FLOATED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO Oct. 6—The steamer Alameda, which since last Saturday, has been grounded on the rocks near Fort Point, is tonight moored at Pacific-street wharf and workmen are busy removing 300 tons of cargo remaining in her hold. Today, divers went into her hold and repaired with plates the damage done to her hull when she crashed upon the reef in the fog. At 4 o'clock, powerful pumps started to remove the water below deck and at 6:20 o'clock tonight she was floated and towed to her wharf. It is said that the damage is not so great as at first supposed and that her stay in the dry dock for repairs will not be of long duration.

COLLISION DURING FOG.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—The steamer Brooklyn, which arrived here this morning from Eureka, reports that at 2 a.m., during a dense fog off Point Reyes, she was in collision with the steamer San Gabriel, bound from San Pedro for Umpqua, and had her rail and bulwarks on the starboard side from the guard up carried away.

ARMY NURSES GIVEN TRIBUTE.

RECEPTION IS HELD FOR THE MINISTERING ANGELS.

Women's Relief Corps is Host at Luncheon and Entertainment for Surviving Remnants of Brave Body That Saw Valiant Service in Civil War—Early Days Recalled.

To brave women whose motherly care soothed and comforted many a dying boy on the field of battle or in army hospitals during the bloody days of the Civil War, there was extended a reception yesterday afternoon in Los Angeles by the members of Stanton Post Women's Relief Corps. It was the annual tribute to the Army Nurses' Association of Southern California, of which there are twenty-two members in this vicinity who held commissions, as well as a number who were not commissioned—the wives of surgeons, and others.

The reception was held in the rooms of the W.R.C., No. 125½ South Spring street, where a luncheon was served at noon, followed by a programme of music and addresses. Of the local members of the nurses' association, twenty were present, the two absentees being "Mother" Eleanor Ransom, the oldest member of the society, now over 90 years of age, and too feeble to appear, and "Grandma" Call.

About fifty members of Stanton Post, G.A.R., were present by invitation, and Mrs. Maud T. McCullough of Auburn, Cal., department president of the Women's Relief Corps, who is here on an inspection tour, was a guest.

Mrs. Alice A. Fitch, past president of Stanton Corps, was chairman of the day, being introduced by Mrs. Matilda S. Coleman, the president. Addresses were made by Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Mary E. Hartwell, past department president, Capt. Thomas Osgood of Stanton Post, and others, while many of the nurses gave reminiscences of days of strife, in which they had been so active and so helpful.

Other features of the entertainment were vocal selections by Misses Fisher, Ruth Allen Yerger and Florence Barker.

Portraits of George Washington were given as souvenirs of the occasion.

By request, Mrs. Fitch read a poem which was written for her by Mrs. Ella A. Otis eighteen years ago, and read at the first reception ever held by Stanton Corps, of which Mrs. Fitch then was president. Of those present at that first reception only four were in attendance yesterday.

WHAT MEMORY SHOWS US.

We go in silence backward through the years,
Memory leads us, crowned with the starlight
Of tender thoughts. There are tears within her
Eyes, and her lids are heavy with sorrows
Unforgotten. What sees she? Where leadeth
Her? Look! Listen!
'Tis spring in the warm South.
Soft breezes stir weighted with perfumed Sweets.
The bulbul sings in the forest that fringes
The warm sunset. The rivers run on with Happy laughter to meet the smiling sea.
In the cotton fields the negro labors.
The sun burns him, and the master's whip
Stings.
Him. His breath sweeps aching heartstrings.
He lifts
His eyes and wonders if God sees. He sees
Men bought and sold and wonders if God hears
The cry of tortured hearts. Chains clank where Men
Are sold like cattle. Does God hear?
Fronting
The sun-warmed sea, throated with cannon, are Black walls of Sumter. The fort is Freedom's
Watching the land. Within, with pulse
Which
Echoes across the continent, Loyalty
Looks at the guns. Morn sees the Stripes and Stars
Waft their glorious colors with her
Air. But from the pregnant womb of the Air
Is bunting the fort, Treason, full-grown,
Has leaped. Its breath is fire. Its heart is Hate.
For, the Stars and Bars. Its drink, the Blood of freemen.
God has heard the slave. The Guns thunder. Across the water they Hail their fire on Sumter. Smoke wraps the Fort.
Dead the loyal heroes. Not firmer
The day of Thermopylae. They shot back
Striking cannon. With leaden ball, with Bursting shot, with bursting shell, defy the Foe. The Nation, as with one eye, watches;
With one ear, hears. Through all the loyal
Thousands of hearts beat as one when Fear fails. From the forge comes the sturdy
Smith, with arms brawny enough to bear
Shield of Hercules. From his desk the Clerk his brows knit with weightier problem
Than his columned figures. From his store
Merchant, clasping his musket. From the Pulpit the man of science and the young Man grasping the sword. From the pulpit
Men of God, armed with the love of right
Only for the loaded ball. From the Field the farmer and the laborer, their Quickening like drums to the music of Fife. The mother kisses her son and Gives to his country. The wife's heart is Torn by the sharp clutch of sorrow, and
Her breast, but her words drop blessing
Patience, and the breath of courage
Softly feels upon his cheek as her
Kiss on him farewell. The maiden smiles
Upon her lover, but as she bids
Him the word sounds like a death-knell to Her hopes.
Later, the little children lift
Clasped hands and cry for papa, but the Hall is still, for papa has gone. In the Night time rings over the sound of battle.
Dreams are of death and white faces
Upward to the stars, but she does not
Dismay the maiden, like a lily
Upon its stalk, fades with longing and Pining, but no word is sent to her
To awaken his courage.
And so
With our armies. Under the stars they Camp under the sun they fought. Footsore and Weary marched. Fronting long lines of Dead
Find bayonets, rushed onto the
Death smoke poisoning the air; with fire
Flame and Death marching before
Still they pressed on.
Oh, the armies of
Oh, the breathless bivouacs where not Prayed, nor a pulse stirred—where Stars, where the brave sleep, and Both went! Oh, the homes where Waited
Whose each step on some heart! These Graves as we walk today
Beneath white-robed Peace, and birds
Sing
And no more above the smoke of Fires where green grasses wave to hide
Scars made by War's red plowshare, and Planting of her robes the whisper
Bring our hearts with its electric
Life, and thick-sown with heroes'
Graves should bring forth
Nations. The Nation's purposes
Grow straight up to heaven, as trees
Remember the brave who died to Keep of their country, and guard
Well their loved.

Side Talks By The Office Boy

Many a man has been arrested for forgery, simply because he tried to make a name for himself. Did you ever notice that when a man's sins find him out, they usually hang around until he comes in. I guess the most failures in this world can be attributed to the fact that the man used blank cartridges when firing at the target of success. I think keeping everlastingly at it is what put the Silverwood stores away ahead of the bunch. Can you go into any store west of New York and find as good a hat for $3 as the Silverwood? Well, I guess not. Still there are thousands of stores that sell $3 hats. A $3 hat don't mean anything; lots of people sell hats at that price that the manufacturer never intended should be retailed for more than $2, but when you get a Silverwood and compare it with a $4 hat of any other make, is when you begin to realize that the name "Silverwood" in a hat means something. We've got our new fall Silverwood hats on sale at all of our stores. We've also got our fall stock of Stetson hats on sale. Today and tonight should mark the opening of the fall hat selling. We'll be open till 11 o'clock tonight at both stores. Come in and get a new hat to replace that straw hat you're wearing.

MOORE GRAFT STILL WORKS.

Ex-Convict "General" Again Begs and Receives.

Public, Many Times Warned, Yet Gives Money.

Smooth Human Jackal Preys on the Charitable.

There are certain plagues that, once they get a foothold, it is almost impossible to root out.

This is notably the case with the "itch" and one "General" Moore. Moore has been advertised as an ex-convict and all-around cheap grafter, entitled to be known as a lying beggar until it seems almost incredible that he can secure a dollar from the people of Los Angeles.

The real likelihood is that money flows slowly to his mendicant maw, but he nevertheless shows a subscription book containing the names of well-known people as contributors in considerable amounts.

Not long since he was closed out by the constable at his Fourth-street rookery to satisfy honest debts, and it was thought he would shake the dust of the city off his feet. One difficulty in the way of this much-to-be-desired deliverance is the fact that at the same time he got into trouble with his creditors in Los Angeles he was also being run down by creditors in San Francisco.

The miserable human jackal had not where to hide his discredited face, so, feeling that he is as safe in Los Angeles, where suckers seem to be plentiful, as anywhere else, he has remained here.

Yesterday he appeared at a grocery store on East Seventh street and, displaying his book, asked for a subscription. W. D. Osgood, the proprietor, took his book and examined it and saw there names he recognized as those of well-known citizens, opposite whose names were sums running as high as $15.

Moore was soliciting in the same old name of the "Union Rescue Army," and was inclined to deny his identity, by appearing not to hear a question as to what his name was. Mr. Osgood turned to the back of Moore's book and there discovered the name written, and Moore was compelled to own up.

"Well," said Mr. Osgood, "if I had received as much notoriety at the hands of The Times as you have I would keep out of sight."

The reply of the hypocritical scoundrel was worthy the man.

"We are Christian people, you know," he said, "and we have to bear these things. If it was not for this, I'd make it hot for the newspapers."

Mr. Osgood was inclined to further quiz Moore, but the latter hastily left the store, not appreciating the prodding he was getting.

Moore is a short, heavy-set fellow, looking specially well qualified for a pick-wielder, and should be given such a chilly reception that he would be compelled to go to work to gain an honest living. The police have every reason to arrest him as a "healthy beggar," under the statutes of California, and he should no longer be permitted to prey upon the charitable people of the city. The latter, in their eagerness to see to it that no worthy person suffers for the common necessaries of life, have contributed thousands of dollars to Moore, and we have the testimony of several of his employés who have been cheated out of their promised wages, that every cent of it went into Moore's pockets and he never in all his career gave a free bed or a free meal to any man, no matter how pathetic his condition. On the contrary he bodily threw such applicants down his stairway.

It is also reported from another source that "Captain" Wilhite, he who attached Moore's former "hotel" to get his pay for work, is attempting to run a place of the same character, and while he has the privilege of doing so if he can make it pay, he has no right to solicit from the public.

The Salvation Army, the Volunteers of America, the Bethlehem Institution and the Good Samaritan Mission fill all the necessary wants in this direction, and the people should be on their guard against Grafter Moore, who is worse than a common thief.

HER VICTIMS ARE NUMEROUS.

FEMALE BURGLAR'S BOOTY IS BEING IDENTIFIED.

Arrest of Mrs. Nellie Davis and Discovery of Much Rich Loot Due to Shrewdness of One of Her Victims—Capture May Explain Many Burglaries.

Through the identification of Mrs. Alice George of No. 914 West Fifth street, the Police Department believes the arrest Thursday night of Mrs. Nellie Davis will result in an explanation of numerous mysterious burglaries.

Mrs. Davis carried considerably more jewelry than she could comfortably display, some sixteen diamonds and three watches, and claimants for a number of the rings have appeared to identify their property and the woman.

On July 17 the home of Mrs. George was invaded by a woman, who, she declares, was Mrs. Davis. Mrs. George discovered the woman moving about in her home and, demanding an explanation for the unseemly conduct, was informed by the visitor that she was in search of rooms. The explanation was given in apparent good faith and with an air of authority which seemed to fit with the expensive garments worn by the intruder.

Nothing was thought of the incident until, a few hours later, the discovery was made that a diamond ring had mysteriously disappeared during the woman's visit. The matter was reported to the authorities and Mrs. George was requested to keep a close watch for the woman. While walking down Broadway she noticed "Mrs. Davis" emerge from a drug store, and the woman's arrest subsequently followed. Mrs. George had ample time to study the features of her uninvited visitor and is positive in the identity of the woman now under arrest.

Mrs. S. Lambert of No. 516 South Figueroa street received a call from a woman whom she believes to be Mrs. Davis on July 17, the same day that the George home was robbed, and some days ago reported the matter to the police, a diamond ring having been missed after the pretended roomer had departed.

A watch valued at $35 found in the possession of the Davis woman has been identified by Mrs. E. M. Shyland of No. 534 Pico street.

The large quantity of jewelry found in Mrs. Davis's possession leads the authorities to believe that many more persons, who have not yet reported the disappearance of valuables, will appear to claim their property.

CHARGE OF INDECENCY.

Humiliating Act of Former Methodist Preacher Brings Reproach Upon the Sacred Calling.

Complaints have come to the police for several days that a man who had rented a room in a house at Amelia and Ducommun streets had been acting suspiciously and had been caught in the act of attempting to entice little girls into his room while they were on their way to the Amelia-street school.

Yesterday Policeman Berchtold went to the place and watched the house and discovered a man at the window in a compromising attitude. The policeman without ceremony rushed at the house, jumped in through the window and captured the fellow before he could recover himself.

The prisoner gave his name as Johnson, but letters in his pocket indicated that his name is William Dinwoodie, a former Methodist preacher, and he later acknowledged his identity. Dinwoodie is a native of Canada and came to Southern California in 1896 and supplied small churches in the Fresno district, as a local preacher, but in 1902 he fell into disrepute with the conference and was retired for incompetence. His was probably one of those cases tried behind closed doors, and the public never got the facts. If they had it is likely the church would now be spared some humiliation, for at the recent conference Dinwoodie appealed to the authorities for something to do, and was employed as a supply by Presiding Elder Green of the Fresno district, to go to the Lakeside charge, though of course he had not yet gone to the field.

There was almost nothing in the room occupied by Dinwoodie when arrested, but such things as were there were of a compromising nature. He will be arraigned before Justice Austin this morning.

Dr. Green was much chagrined when spoken to last night, and scarcely knew what to think, but he expressed the opinion that the man must be out of his head.

SNOWED UNDER BY INDICTMENTS.

ALSO BY MESSAGES OF SYMPATHY IN "BEREAVEMENT."

Grand Jury at Peoria Still Busy Probing Financial Ways of Educator Dougherty, Who is Alleged to Have Embezzled Hundreds of Thousands in School Funds.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PEORIA (Ill.) Oct. 6.—A total of thirteen indictments have thus far been returned against Newton C. Dougherty, City Superintendent of Schools and president of the Peoria National Bank. Ten of them are for embezzlement and three for forgery. Forty more are being drawn by the State's Attorney's office. It was announced from that office today that the total would reach more than two hundred. The bill required for those thus far returned is $12,700.

Dougherty is in receipt of messages from all over the country expressing sympathy and belief in his innocence.

According to a statement made by a member of the grand jury today, hundreds of pieces of school script, which, it is alleged, has been changed after being signed by the president of the school board, are missing.

A committee appointed by the school board to continue the investigation after the grand jury gets through, announced through its chairman, J. S. Stevens, today, that it would go back over the books of the board for twenty years.

In some cases both stubs and vouchers are missing, representing, according to the cash books, large amounts.

Edward J. Schnebly, discount and exchange clerk at the Peoria National Bank, the man who first discovered the irregularities in Dougherty's method of handling school funds, made a statement today. He said:

"I took charge of the individual books at the bank seven years ago. Shortly thereafter, I began to notice the queer methods Mr. Dougherty had of handling the funds of the Peoria school board. He would make checks payable to various local firms and give his personal check for a smaller amount. I called the attention of the bank officials to this state of affairs and was informed that it was none of my business. I was then transferred to the discount and change department.

HOW HE DID IT.

"Mr. Dougherty's dealing were carried on as follows: He would bring in checks for large amounts, payable in most instances to a school furniture firm in Chicago or a plumbing firm in St. Louis. With these checks he would purchase New York, Chicago or St. Louis exchange, made payable to his own order. Upon examination of the indorsements on the drafts, I found that in many instances they had been used in his private business affairs. In some cases he would indorse the names of local firms on the draft without their knowledge, putting his own initials under the signature.

"I laid the matter before Mr. Cook, the national bank examiner for this district. Upon his advice, I laid the matter before the Attorney-General at Springfield. He advised me to take it to the State's Attorney of Peoria county, which I did. I also laid the matter before S. F. C. Spring, cashier of the bank. Transactions of that kind then ceased. In explaining them to me, Mr. Dougherty said that he kept three sets of funds, in New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

"When I was called before the grand jury there were exhibited many changed checks. In one instance, a check which was charged to the school fund had been raised from $24 to $2460. The stub showed $24. Another was drawn for $2750. The stub, which had originally read $27, had been raised to $2750. The last two figures on the stub were in green ink, the first two in black.

KILLS BURGLAR BEHIND TREE.

ANOTHER HOMICIDE IN FRESNO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

FRESNO, Oct. 6—Henry Martin, who has been under surveillance, but concerning whom little is known, was shot and killed this morning in the Elsen Vineyard on the banks of Fancher Creek by Giles McGee, who owns a road house store in Temperance colony, five miles out of town. Martin was surprised in a burglary and the theft of a sack containing $40. In the pursuit, he took to the vineyard and from behind the fork of a tree fired at his pursuers.

Several shots were sent after him in the chase of about four hundred yards. Giles McGee, who is a crack shot, fired a rifle at the tree fork, and the burglar dropped dead. The McGee brothers then carted the body to town and to the morgue. The money sack was recovered and on the person of the fugitive was found a set of burglar's tools. Martin was shot in the right shoulder from the front, the bullet striking downward, evidently tearing through vital organs and finally emerging. Giles McGee was not placed under arrest.

The homicide is the third in Fresno this week.

MISS CAMERON MISLED.

NO WARRANT FOR LEW JEW.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6.—There is a possibility that Gov. Chamberlain of Oregon will refuse to issue a warrant of arrest for Lew Jew, the Chinese girl for whom requisition papers have been issued on a charge of grand larceny, as Gov. Pardee has received additional information that leads him to the belief that it is a trumped-up charge.

He issued the papers on the assurances of Miss Cameron, of the Presbyterian Mission in San Francisco, and Assemblyman Nathan Coughlin of San Francisco that it was a bona-fide case of theft. Miss Cameron, after an additional investigation, says she thinks she was misled and she now recommends that Gov. Chamberlain refuse the warrant.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6.—Requisition papers have been received from the Governor of Illinois requesting a warrant of arrest for a man named John Richardson, alias Valley O'John, alias James Snow, wanted on a charge of murder. Frank Woods Confesses.

SAN QUENTIN, Oct. 6.—Frank Woods, alias "St. Louis Frank," was executed in the State prison today for the murder of Policeman Eugene Robinson in San Francisco three years ago. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—D. B. Blossom, a drayman, was arrested today on complaint of D. S. Took Painter's Watch.

"Say, this is a pretty good looking sort of a house, isn't it?" questioned a stranger of B. Volkner, a painter who was at work on a new residence near Wilshire and Virgil streets yesterday afternoon. Volkner assured his questioner that he was not the owner and proceeded with his work. When the stranger was about to step through a window with the contents of Volkner's vest, however, the latter discovered that he was being made the victim of a bit of smooth, small talk and gave chase to the robber. The thief made his escape, carrying with him Volkner's watch.

Caught With the Goods.

J. Hogan and T. Valdez went into the clothing store of Norton Brothers at No. 146 North Main street last evening and began an inspection of numerous articles. They awaited a suitable opportunity for the execution of their nicely laid plans and attempted to get away with two pairs of trousers. The attempted theft was discovered and Officer McGann captured the thieves.

House Burglarized.

The home of Deputy City Assessor R. E. Davis at No. 517 Brent street was burglarized yesterday some time between the hours of 11 o'clock a.m. and 5 o'clock p.m. The thieves gained entrance to the house through a rear window, and ransacked the clothes closets and drawers in every room of the house. A new suit of clothes worth $30 and a $5 pair of shoes were taken. Silverware worth much more was overlooked, and several suits of underclothes were stolen. The police have been notified and a lookout will be kept on the pawnshops, as it is believed the thieves will try to dispose of their stolen articles through these channels.

THOMAS FACES AN UGLY SIEGE.

FORMER FOREST SUPERVISOR'S REAL TROUBLES BEGIN.

Rangers Summoned to Tell of Manner in Which He Conducted Fire-fighting, in Connection With Which Charges Have Been Made—Politics Said to be at Bottom of Accusations.

Everett B. Thomas, former local supervisor of the San Gabriel and San Bernardino forest reserves, faces a serious siege in defending himself against charges of his conduct of the office during his incumbency. Forest rangers have been summoned to Los Angeles from various parts of the reserve to appear before the Federal grand jury now in session and tell what they know of Thomas's administration.

Thomas was removed several months ago on charges, the main one of which is said to have been that he absented himself from his post without leave.

Back of this there are said to be more serious accusations, among them being that he made false reports of the number of men engaged in fighting fires in the reserves. In some cases, it is alleged, more men were shown on the pay rolls than actually were employed. Bills for supplies also were "padded," it is charged.

Since Thomas was dropped, there has been an investigation of the various statements, conducted by government inspectors. R. H. Charlton has been in charge as acting supervisor for several months, having been sent here from Washington.

Thomas declares he has nothing to fear from any inquiry that may be made into his conduct of the office. While there may have been technical irregularities, he says these were occasioned by the exigencies of the occasion—the necessity of adopting extreme measures to obtain men on short notice to fight mountain fires, and the need of keeping the men after they were secured. He declares his ability to show a record clear of any intention of wrongdoing.

At the seat of the entire trouble is said to lie a political plot to oust Thomas from his office, in great part to appease the animosity of Congressman McLachlan, whose enmity the former supervisor has incurred.

Thomas refused to run with the political "machine" and thereby made enemies among its supporters. He also had made it warm for Col. B. F. Allen, his predecessor in charge of the office, and Allen has had a long-standing threat that he would have the scalp of the young supervisor.

CIRCUS VISITS TINIEST TOWN.

EXHIBITS AT DON LUIS BECAUSE IT IS SO FLAT.

Population Less Than Seventy-five Souls, but Others Swelled Number for Day—Douglas Votes to Grant Franchises That Promise Gas and Modern Electric Car Service.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

BISBEE (Ariz.) Oct. 5.—The Barnum & Bailey circus exhibited in the smallest town wherein its tents ever have been pitched. The show was at Don Luis, which was well boomed a year ago by a Los Angeles realty firm, but which now has less than seventy-five inhabitants, enlarged for the day by 1000 circus folk and many spectators. The reason of all this was the utter impossibility of finding level ground in all Bisbee for the needs of the show. So the tents had to be put up at Don Luis, three miles from Bisbee, where commences a broad plain that stretches away into Mexico, miles in extent. Don Luis was named after Louis Williams, formerly one of the managers of the Copper Queen Company, now a resident of Los Angeles.

DOUGLAS PERKS UP.

Douglas declared by popular vote Tuesday for the granting of franchises to companies that will supply the city with gas and with modern electric street car service. The vote for these improvements was not much greater than the vote against, but the progressive element prevailed. The street railway company already has ordered several thirty-eight-foot cars and will be building track within two weeks.

DISCOURAGING SEARCH.

A letter just received from Ed Grindell gives no hope that he will find his missing brother alive. He has found that Thomas Grindell and party were in the Mexican mainland, opposite Tiburon Island, on June 24 (San Juan's Day.) This information he secured from a Papago who had guided them that far. The Americans had not been upon the island for did they seem to have any inclination to land upon it. They told the guide they would work their way back slowly to Hermosillo, the first water back from the coast is thirty-six miles distant.

Ed. Grindell believes the men lost on the trail and perished in the sandy wastes. He has started with a well equipped expedition, guided by the Papago, to take up the trail at the same point where his brother last was seen. He writes in highest praise of the courtesy he has received from the Mexican officials and states his belief that he will return to Hermosillo between the 10th and 15th of October.

STRAYS FROM THE RANGE.

Several years ago McNally's young son was killed at Douglas, by firing a rifle at a metal cylinder in which reposed several ounces of nitroglycerine.

Rafael Salcido, a Mexican hand on the Southwestern Railroad, committed suicide near his home in Douglas by hanging himself to a railroad trestle. The body was left hanging till inspected by the Coroner. Salcido had lived with his aged mother. When the body was found in the early morning the mother was told of her loss at once. She tottered to the trestle, embrace the hanging body, clinging to it for more than an hour, talking though to a child and kissing and fondling the lifeless clay.

From Cananea several days ago came the report that George Ellis, an American newspaper solicitor, had been sentenced to eight years imprisonment for using a knife on the face of a fellow American, Homer Hitt. The motion for Ellis is much less serious. He is out under bail of $1000, silver, and will have a hearing in the court. It is expected that he will get eight jail sentence and that he may escape with only a fine. Both men had been drinking and there appears to have been provocation on the part of Ellis. Ellis has relatives in Seattle.

A. Rice, a well-respected mine man, dropped a check for $160 in Douglas saloon and started for Los Angeles with the proceeds. The check proved worthless and Rice's coast trip was cut short at Benson by the Sheriff.

Daniel McLain Brobst, a well-known business man, died Thursday night at 11 o'clock at his home, No. 757 West Seventh street.

About three years ago Mr. Brobst suffered a stroke of paralysis and had been compelled to use a wheel chair at times. He failed rapidly of late and his death was expected by Dr. H. G. Brainerd, the physician.

The attack was caused by the worry of the family to give out the news of the death, and by the earnest solicitation of a member of the household in the absence of Mr. Brobst's desire be suppressed. Dr. Brainerd, however, stated emphatically that death ensued from natural causes.

During the past fourteen years Brobst, with his wife and family, resided in Los Angeles. Prior to his residence in this city he was for many years proprietor of a large department store in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Last November Mr. and Mrs. Brobst celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The death of Brobst on Thursday night came very suddenly, and the members of the family are prostrated. Yesterday they were unable to give any details.

Though advanced in years Brobst had retained a vigorous intellect and until his death controlled his own business affairs. He was 73 years of age. He leaves a widow, two sons, Clarke and Frederic, and two daughters, Misses Mabie and Blanche Brobst.

The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at the residence.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

New House of Worship of Free Methodists to be Formally Opened Tomorrow.

The new Free Methodist Church at Hermon will be dedicated tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, and Rev. C. B. Ebey, editor of the Free Methodist, the denominational paper published in Chicago, will preach the dedicatory sermon.

The church is of artificial stone and was built at a cost of $4200. Rev. G. W. Griffith is the pastor.

About eighteen months ago this local church at Hermon was organized by Rev. W. T. Warren and since that time the congregation has worshiped in the auditorium of the Free Methodist seminary.

At the annual conference of the Southern California churches, held last June in Mineral Park, Rev. Mr. Griffith of Alameda was appointed to the pastorate of the Hermon church. Rev. Mr. Griffith was presiding elder of the California conference for four years, and for the same length of time was pastor of the Free Methodist Church at Alameda.

HORSEMAN DIES BY OWN HAND.

CHARLES C. SEAMEN ENDS HIS LIFE AT SAN DIEGO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Discouraged on account of continued ill-health, Charles C. Seamen, once a well-known race-horse man of Southern California, shot himself in the mouth here tonight and died almost instantly. He had not appeared morose or discouraged, but tonight at about 7 o'clock his nurse left the room for a few minutes and, hearing a shot, rushed back, to find his employer dead. The suicide had lived in San Diego many years and leaves a brother and a sister.

ODD FELLOWS' FINALE.

The prizes were awarded to the winning cantons by Department Commander, Gen. H. O. Brower, tonight at the grand ball, which is the finale of the Grand Encampment. It was held in the ball-room of Hotel del Coronado.

To Canton, Vallejo No. 16 belongs the honor of being the best drilled canton in the State, they having made a score of 92.9. To them goes the jeweled sword, the diamond trophy and the first cash prize in Class B for cantons of eighteen men with three officers. They won this high honor by just half of one point, however, for San Francisco Canton No. 5 of Class A made a score of 92.3. They were the only competitors in Class A, which is for cantons of twenty-four men with three officers. This canton won first prize in their class, winning $182.

Chevalier W. H. Kemp of Vallejo won the Jenks medal for the best-drilled chevalier in the State. His comrades made the hall shake with cheers for "Our Billy."

The prizes for the best showing in parade went to Cantons Watsonville, San Diego and Riverside in the order named.

The grand decoration of chivalry was conferred upon Col. James W. Harris, chief of staff to Gen. Brower, and the decoration of chivalry upon Capt. J. K. Ritter, Maj. Sloan, Capt. Welta, Capt. Foster and Chevaliers M. P. Forbes and Joseph Foster. The ceremony attendant upon this decoration was impressing but simple.

The Grand Encampment installed the officers elected Wednesday, as announced by The Times, and after adopting resolutions expressing appreciation of their reception by the citizens of San Diego adjourned to meet next year at Watsonville.

Fully five hundred uniformed chevaliers participated in the grand march tonight, which was led by Gen. Brower. The delegates will leave on their special train tomorrow morning.

BUSINESS BLOCKS SOLD.

The announcement of two important real estate transfers in this city yesterday indicates that northern capital has not as yet secured all the San Diego and San Diego county property it is looking for. The Pickwick Theater block and the Illinois block were sold yesterday to Mrs. Francis Zahn of Los Angeles, the former for $75,000 and the latter for $46,000. Both blocks are well located on Fourth street near D.

NEW LIQUOR LAW.

The Kelly codification liquor ordinance goes into effect tomorrow and all saloon keepers must get new licenses or go out of business. The ordinance prohibits all selling on Sunday, and trouble with the restaurants is anticipated.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSION.

The M street extension of the San Diego electric railway is taking shape. The ties and rails are laid for eighteen blocks. The material is on the ground to the cemetery and the work of track laying for the remaining distance will be pushed as fast as possible, and the managers of the company state their cars will be running on the new line well within the franchise time.

PACKARD TO SAIL.

The ship Benjamin Packard, which has been lying in the stream for some time without a crew, will probably get away Sunday. Capt. St. Clair has engaged a crew from San Francisco who are expected to arrive on the steamer State of California tomorrow. The ship has been ballasted and is ready for sea. The former crew on their arrival here from Baltimore demanded their discharges, and as they were in an American port were entitled to them. She will leave for Puget Sound and take on a cargo there.

"EAST OF MAIN."

Draw a Circle

From Main to Ninth—Ninth to Central—Central to First—and First to Main—and you enclose a circle of property that has unlimited prospective value.

Just a few reasons why the increase of property values in this district is being strongly accelerated:

1. The erection of the mammoth Salt Lake, South-Pacific and Santa Fe Union Depot is now practically assured
2. Double track trolley system will be built on East Seventh street, extending to Boyle Heights.
3. Immense structure being erected at Sixth and Maple for one of the largest wholesale furniture houses in the United States.
4. One of the live commercial centers of Los Angeles—one that is fairly pulsating with business activity—is the new Market at Third and Central.
5. Go and see the new Market Bank Building at the intersection of Central and Crocker. You know what the advent of this financial institution means.
6. Pasadena cars will soon run into the city to the Huntington Building via San Pedro and Sixth streets. Another great advantage for this commercial circle.
7. That part of the Seventh ward which is included in the "circle" has a population of 24,000—the most densely populated section of Los Angeles.
8. The Seventh ward will derive great financial advantages from the big manufacturing district east of Central.

Dollars planted almost anywhere in Los Angeles will bring satisfactory results—but there is every reason to believe that property within the circle will actually DOUBLE IN VALUE in 24 months. Too optimistic? No. This is a conservative statement based upon our long experience and a knowledge of actual existing conditions.

CIRCUS VISITS TINIEST TOWN.

EXHIBITS AT DON LUIS BECAUSE IT IS SO FLAT.

Population Less Than Seventy-five Souls, but Others Swelled Number for Day—Douglas Votes to Grant Franchises That Promise Gas and Modern Electric Car Service.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.] BISBEE (Ariz.) Oct. 5.—The Barnum & Bailey circus exhibited in the smallest town wherein its tents ever have been pitched. The show was at Don Luis, which was well boomed a year ago by a Los Angeles realty firm, but which now has less than seventy-five inhabitants, enlarged for the day by the circus folk and many spectators. The reason of all this was the utter impossibility of finding level ground in all Bisbee for the needs of the show, so the tents had to be put up at Don Luis, three miles from Bisbee, where commences a broad plain that stretches away into Mexico, miles in extent. Don Luis was named after Louis Williams, formerly one of the managers of the Copper Queen Company, now a resident of Los Angeles.

DOUGLAS PERKS UP.

Douglas declared by popular vote Tuesday for the granting of franchises to companies that will supply the city with gas and with modern electric street car service. The vote for these improvements was not much greater than the vote against, but the progressive element prevailed. The street railway company already has ordered seventy thirty-eight-foot cars and will be building track within two weeks.

DISCOURAGING SEARCH.

A letter just received from Ed Grindell gives no hope that he will find his missing brother alive. He has found that Thomas Grindell and party were on the Mexican mainland, opposite Tiburon Island, on June 24 (San Juan's day). This information he secured from a Papago who had guided them thus far. The Americans had not been on the island nor did they seem to have any inclination to land upon it. They told the guide they would work their way back slowly to Hermosillo. The first water back from the coast is forty-six miles distant.

Ed. Grindell believes the men lost the trail and perished in the sandy wastes. He has started with a well equipped expedition, guided by the Papago, to take up the trail at the same point where his brother last was seen. He writes in highest praise of the courtesy he has received from the Mexican officials and states his belief that he will return to Hermosillo between the 12th and 15th of October.

STRAYS FROM THE RANGE.

Charles McNally, an employé of the Copper Queen smelter, was killed by a slag train near the works at Douglas. Several years ago McNally's young son was killed at Douglas, by firing a rifle at a metal cylinder in which remained several ounces of nitroglycerine.

Rafael Salcido, a section hand on the Southwestern Railroad, committed suicide near his home in Douglas by hanging himself to a railroad trestle. The body was left hanging till inspected by the Coroner. Salcido had lived with his aged mother. When the body was found in the early morning the mother was told of her loss at once. She tottered to the trestle and embrace the hanging body, clinging to it for more than an hour, talking through to a child and kissing and fondling the lifeless clay.

From Cananea several days ago came the report that George Ellis, an American newspaper solicitor, had been sentenced to eight years imprisonment for using a knife on the face of a fellow American, Homer Hitt. The situation for Ellis is much less serious. He is out under bail of $1000, silver, and will have a hearing in about a week. It is expected that he will get short jail sentence and that he may come with only a fine. Both men had been drinking and there appears to have been provocation on the part of Hitt. Ellis has relatives in Seattle.

A. Rice a well-respected mine man, dropped a check for $100 in a Douglas saloon and started for Los Angeles with the proceeds. The check proved worthless and Rice's coast trip was cut short at Benson by the Sheriff.

DEATH'S SUDDEN CALL.

McLain Brobst, Largely Interested in Mining Affairs, Expires Late in the Night.

McLain Brobst, a well-known mining man, died Thursday night at 11 o'clock at his home, No. 757 West Fourth street.

About three years ago Mr. Brobst

suffered a stroke of paralysis and had been compelled to use a wheel chair most of the time. He failed rapidly of late and his death was expected by his physician, Dr. H. G. Brainerd, the attachment was caused by the members of the family to give out the news of his death, and by the earnest request of a member of the household the publication of Mr. Brobst's demise be suppressed. Dr. Brainerd, however, stated emphatically that death ensued from natural causes.

During the past fourteen years Brobst, with his wife and family, resided in Los Angeles. Prior to his residence in this city he was for many years proprietor of a large department store in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Last November Mr. and Mrs. Brobst celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The death of Brobst on Thursday night came very suddenly, and the members of the family are prostrated. Yesterday they were unable to give any details.

Though advanced in years Brobst had retained a vigorous intellect and until his death controlled his own business affairs. He was 73 years of age. He leaves a widow, two sons, Clarke and Frederic, and two daughters, Misses Mable and Blanche Brobst.

The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at the residence.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

New House of Worship of Free Methodists to be Formally Opened Tomorrow.

The new Free Methodist Church at Hermon will be dedicated tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, and Rev. C. B. Ebey, editor of the Free Methodist, the denominational paper published in Chicago, will preach the dedicatory sermon.

The church is of artificial stone and was built at a cost of $4200. Rev. G. W. Griffith is the pastor.

About eighteen months ago this local church at Hermon was organized by Rev. W. T. Warren and since that time the congregation has worshiped in the auditorium of the Free Methodist seminary.

At the annual conference of the Southern California churches, held last June in Mineral Park, Rev. Mr. Griffith of Alameda was appointed to the pastorate of the Hermon church. Rev. Mr. Griffith was presiding elder of the California conference for four years, and for the same length of time was pastor of the Free Methodist Church at Alameda.

HORSEMAN DIES BY OWN HAND.

CHARLES C. SEAMEN ENDS HIS LIFE AT SAN DIEGO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Discouraged on account of continued ill-health, Charles C. Seamen, once a well-known race-horse man of Southern California, shot himself in the mouth here tonight and died almost instantly. He had not appeared morose or discouraged, but tonight at about 7 o'clock his nurse left the room for a few minutes and, hearing a shot, rushed back, to find his employer dead. The suicide had lived in San Diego many years and leaves a brother and a sister.

ODD FELLOWS' FINALE.

The prizes were awarded to the winning cantons by Department Commander, Gen. H. O. Brower, tonight at the grand ball, which is the finale of the Grand Encampment. It was held in the ball-room of Hotel del Coronado.

To Canton Vallejo No. 16 belongs the honor of being the best drilled canton in the State, they having made a score of 92.9. To them goes the jeweled sword, the diamond trophy and the first cash prize. In Class B for cantons of eighteen men with three officers. They won this high honor by just half of one point, however, for San Francisco Canton No. 5 of Class A made a score of 92.3. They were the only competitors in Class A, which is for cantons of twenty-four men with three officers. This canton won first prize in their class, winning $185.

Chevalier W. H. Kemp of Vallejo won the Jenks medal for the best-drilled chevalier in the State. His comrades made the hall shake with cheers for "Our Billy."

The prizes for the best showing in parade went to Cantons Watsonville, San Diego and Riverside in the order named.

The grand decoration of chivalry was conferred upon Col. James W. Harris, chief of staff to Gen. Brower, and the decoration of chivalry upon Capt. J. K. Ritter, Maj. Sloan, Capt. Welts, Capt. Foster and Chevaliers M. P. Forbes and Joseph Foster. The ceremony attendant upon this decoration was impressing but simple.

The Grand Encampment installed the officers elected Wednesday, as announced by The Times, and after adopting resolutions expressing appreciation of their reception by the citizens of San Diego adjourned to meet next year at Watsonville.

Fully five hundred uniformed chevaliers participated in the grand march tonight, which was led by Gen. Brower. The delegates will leave on their special train tomorrow morning.

BUSINESS BLOCKS SOLD.

The announcement of two important real estate transfers in this city yesterday indicates that northern capital has not as yet secured all the San Diego and San Diego county property it is looking for. The Pickwick Theater block and the Illinois block were sold yesterday to Mrs. Francis Zahn of Los Angeles, the former for $75,000 and the latter for $46,000. Both blocks are well located on Fourth street near D.

NEW LIQUOR LAW.

The Kelly codification liquor ordinance goes into effect tomorrow and all saloon keepers must get new licenses or go out of business. The ordinance prohibits all selling on Sunday, and trouble with the restaurants is anticipated.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSION.

The M street extension of the San Diego electric railway is taking shape. The ties and rails are laid for eighteen blocks. The material is on the ground to the cemetery and the work of track laying for the remaining distance will be pushed as fast as possible, and the managers of the company state their cars will be running on the new line well within the franchise time.

PACKARD TO SAIL.

The ship Benjamin Packard, which has been lying in the stream for some time without a crew, will probably get away Sunday. Capt. St. Clair has engaged a crew from San Francisco who are expected to arrive on the steamer State of California tomorrow. The ship has been ballasted and is ready for sea. The former crew on their arrival here from Baltimore demanded their discharges, and as they were in an American port were entitled to them. She will leave for Puget Sound and take on a cargo there.

"EAST OF MAIN."

Draw a Circle

From Main to Ninth—Ninth to Central—Central to First—and First to Main—and you enclose a circle of property that has unlimited prospective value.

Just a few reasons why the increase of property values in this district is being strongly accelerated:

1. The erection of the mammoth Salt Lake, South-Pacific and Santa Fe Union Depot is now practically assured
2. Double track trolley system will be built on East Seventh street, extending to Boyle Heights.
3. Immense structure being erected at Sixth and Maple for one of the largest wholesale furniture houses in the United States.
4. One of the live commercial centers of Los Angeles—one that is fairly pulsating with business activity—is the new Market at Third and Central.
5. Go and see the new Market Bank Building at the intersection of Central and Crocker. You know what the advent of this financial institution means.
6. Pasadena cars will soon run into the city to the Huntington Building via San Pedro and Sixth streets. Another great advantage for this commercial circle.
7. That part of the Seventh ward which is included in the "circle" has a population of 24,000—the most densely populated section of Los Angeles.
8. The Seventh ward will derive great financial advantages from the big manufacturing district east of Central.

Dollars planted almost anywhere in Los Angeles will bring satisfactory results—but there is every reason to believe that property within the circle will actually DOUBLE IN VALUE in 24 months. Too optimistic? No. This is a conservative statement based upon our long experience and a knowledge of actual existing conditions.

Classified Liners.

[In connection with the foregoing notice, The Times makes this explanatory statement, viz.: "All classified advertisements marked 'L.A. R.B.' which appear under the several 'Liner' headings are from members of Los Angeles Realty Board, which is responsible for its own statements." There are, of course, other honorable dealers who are not members of the Board.]

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times" any time of day or night, and secure prompt and careful attention. Rates one cent a word each insertion in the Daily; 1¼ cents per word in the Sunday edition; minimum charge, 25c.

"Liner" (classified) advertisements for Sunday insertion received over the counter or by telephone after 11 o'clock Saturday nights will be inserted under heading of "Too Late to Classify."

Times' "Liner" Advertisers—Important. Note change in rate for Sunday classified advertisements. Commencing Sunday, October 1, 1905, and thereafter, the rate for Sunday "Liners" will be 1¼ cents per word for each insertion, minimum charge, 25 cents, as at present. This slight advance is amply justified by the present Sunday circulation of The Times, which averages over 60,000 copies. (When the 1-cent-per-word rate was established in 1893, The Times Sunday circulation was only 14,000 copies.) The "Liner" rate for the daily—1 cent per word—will stand as at present.

For advertisements of large business colleges and other educational institutions see column headed "Schools and Colleges."

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 10 o'clock Saturday nights. Rate, 1¼ cents per word.

Your Neighbor's Cooking Recipes.

1200 of them, all contributed to The Times by Southern California housewives during its prize cooking recipe competition, have been printed in book form. For sale at The Times office and by Times agents in Southern California and Arizona. Price, cloth-bound, 50 cents; in oilcloth cover, 25 cents. Postage, 5 cents additional.

BREVITIES.

The volume of "Liners" in the Sunday Times has become so great that it is found necessary to ask patrons to get their Sunday advertisements in earlier; especially Sunday real estate announcements, which in order to be printed must be in the office not later than 10 o'clock Saturday nights. The printing of all real estate matter, including advertisements, in a part by itself on Sundays involves somewhat slower press work, making it essential, in order to get the paper out on time, to stop receiving real estate ads at 10 o'clock Saturday nights. Dealers will confer a favor on The Times office if they will turn in Sunday copy on Fridays, when possible, or at least a part of it, and the balance early Saturdays. Sunday "Want" ads will still be received by phone and over the counter until 11 o'clock Saturday nights.

Times' "Liner" Advertisers—Important change in rate for Sunday classified advertisements. Commencing Sunday, October 1, 1905, and thereafter, the rate for "Sunday "Liners" will be 1½ cents per word for each insertion; minimum charge, 25 cents, as at present. This slight advance is amply justified by the present Sunday circulation of The Times, which averages over 60,000 copies. (When the 1-cent per-word rate was established in 1893, The Times Sunday circulation was only 14,000 copies.) The "Liner" rate for the daily—1 cent per word—will stand as at present.

The San Francisco office of the Los Angeles Times is in room 41, Chronicle building. Telephone Main 1472. Subscriptions and advertisements taken. Visitors will find copies of The Times on files, and are welcome to call and read them.

COAST TROLLEY TO THE NORTH.

Mrs. Rindge Heads Company Now Building Line.

To Connect Santa Monica With Ventura County.

Road May Join Los Angeles and San Francisco.

That Los Angeles is soon to have another line of electric rail, linking it with the Santa Monica beach, and thence along the coast to Ventura county, is the good news received by way of Santa Monica last evening.

The building of the proposed road is a realization of the life dream of the late Frederick H. Rindge, and it is his money that is being used in the construction of the line.

The road is the Hueneme, Malibu and Port Los Angeles Railway, and its ostensible object is the development of Mr. Rindge's rich Malibu ranch, which has a coast line of twenty-five miles and extends from a few miles above Santa Monica to Point Dume and beyond into Ventura county.

Behind the development of the Malibu rancho and the rich country back of it, the promoters of the new electric line purpose effecting connection in Ventura county with the Burson road, now in course of construction, and by similar connections on up the beach ultimately to reach Santa Barbara, and push on to San Francisco.

The road now building is the connecting link for a beach trolley route along the beach from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

H. W. Lemcke, private secretary to the late Mr. Rindge, was reported to be interested in the building of the new road and when seen yesterday exhibited the following letter as showing his connection with the enterprise:

LOS ANGELES (Cal.) Oct. 2.—Mr. H. W. Lemcke, Santa Monica. Dear Sir: This is to notify you that you have been appointed General Manager of the Hueneme, Malibu and Port Los Angeles Railway, with present headquarters at Santa Monica, said appointment having become effective this date, October 2, 1905.

[Signed] MAY K. RINDGE, Exec., President.

CONSTRUCTION UNDER WAY.

From Mr. Lemcke the surprising news was obtained that the work of construction of the proposed railway was already well under way. So quietly and secretly have operations been conducted that not a word has been permitted to drift down from the Malibu, although active operations have been in progress for several days, and perhaps a hundred yards of track is completed and ready for the rolling stock.

The company was not ready to have the news sent out, and, as the operations were twenty-five miles up the beach and far from any traveled road, there were no "leaks." The grade has been completed for a considerable distance and the surveys have been made and the grade stakes set and route selected for a number of miles.

The supposed bean harvesters and ranch hands, who have been, during the past few weeks, wending their way up the coast from Santa Monica to the Malibu ranch, were nothing less than railroad surveyors and builders. And the big covered wagons from Los Angeles that were supposed to be carrying ranch supplies, bean sacks and farm machinery for the ranch were loaded down with railroad ties and steel rails.

The first of these heavy wagons with their mysterious cargoes passed through Santa Monica a week ago. Those who observed them thought nothing of the matter, as it was known the bean harvest was on at the Rindge ranch. All Santa Monicans knew that heavy threshers and traction engines were being sent in to handle the bean crop and nobody was so curious as to even attempt to peep into the wagons. Santa Monica had suspected a year ago when Mr. Rindge expended $30,000 in the building of this beach road to the ranch that he had an electric railway up his sleeve, but the details of the enterprise were not clear to them.

NORTHERN SURVEYS COMPLETED

The surveys for the northern end of the route have been completed. The road follows the ranch of Malibu into Ventura county. Here it connects with the Broome ranch, which adjoins the Dixie Thompson ranch. In that vicinity the Burson road is building, and the two roads, though each is operating independently, will join. This will give the Rindge road direct connection with Hueneme and Ventura, and it eventually will be carried as an electric line via Santa Barbara and the coast on through to San Francisco.

Above Point Dume the Rindge road follows the crescent of Malibu Bay and, crawling upon the mesa, makes a sweep into Ventura. At the Malibu ranch-house the roadway is over the flats and avoids the steeps of Point Dume by hugging the foothills and crossing the point on the mesa back of the frowning point. From the point southward to the lower ranch-houses, fourteen miles from Santa Monica, the route is practically that of the recently constructed wagon road. This is, for the greater part of the way, close to the beach. The wagon road is on an easy grade and all that will be required to make a railroad of it will be to widen the present thoroughfare. The bridges and culverts along the road have all been built sufficiently substantial to bear the traffic of a railway.

ATTRACTIVE ROUTE.

In the surveys especial pains have been taken to select a route that will at once command by reason of its picturesqueness. This has been done without reference to the grades, although no severe ones have thus far been encountered. The engineers who have viewed the route and the surveyors who have followed them say there are neither engineering feats nor insurmountable obstacles. The route lies past Arch Rock, a familiar landmark.

The ties for the entire twenty-five miles from the ranch to Port Los Angeles have been ordered in the North for delivery by water at San Pedro. Here they will be loaded onto scows and will be towed up the beach and floated ashore at convenient points as needed in the construction of the road.

Sixty-pound steel rails have been ordered from the Carnegie rolling mills and will be delivered at the earliest possible date. It is altogether probable these will be shipped direct to Port Los Angeles and be laid northward as the line is pushed into Ventura county.

WILL RUN SLEEPERS.

Orders for rolling stock and complete equipment have been placed in factories in the East, and delivery will be made as fast as the orders can be turned out. Everything is to be of the best, and the opening of the route will mark the introduction of Pullman sleepers on the Pacific Coast electric railroading.

Beyond Point Dume on the Malibu ranch, in the pretty cove where the waves dash upon thousands of jutting rocks, there is one of the most charming sites in the world for a summer and winter seaside resort and the plans of the corporation cover the development of this and the building of a magnificent hotel.

Not far from that point there is a good natural harbor and this will be developed by the construction of bulkheads and wharves for the easy anchorage of steamers and other vessels.

The first twenty-five mile section of the road will be completed and operated just as fast as men can do the work, when the material arrives. About twenty men are now employed and as soon as the ties begin to come in the force will be increased to two hundred.

The principal offices and headquarters are being established in the Dudley Bank block in Santa Monica, where General Manager Lemcke with a corps of assistants will direct operations. He was for six years private secretary to Mr. Rindge and is at this time busy in the superintendency of the Malibu ranch, which consists of more than thirty thousand acres. He is now busy with arrangements for planting seven thousand of these acres next season to lima beans, in the shipment of which a railroad is needed.

MRS. RINDGE HEADS COMPANY.

May K. Rindge, the president of the company, is the widow of the late F. H. Rindge, and herself comes of a family of business women, she being a cousin of Mrs. Leland Stanford. Mrs. Rindge is the only woman railroad president in California, if not in the country, and in carrying out the project at this time she says she is simply carrying out Mr. Rindge's plans and wishes. She is doing just what he would have done had his life been spared even a few months. He entertained high hopes for the future of the Malibu country and was known to promise a great future for his property when it should have been developed by roads and highways of commerce.

The Hueneme, Malibu and Port Los Angeles Railway is a close corporation. It was organized and incorporated two years ago, but the fact of the incorporation was made so secretly nobody heard anything about it. The company has a capital stock of $1,000,000 and will hold its annual meeting in January, when new officers and directors will be elected.

MAY ENTER LOS ANGELES.

At Port Los Angeles direct connection will be made with the Southern Pacific and the Los Angeles-Pacific for Los Angeles. The Los Angeles-Pacific is now heading for the cañon via the Westgate line over the new San Vicente boulevard. This line has in view a detour into the cañon. But the newer road also has its eye on Los Angeles via the Independent line. There is now pending before the Santa Monica City Trustees an application for a right of way for an electric line out of the city on the east via Colorado avenue. To extend the Rindge road along the beach from Port Los Angeles to Colorado avenue and thence eastward to Los Angeles by a direct route would be an easy matter.

THREE-MILLION POKER GAME.

FIVE BUSINESS MEN CAPTURED AT GREEN TABLE.

Joint on West Fourth Street Raided and Players Supposed to be Better Qualified for Legitimate Money-changing Taken in, but Names Not Divulged.

When Acting Chief of Police Auble descended with a squad of officers on a poker joint in the rear of a cigar store at No. 219 West Fourth street at 6 o'clock last evening at least five well-known business men were caught firmly in the drag net.

A string of seven fictitious names adorn the blotter at the station, and the officials are maintaining the greatest secrecy, refusing to divulge the proper names of the men, all of whom furnished bail and were immediately released.

About $3,000,000 capital is declared to be represented in the gathering of players who were studiously busy at a green table with the great American game when officers surrounded the joint.

Confronted with the reminder of the prominence of the men, the officers who participated in the raid hesitated, but no denial of the authenticity of the report was made.

H. Goldstein, whose name was given at the station as Timster, was the proprietor of the place, which has been in flourishing operation for a long time. A. Greenbaum was capper and general fixer for the place. Unknown to Greenbaum and his more or less distinguished guests, officers of the Central Station, wearing plain clothes and displaying sporting instincts, have "set in" at the games for several days. Last evening when the officers announced that the place was in charge of the police no objections were made, and none of the players attempted escape.

As the men were leaving the station they are said to have been identified as prominent in Los Angeles commercial circles, including a well-known hide dealer, a lawyer, banker, and representatives of other industries.

On the blotter the names of the players read: Frank Jackson, R. Thompson, John Wilion, William Smith, J. Johnson. It was reported that one player, prominent in political circles, attempted to forestall the trip to the station when the officers arrived, by threatening talk, but owing to the reticence of the officials this could not be verified.

Goldstein, the proprietor, deposited $100 bail, and the balance $25 each. They will, of course, never appear.

HAD NO LICENSE TAG.

H. P. Christopherson was arrested by Patrolman Graham last evening, while the machine was being driven south on Grand avenue, for running his automobile without a license tag.

WHEN ANGELS MIGHT WEEP.

Justice Pierce Hands Down Solemn Opinion.

Compromise Decision Result of Strange Trial.

Horrible!

He, too, was a preacher.

Preacher was suing preacher. A law-suit! This is almost too dreadful to go on with!

Rev. William Green (above) and Rev. D. F. McCarty, litigating preachers, who were given a bit of gospel yesterday by a worldly justice of the peace.

The plaintiff was Rev. William Green, who was, for years, pastor of various churches in Los Angeles, but of late years has retired to a life of calm religious contemplation—and money lending.

His lawsuit was against Rev. D. F. McCarty, still in the harness, and pastor of Vincent M. E. Church.

To be brief, however painful, Brother Green accused Brother McCarty of gross fraud; Brother McCarty said Brother Green was a liar.

Before it was through, Justice Pierce rose up in his wrath and called them both various things.

The point at issue between them was an alleged loan of money. Green said he let McCarty have over $150 and never could get it back.

BROTHER GREEN SAYS.

He said that some time ago, McCarty came to him in great trouble. He said, so Green swore, that he must have money at once; he had appropriated funds belonging to the church and, if the shortage were discovered, it would be all off with him.

Green swore that he let McCarty have the money and then could never get it back again. He said that he asked and asked McCarty until he got tired; then he turned the account over to a collection agency.

"I let him have five twenties and one $10 gold piece one time when he asked," said Green, grumpily.

The long, tall figure of Parson McCarty was squirming and squirming in the chair next his lawyer. He was red in the face, and just ready to explode of spontaneous combustion.

"He never did," he whispered hoarsely.

Parson Green turned at the sound and glared down at him.

"And another time," he went on, coldly; "I let him have two twenties and a ten."

McCarty grunted as though some one stuck him with a pin. He was so angry. He looked bloodshed and murder. His teeth went shut with a savage click.

M'CARTY TO THE BAT.

McCarty was white with rage when Green got through and his lawyer slipped the leash to let him get to the witness stand. He made the distance in three or four giant strides.

Green started with a jolt and turned very red.

"Oh," he gasped, horrified.

McCarty jumped up dramatically and exclaimed: "I call God to witness that everything he says is false, absolutely false."

Green's jaws gaped open and shut, but he couldn't make a sound.

McCarty went on to say that, while there had been small loans back and forth, he was not in debt to Green in the manner mentioned.

"I never received this money from him," he protested.

At this point Green burst. He jumped up in the courtroom and screeched out excitedly: "It's false! It's absolutely false!"

His lawyers tried to grab him and set him down. But he kept on flapping his wings wildly until he became aware that a dreadful, stilly calm had settled over the place. The justice was glaring down at him from the bench with a glare that froze the marrow in his bones.

SVENGALI PIERCE.

"Sit down," roared His Honor.

The parson's legs suddenly fell out from under him; he sank into his chair, limp and scared and still.

Just before the preacher lost consciousness under the court's Svengali stare these words came down from the bench in slow, wrathful tones: "If you make any more remarks like that I will fine you $25 for contempt of court."

"But——" began Green in feeble protest.

"Stop," commanded the Court, sternly. "You may know enough to be a minister of the Gospel," the Court went on crushingly, "but you evidently do not know enough to behave yourself in court."

That held Parson Green for awhile.

There were bank checks introduced in evidence by Green's lawyers. Parson McCarty explained these airily away saying that he had taken the money to the bank to deposit merely as a matter of accommodation to Green; not at all as a loan.

"Well," said the judge at this, with dreadful candor, "that sounds pretty fishy to me."

Both ministers had left the witness stand. Separated discreetly by their lawyers, they sat in a row before the Court, like bad little boys who had misbehaved.

The worldly Justice looked down at them with a terrible frown. Another of those moments of leaden, heavy silences elapsed. Then the Court began in a deep, sepulchral voice.

"This scene," he said solemnly, "I think would almost make angels weep."

He let this sink in and went on: "Here are two representatives of the cloth; two representatives of that church of splendid achievements laden with glory and honor; here are you two calling each other liars."

Parson McCarty stared gloomily out of the window; Parson Green began an attentive study of his finger nails.

But the Court's remarks took a sudden and more startling turn. "One of you two," he said, "has committed deliberate perjury."

The judge said the word PERJURY in capital letters. Everybody in the round of his voice instinctively jumped.

WHO'S TO BE BELIEVED?

"One of you two has deliberately lied on the witness stand. One of you two ought to be in State's prison."

Parson McCarty slowly turned with a slow glare of holy outraged piety and looked accusingly at Parson Green.

Parson Green slowly turned with a slow glare of holy outraged piety and looked accusingly at Parson McCarty.

"Wretch!" each seemed to be saying.

"But," the Court went on, "you are both ministers of the gospel; each says the other is a liar; perhaps I ought to believe you."

A compromise verdict was rendered, Green being given judgment for only $27.50 out of the $177 he claimed.

FINE NEW CHURCH.

Third Presbyterians Signalize Commencement of Actual Work With a Banquet.

At the banquet of the Third Presbyterian Church last night plates were laid for 150 and they had a most enthusiastic time. This was indicated not only by the many entertaining toasts, but by the fact that they subscribed over $2500 for the fund of their newschurch, which is now in course of construction on East Adams street, between Trinity and San Pedro streets.

Col. George de la Vergne was toastmaster, and himself responded to the toast to the ladies. Others were as follows: "Sand and Pepper," Rev. S. T. Montgomery; "Firm Foundation," U. R. Bowers; "Breaking Stone," David B. Kline; "Our Outlook," T. R. Coles; "Kernel of the Matter," Paul Goodwin "Milk in the Nut," Ed Bacon.

The matter of raising money was in the hands of R. H. Small, and he succeeded beyond expectations. The new church is to be built of blue brick and will cost between $20,000 and $25,000, and the contract calls for its completion by January 15. It will be one of the largest and most complete Christian workshops in the city and will contain twenty-three rooms.

HOBO WITH CASH IN HIS DUDS.

Among a bunch of hobos hauled up from the river bed by the police yesterday was a greasy, legless, disgusting-looking specimen of humanity who begs on the streets. He gave the name of Alexander Buntis and also gave a surprise to the police, for when searching him he proved to be, from the hobo standpoint, a veritable gold mine. The officer first dug from the waistband of his trousers a bit of leather in which was hidden $85 in bank notes, and in various other parts of his clothing was found sufficient cash to run the total up to $86.81. He claimed that all the money was the proceeds of his begging on the streets, and was more concerned about the hobos discovering how he kept it than he was at being arrested.

MORN AFTER HE SUFFERS.

Gay Young Money Spender Sorry Glass Flew.

Likely That Battery Trial Will Never be.

Laughable attempts are being made to keep that genial young spender, J. H. Wainwright, from the open shame of a trial of battery.

For more than a week the cocktail route has been in mourning for the Gay Mister Wainwright.

He is not dead, but is in a hospital still suffering from the malady of the cold, gray dawn of the morning after." He was raised somewhere in the Arctic Circle, where the days and nights are so terribly long.

The first weeks of his visit here constituted for him one long, joyful evening of laughter and bubbles and song. And ever since he has been suffering from the "morning after."

Wainwright is a gilded youth from the East. No one knows just where he blew from, but it must have been a long way off; he had already got such a start by the time he arrived here.

He had a regular longing for company, and Bohemia received him with brotherly joy.

Every morning a man brought him a tub full of money. He had a perfectly dreadful time getting rid of it before the next tub came. There wouldn't have been any need of Owens River if you could irrigate farms with everything Mr. Wainwright had to drink. He must have had an inward fever.

THE "STAR BOARDER."

He took it as an insult if anyone tried to pay any money while he was around. And no one likes to insult a man.

Imagine then the rage and roar that went up when some one got cross with Wainwright because he hit a girl with a wine glass and cut her head open, and had him arrested.

His case for cutting this girl's head has been set repeatedly and always continued. It was to have come up again yesterday.

The girl is reported as willing to make any reasonable apology for having her head gashed. She would not appear in court yesterday to testify against him.

A doctor was there to appear for Wainwright. He said that Wainwright is sick at the Pacific Hospital. He bore a private message from Wainwright to one of the prosecutors.

Wainwright begged to be allowed to pay for the broken head, the broken glass and anything in sight.

GLASS ESCAPED.

With it came a penitent explanation from Wainwright. He said that he didn't mean to be so ungallant. He thought of a very brilliant toast. It was one of those German student toasts that goes with "Hoch" and a glass at arm's length.

Wainwright was just going to "hoch" when some one caught his arm and his glass flew through a glass in the door and struck the girl in the next room.

There is small doubt that Wainwright's case will be quietly dismissed without further publicity, there being no one to prosecute.

Then Wainwright will be let out of the hospital.

And, oh, how glad they will be to see Wainwright's face once more!

THEATER WARRANTS READY.

Managers to be Arrested Today for Neglecting to Provide for Safety of Patrons.

The campaign against theaters which have thus far neglected to provide the necessary protection against fire will be launched in earnest today, when warrants will be issued by City Prosecuting Attorney George Beebe for the arrest of six managers.

The managers named in the warrants are A. M. Cox of the Casino and Broadway, James Brown of the Cineograph, H. W. Oviatt of the Lyric, Rube Welsh of the new Star, and Henry Koch of the Chutes.

The investigation now in progress under the personal supervision of Fire Chief Lips and Superintendent of Buildings Backus has resulted in discovering flagrant violation of the fire ordinance passed two weeks ago by the Council.

In only a few instances have fireproof curtains been provided, and the six theaters whose managers are to be arrested, are not supplied with the perforated pipes of the sprinkler system, special mention of which is made in the ordinance.

Speaking of the situation Mr. Backus said last night:

"The most flagrant violator of the laws in regard to fire protection is the Casino Theater. Apparatus that could be secured at small cost and within a few hours' time has not been provided. The management has promised to comply with the terms of the law, but has repeatedly failed to do so, and the arrest of those guilty of neglect was imperative.

"Three times during the summer I have prepared to prosecute and each time the Council has passed a new ordinance, making necessary the gathering of fresh information. I would like to close the theaters which have not complied with the fire laws, but I have not the necessary authority."

WILL SOON RECOVER.

Condition of Walter Vail, Who Was Thrown from Horse, is Rapidly Improving.

Dr. J. DeBarth Shorb returned yesterday from Warner's Hot Springs in San Diego county, where he had been hurriedly called several days ago to attend Walter Vail of this city, who was seriously injured by being thrown from his horse. Dr. Shorb left his patient in a condition which indicates a speedy recovery, unless unlooked-for complications supervene. Mr. Vail sustained fractures of two ribs and suffered greatly from shock, but the physician found no serious internal injuries. Dr. Shorb stated yesterday that Mr. Vail will be able to be about in a very short time. He will remain at his country home until he fully recovers and will then return to this city

THE PUBLIC SERVICE---OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Santa Fé and the Southern Pacific railways made pleas yesterday for the right to lay spur tracks on Jackson street. A large delegation of citizens was at the meeting of the Board of Public Works to urge that the privilege be granted the Santa Fé.

Contractor S. McCray submitted to an examination in the matter of the alleged change of figures on a bid submitted by him, after it had been deposited with the City Clerk.

The Osteopaths had right of way before Judge Wilbur yesterday, and all day they crowded the court. The Pacific College sued some prominent professors of osteopathy from the East, who, it was alleged, were trying to wreck the institution.

Elder Holland was unable to prove yesterday that Butcher McClintock battered him during their trouble over a bit of ham, but now threatens to proceed against the meat man on a charge of perjury.

AT THE CITY HALL.

SANTA FE FINDS MANY FRIENDS.

EIGHTH WARDERS FAVOR ITS USE OF JACKSON STREET.

Petitions Before Board of Public Works Regarding Railway Trackage, and Matter Under Advisement. Contractor McCray Submits to Examination Regarding Change of Bid.

There was much ginger injected into the session of the Board of Public Works held yesterday afternoon. The fight between the Santa Fé and the Southern Pacific railways for the right to lay a spur on Jackson street was thrashed out; and then Contractor S. McCray, whose bid for improvement work on Second street was changed while it lay in the City Clerk's office, was before the board and submitted to an examination conducted by Assistant City Attorneys Robinson and Goudge.

While there was much excitement, no definite action was taken by the board in either case, the members finally agreeing to take these matters under advisement.

There were petitions galore in the Jackson street matter. First, the property owners on the street wanted to have the street opened through from Amelia to Lafayette street, and to have the street improved with cement curbs and sidewalks.

Then the Southern Pacific wanted the right to construct a spud track on Jackson street and through the private property which the citizens wanted opened into a public street.

Then the Santa Fé wanted the right to occupy Jackson street with its spur track.

Then one set of citizens and property owners wanted the City Council to grant the trackage privilege to the Southern Pacific Company, and another set of property owners had in a petition asking that the right be given to the Santa Fé Company.

Besides all these petitions, backed to a considerable extent by the petitioners in person, there was a small contingent who came to protest against any railway being given the right to lay tracks in the street. This last party was in a sad minority, and finally declared that "if anybody got the right, it ought to be the Santa Fé."

The Santa Fé and the property owners favoring its claims were represented by Will A. Harris and M. T. Collins; Judge McKinley appeared for the Southern Pacific, and G. P. Guytino spoke for the protestants against any road being laid.

The Santa Fé had the best of the showing. It appeared that its petition represented 1790 feet of frontage, as against 250 feet for the Southern Pacific.

Not a man among the property owners raised his voice in favor of granting the trackage rights to the Southern Pacific; but several of the property owners spoke in favor of it being granted to the Santa Fé.

M. T. Collins spoke of the reversion of sentiment in the Eighth Ward in favor of the railways coming in, and of its prospects as a great manufacturing center. He declared that since the Santa Fé had secured the right to lay its tracks on Commercial, Turner and Banning streets, from ten to a dozen pieces of property had changed hands at prices from one-half to two-thirds higher than had even been offered for them before, and that the people had awakened to the fact that such trackage meant rapid development of an industrial center in the Eighth Ward.

That the property owners were especially favorable to the Santa Fé proposition was shown in the fact that they are willing to stand the expense of street opening and improvement themselves, and then would have it turned over to this railway.

Mr. Guytino objected to any trackage on the grounds that the Amelia-street school would front on the tracks, and they would be a menace to the lives of the children.

The whole matter will come up at the next meeting of the City Council.

Contractor McCray appeared before the board i regard to the bid which was changed after it was placed in the keeping of the City Clerk. He submitted to an examination conducted by Assistant City Attorneys Robinson and Goudge, and declared that he didn't know whose writing the figures were; that he had made the bid not for himself, but for his nephew, one Thomas; that he couldn't say whether the figures were or were not on the paper at the time when he looked it over in the City Clerk's office; that he had asked for its withdrawal simply in order that he might not have the name of securing a contract on which there was a report of irregularity.

Attorney L. R. Garrett asked that the board award the contract to his clients, Cummings and Train, the next lowest bidders, and after many details were gone over, the board finally decided not to decide, but "took it under advisement"—the usual way of slipping out of an embarrassing situation.

Numerous street improvements were taked up, and residents of Boylston, Colton and West First steets asked that the twenty-five-foot bluff at the intersection of Boylston and First streets be protected by a retaining wall, surmounted by an iron railing. The board will inspect this place and decide on its needs next Thursday.

A request came from property owners on St. Vincent Place to have this thoroughfare opened through. This would require the cutting away of the rear of the old St. Vincent Hall, once used as St. Vincent's College, and now the temporary home of the Y.M.C.A. A majority of the 1200 feet of frontage on this court wes represented in the request for the improvement.

The old troubles of the Thirty-seventh-street property owners over their proposed improvement and their mix-up with the Alderson Brothers, who, they claim, are holding up the work, were rehashed. These have been set forth fully in The Times. This matter, also, was "taken under advisement," and the board escaped for the time the task of deciding the case.

ORDINANCE RETURNED.

MAYOR DOESN'T APPROVE.

Yesterday afternoon Mayor McAleer returned to the City Clerk without his approval the ordinance passed by the City Council September 28 regarding the construction and use of tunnels under streets. The Mayor states his objection to the ordinance as follows:

"I understand and believe that it was the intention of your honorable body in adopting this ordinance to permit the building of tunnels under proper restrictions and safeguards of the rights and welfare of the public; but, while the intention is expressed in section 1 of the ordinance, the restrictions and limitations imposed in section 3 are inconsistent with and repugnant to the provisions of section 1. Section 1 contemplates that such tunnels under certain supervisions and restrictions may be built, while section 3 would practically prevent the use of the tunnel after it was constructed."

NEED OF MORE ROOM.

ANOTHER EXODUS PROPOSED.

Plans continue to appear for the relief of the congested conditions at the City Hall. Yesterday Councilman Hammon, who has just returned from his vacation, submitted to Councilman Kern, of the Building Committee, a proposition to secure for the city's use the entire second floor of the Copp Building, which adjoins the City Hall property on the north. This extra room, it is proposed, would be utilized as offices for the City Engineer and the Street Superintendent, both of which departments are now badly overcrowded. The proposition was looked upon with much favor by Councilman Kern, and it will doubtless be submitted to the City Council on Monday. It is possible that this will lead to the entire building being leased for city offices, and that an arcade may be erected to connect the two buildings. The second floor would be available for city use by November 1, in case the proposed plan is adopted.

WATER STATISTICS.

COMMISSION FILES REPORT.

The Board of Water Commissioners has filed its monthly report, and from it the following figures are gleaned: Balance on hand, September 1, $23,573.16; receipts, $79,196.15; disbursements, $94,446.52; balance on hand, October 1, $8823.82.

CONDUIT EXTENSION.

OFFICIALS FAVOR IT.

A petition was filed yesterday with the City Clerk, for presentation to the next session of the City Council signed by Walter Lips, fire chief; J. J. Backus, Building Superintendent, and R. H. Monahan, City Electrician, asking that the Council adopt the recommendations of the Hill Street Improvement Association that the conduit district be extended to include that territory. The petitioners say: "It is almost imperative that the mass of wires in the close-in and advanced business district should be placed underground at the earliest possible day; and it seems to us that this district is entitled to the first consideration."

WANT A NEW NAME.

WOULD DISCARD BOYLSTON.

Property owners on Boylston street have filed a petition with the City Clerk asking the City Council to change the name of Boylston street to St. Paul avenue, from Bellevue avenue to Sixth street. They do not set forth the reasons for wanting to discard the present name.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

NEWCOMERS WOULD WRECK THE PACIFIC COLLEGE.

Eastern Contingent Files a Stack of Affidavits and Gets Judge Wilbur to Dissolve the Temporary Restraining Order Issued When the Trouble Began—The End Not Yet.

Judge Wilbur's courtroom was almost entirely monopolized yesterday by the women students of the Pacific College of Osteopathy, and the attorneys were crowded into the corners. Their alma mater, in its corporate capacity, claimed that a small bunch of osteopaths from the effete East had blown in and tried to wreck the organization.

The girl students—some of them quite mature girls—with a sprinkling of young men, were ranged up either in favor or "forninst" the college. As set out, the fight is a very mixed-up affair, certain professors from the S. S. College of Osteopathy at Des Moines, Iowa, being charged with having used arts and devices to seduce the students from the Grecian edifice close to the County Hospital, where the Pacific College of Osteopathy recently established a permanent domicile.

It is alleged that some time ago certain of the professional staff from Des Moines opened negotiations with the Pacific College with a view to obtain a controlling interest, and becoming officials and members of the faculty. These negotiations failed, and then, it is claimed, that these defendants entered into a fraudulent attempt to obtain representation on the faculty with intent to destroy the corporation, and on its ruins to build a corporation in which they would be the whole thing.

With this end in view it is alleged that they applied for positions on the faculty for the school year 1905-6, so that they might get a thorough knowledge of the inside workings of the college. But their overtures were received in a kindly spirit and Dr. Harry Forbes, the principal defendant in the present suit, was appointed to the chair of osteopathic practice at a salary of $1500 a year. Dr. Charles H. Spencer was appointed professor of physiological department at a salary of $800; Dr. Jennie B. Spencer was appointed professor of obstetrics, with a salary of $800, and Col. A. B. Sloan was appointed secretary, at a salary of $1500.

Under the contract entered into with these four persons it was stipulated that they should bring into the school at least thirty-two persons during the school year between September and June, 1906. They agreed to abstain from all private practice, and devote their energies to the advancement of the interests of the Pacific College of Osteopathy. As an encouragement to them beyond the mere salary they were to receive it was further stipulated that for each $1000 of reduction of debt upon the new building that fifty shares of stock in the concern would be distributed among them as the directors might deem fair. On this understanding both parties to the agreement appeared to be satisfied, and the opening of the school year was looked forward to with the pleasantest anticipations.

The school year began on September 5, and it is charged that the four defendants fraudulently failed to register a number of students who had come from the East to study. At the same time it is alleged that they were quietly laying their plans to organize—and did organize—the Los Angeles College of Osteopathy, at No. 2023 East Fourth street, in the Boyle Heights district, thus knocking a big hole in the contracts into which they had entered with the Pacific College.

On September 22 the defendants rallied the students of the Pacific College in the hall and told them that they were going to open a new school of osteopathy, and incidentally let the students understand that if they put on their wraps and marched in a body en masse from the Pacific College over to the Los Angeles College such course or action would not be antagonistic to the desires of the defendants who were about to break away. Three days after this scene the president, Dr. Forbes, and the secretary, Col. Sloan, tendered their resignations.

With this attempt to disrupt the older institution, the Pacific College instituted proceedings to enjoin the defendants from breaking away and opening an opposition school, and also claimed $10,000 as damages for the injury wrought in upsetting the work of the college in the middle of the school year. Attorneys Matticon Jones and Drake appeared for the Pacific College of Osteopathy, and Attorneys Lant and Hugh Adam represented the defendants. A big stack of affidavits were filed to show tha. the defendants were guiltless in the premises, and at least it became apparent that there was another side to the contention.

From them it appeared that some kind of a provisional agreement was entered into for the defendants to take over a major portion of the stock of the Pacific College, and when misunderstanding arose they were appointed to positions on the faculty because about sixty-five students had followed them from Des Moines. The final rupture occurred when these students failed to register, and Dr. Forbes represented to the board of directors that he could not compel them to register and that they demanded that the school curriculum be such as they had been led to expect. The directors would not make any change in this direction and the defendants then tendered their resignations for the reason that they stood responsible for the student body that had come from Des Moines. It is claimed that when Dr. Forbes gave to the students the ultimatum of the directors they then asked that a new school be started; but a denial is made to the charge that the student body were asked to patronize the new college.

After the matter had been argued before Judge Wilbur at great length yesterday the temporary restraining order was ordered dissolved, and the case was then set on the calendar for next Friday.

EVOLUTION OF JUSTICE.

ROAN LLOYD ON PROBATION.

Roan Lloyd is a young fellow slightly over 18 years of age, and of a rather simple appearance. He belongs to a good family at Santa Monica and was brought before Judge Smith about a week ago and pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery. He passed a check for $16.50, but is said to have received only $3.

Attorney Taft put up a plea for the defendant, and hoped that the court might see its way to send the youth to Ione—that was the best that he hoped for. Judge Smith inquired Lloyd's age and for a moment there was a good deal of hemming and hawing. It was finally discovered that he was over 18. Judge Smith said he had no authority to send a youth over 18 to Ione. Lloyd looked so stupid that a further delay was asked for so that his sanity might be inquired into. Yesterday Dr. G. W. Campbell said the boy was born a weakling. He has kept bad company, is a cigarette fiend, is inclined to take suggestions from his bad associates, and is weak in his morals. Dr. Campbell said that Lloyd had no thought of the consequences of his act, and under proper conditions might yet make a fair man. It was recommended to the court that the defendant be released on probation. The court acquiesced, and Lloyd was put on probation for a year with Edward Lloyd, his father, as probation officer.

DIVORCE MILL.

THREE DECREES GRANTED.

Mrs. Ida Coleman was granted a divorce from Jacob J. Coleman by Judge York yesterday on the ground of cruelty. The parties were married in August, 1882, at Auburn, N. Y., and for three years past have lived at No. 708 Euclid avenue, Boyle Heights. While the husband cursed and swore at his wife and was mean in many little ways, his specialty was in kicking her in bed. On several occasions he kicked her out of bed, and the last time he told her that he "never would allow her old bones to rest beside him again." Nor did he. There are two children, and they were awarded to the custody of the wife.

Frank A. Elder was granted a divorce from Anna G. Elder by Judge Monroe, on the ground of desertion.

The divorce suit of Josephine Cole against Thomas A. Cole, claim adjuster for the Huntington system, was before Judge Bordwell yesterday. The court had ordered the husband to pay his wife $300 as alimony and counsel fees pending a decision of the case, and Cole tried to get Judge Gibbs to set aside that order during the absence of Judge Bordwell. He failed and the matter came up yesterday, as the amount had not been paid. Cole claimed that he had made over property to his wife worth $12,000, but it appeared that the property is mortgaged and Mrs. Cole is ill and needs money for support and medical attendance. The husband will have to pay.

Henry Melvin was granted a divorce from Minnie B. Melvin by Judge York, on the ground of desertion. The parties were married at Albion, Neb., in 1894.

Anna G. Sandham and Walter E. Sandham were before Judge Trask to have the court decide whether the mother could visit her boy or not. The husband got the decree of divorce on the ground of the misbehavior of his wife, and she was awarded a tiny little girl, while the father got the boy. But the husband would not permit his wife to see the boy, and in court he said openly before the child that she was not a good woman, and that he didn't want to see the baby while it was in her charge. He was brusquely told by the court that he wouldn't see the child anywhere else, and he was ordered to permit the mother to visit her boy twice a month.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

HALF OUNCE OF BOILED HAM.

ELDER HOLLAND UNABLE TO PROVE BATTERY.

Butcher McClintock is Exonerated of the Charge of Having Kicked the Old Gentleman Over the Dispute—Butcher's Arrest on Perjury Charge Now Threatened.

A half ounce of boiled ham probably never before made such a disturbance—even if it was very bad ham.

But here is a half ounce of good ham getting a whole neighborhood into the Police Court; causing a church elder to be ridiculed and a butcher to be charged with brutal conduct to an old man. Then, as an ending to the farce, the elder is told that he is mistaken and the butcher is exonerated.

It all happened out in the sylvan neighborhood of Westlake, when Elder Holland went into the butcher shop of C. C. McClintock and bought "two-bits" worth of boiled ham.

The elder took his wee package of toothsome ham and went out thinking to himself what a mighty small bit of ham a fellow gets for a quarter. Thinking it over, he went to a drug store where the scales are especially made to weigh exceedingly small packages, and he had the ham weighed as if it were a bit of diamond dust.

"Nine and a half ounces," said the druggist.

Stright up in the air went the deacon's hair. At 25 cents a pound, 20 cents a half pound, 2½ cents an ounce, the deacon shourd have had just ten ounces of succulent ham for two-bits. Forthwith he went to the butcher's, and being vexed, asked in a vexed way how much ham for a quarter. Having learned, he announced:

"You didn't give me enough ham for my money."

The butchers declare that they at once took the package from his hand and found it to weigh exactly eleven ounces—ten of ham and one of wrapping paper. But the irate purchaser refused to look and be pacified; the butchers declared that he had not been cheated out of a half-ounce of meat, but the deacon loudly denounced them as robbers and cheats. This was continued until Mr. McClintock ordered him out of the shop and when he refused to go, took him by the shoulders with his hands and helping him with his foot, shoved him out of the door.

Elder Holland declared that McClintock kicked him violently twice, causing a hemorrhage of blood, and Mrs. Holland testified to that fact and to the finding of a red mark, while Dr. C. A. Nichols testified that he also found a red mark and evidences of the hemorrhage.

Six witnesses testified for McClintock to the effect that he had not kicked the elder, when the case came up before Justice Chambers yesterday, and on the preponderance of evidence the defendant was declared to be not guilty.

There were several amusing passages between the elder and the attorney for McClintock.

"Did you call him a thief?" asked the attorney of Holland, on cross-examination.

"I don't think I did, but if I did, I wasn't very far wrong, was I?" responded Holland.

"I am asking you questions now," said the attorney.

"Well, I answered you, and I am now asking you one," came back.

"Were you angry?" Holland was asked.

"Well, I was a little vexed; wouldn't you be, if you were cheated?"

In the butcher shop the transaction ended by the elder getting his money back and the butcher his ham. In the Police Court it ended by the butcher getting his character back and the elder his pains for his trouble.

The end is not yet. Mr. Holland, who has lived in Los Angeles for twenty-one years, and his friends, were inexpressibly indignant at the outcome. Mrs. Holland said last night:

"We have no idea of dropping the case because we were defeated today, but whether we will bring another charge of battery against Mr. McClintock or sue him for perjury we have not yet determined, but Mr. Holland is in consultation with his attorney tonight. My husband is very badly injured, we do not know how badly, and we are determined that his assailant shall not escape so easily. Mr. Holland had a talk with the City Attorney before the trial, and he said one of the deputies would look after the case, but if he had told us that his deputies amounted to nothing we would have gotten an attorney of our own.

"Mr. McClintock first went before the court and entered a plea of guilty; he then came to our house and acknowledged having kicked my husband, saying that he was mad, and wanting to have the charge withdrawn; a second time he came there and said to me that he didn't think he had kicked Mr. Holland so hard and was sorry he did it, when he discovered we would not drop the case he changed his plea and employed an attorney, who fought his case all the way through, while Deputy McCormick sat there and had nothing to say. Is it any wonder we are indignant? We asked the deputy to summon the druggist who weighed the meat, but he said this was not a case of meat but a battery case, and refused to summon the witness. The other side fought it as a meat case all the way through, without objection from the deputy, but when I undertook to testify to the fact that McClintock had acknowledged to me on two or three occasions that he had kicked my husband, the opposing attorney succeeded in getting the court to rule that I could not so testify."

Got Off Easy.

Simon Miller, who was accused with using a knife on a colored brother in an old-fashioned coon row, was arraigned before Justice Chambers for assault to murder, but the case was not clear and he escaped by agreeing to plead guilty to a battery charge. He was taken before Justice Austin and sentenced to 100 days on the chain gang.

Bad Man Under Bail.

A Mexican named Francisco Gonzales was yesterday arrested for an assault upon a little girl of his own nationality, aged 11 years. The mother sent the child to a meat market in the neighborhood of Elysian Park and she was seen with the Mexican. A quick search by the police discovered the two together and Gonzales was at once arrested. Justice Austin promptly held him for trial, fixing bail at $3000.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

The agitation against the oil wells in the city is exciting considerable interest among operators, especially those whose properties are still making money. A number of these is left despite the small production, and the depression. An example of this is found in one of the largest companies in the eastern part of the field, owning more than twenty wells, with a production approximating 3000 barrels a month. The property is handled at little more than nominal cost. The pumping is done entirely by a gasoline engine that requires very little attention, and the expenses comprise the wages of one pumper, who performs all the routine work on the property, and the cost of fuel and repairs. With oil selling as low as 35 cents a barrel, the property will produce an income of about $1000 a month, and with even less than this there would still be a profit.

Should the city make an attempt to force the closing of all wells, the managers of this and several othej companies say they will fight and exhaust every legal means to protect themselves. They express a willingness to pull wells as soon as they cease to pay, and at the present rate this is likely to be the case within another year or two. These companies are selling their product for road purposes, as a rule. The Salt Lake Railroad recently contracted for a large amount in the city field for use on its roadbed.

At present the agitation against oil wells has been confined, for the most part, to the Westlake Park district, and it is here that a large proportion of the poorest wells is situated, and the part where the surrounding property is of the best class. In the eastern part there is generally a cheaper class of property, and it is said that more of the wells are yielding returns to their owners. When it is seen that twenty-five or thirty wells can be operated for $150 a month and less it is easy to see that ten-barrel wells, if there are enough of them under one ownership, can be made to pay very fair profits.

It is admitted that between sixty and seventy of the wells are scarcely paying expenses, and that it would probably be better policy to use the land for other purposes, but some owners, when they find the wells unprofitable, simply leave them indefinitely, and make no attempt to clean up or remove derricks until forced to do so by the inspector.

The Truth About Stoves

By the Largest Makers of Stoves and Ranges in the World

MANY people have been deceived in believing that stoves were cheap because of a low price, when experience proves them the most expensive.

A small price may be paid for a stove which looks attractive in the catalogue, which has been described as "perfect," but it is liable to prove a very expensive purchase; for ten chances to one, trouble will arise from this stove in a month's time—it may not heat or cook properly, or it may consume fuel like a locomotive. Then the material in the stove itself may wear so poorly that at the end of a year or so it will have to be replaced.

You never get something for nothing in this world, and when you pay a small price for a stove, that price must cover the cost of material and labor, and include a reasonable profit, consequently inferior cast-iron and steel, and the cheapest and most inexperienced labor, must go into this seemingly low-priced stove.

FOUL BLOW FOR CROWE.

Tony Moran "Roughs" Him Once Too Often.

Referee Gives the Fight to the Sufferer.

Dearben the Best Sprinter. Tacoma Team Comes.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—In the tenth round of a fight at Colma tonight, Johnny Crowe of San Francisco was awarded the decision after having been dealt a foul blow by Tony Moran of Brooklyn.

In the previous fighting, Moran was frequently outclassed and resorted to rough tactics. He landed several low blows, and was cautioned by the referee. Moran finally landed a hard left on Crowe's groin. Crowe went down, writhing in pain, and Referee Sol Levy awarded him the fight.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GAMES.

ST. LOUIS DRIVES THE SPIKE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—It devolved upon Louis, the tail-enders in the league pennant race, to finally head off the Chicago American League baseball team and drive the final spike in the latter's aspirations for the 1905 pennant honors. The coveted piece of bunting was now within its grasp, and to give Philadelphia a clear title to the American League championship. Almost as remarkable as the now historic burst of form displayed by the Chicago team on its last eastern trip was the reversion of form of the locals when they faced Dr. White, Manager Jones's pitcher, from the box in the third inning and snowed the visiting team under an avalanche of hits and runs finally clinching the game, which finally won by a score of 6 to 2. The two runs already counted in the first third, Manager Jones started the substitute Walsh for White. There followed a hurried consultation, and Jones gave White another opportunity. The men on St. Louis men to face the new pitcher hit safely, Tom Jones with a double and Koehler for a home run. Walsh was then sent in, and held Chicago safely the remainder of the game, but the damage was done. Attendance 1500. Score:

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 6.—Portland defeated Tacoma, today, by bunching hits at critical periods, during which the Tacomas threw in several costly errors. Garvin held them safe at all times, although the local team backed him up splendidly, pulling off three double plays. The field was very muddy, making base-running exceedingly difficult. Schafly, Atz and Casey carried off the fielding honors. Umpire McDonald failed to show up, and Jones and Hogan umpired the game. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Portland, 5; hits, 8; errors, 1.
Tacoma, 0; hits, 7; errors, 4.
Batteries—Garvin and McLean; Brown and Graham.

SEIZES SALMON.

PRITCHARD AGAIN BUSY.

Deputy Fish Commissioner H. I. Pritchard made another raid yesterday upon the cold storage companies which he declares have abetted the violaters of the State game and fish laws, and made it possible for them to escape detection in many instances.

Having a "tip" that L. G. Zaiser, who is an old offender against the game laws, and the Southern California Provision Company, had salmon in their possession contrary to the law which closes the season between September 10 and October 16, Pritchard, descended on the Ice and Cold Storage Company's warehouse at Seventh and Santa Fe avenues yesterday and discovered the goods, aggregating nearly 500 pounds of fresh salmon. He seized the consignment and they will be turned over to the poor as soon as City Justice Austin issues the necessary orders.

Pritchard has made many complaints against Zaiser, mostly for violating the duck law. The official alleges that Mr. Zaiser has a sort of "underground railway" whereby he gets and handles ducks in defiance of law.

Zaiser's salmon numbered nineteen and weighed 380 pounds. The provision company had only five, weighing 100 pounds. In order to have these fish in Los Angeles the opening day, it is alleged that quite a number of local dealers handle them prematurely.

HEAVY TEAM AT SHERMAN.

Hundred and Eighty Average of Red Eleven.

Coach Hempel Has Forty Men to Select from.

Joe Scholder, to Captain. Prospects Bright.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

Left end, Pat Kennedy (Sioux.) 160; left tackle, Lugo (Cahuilla,) 175; left guard, Henry Coleman (Cahuilla,) 175; center, Crawford, 180; right guard, Mariano Blacktooth (Wylachie,) 180; right tackle, Lubo (Cahuilla,) 205; right end, Joe Scholder, captain of the team (Mesa Grande tribe,) 180; quarter, Charlie Coleman (Cahuilla,) 160; left half-back, Alex Tortes (Cahuilla,) 155; full-back, Dan Magee (Temecula,) 185; right half, Ben Neafus, 175. Walter Hempel left today to take a look at the big 'varsity team that is touted to shut the Indians out. Hempel says Haggerty's statement that Berkeley will blank the Indians 24 to 0 is absolutely without foundation, and that the rival coach knows nothing about the form of the Indians.

Joe Scholder, "Old Faithful," has been elected captain of the Indian team. The games scheduled at present are: Co. F team of Los Angeles at Chemawa Park, October 14; Berkeley, October 24, Los Angeles; Stanford, Los Angeles, October 28. The northern trip follows, with the game with Washington, November 11; Willamette, November 15; Multnomah, November 18; Chemawa, November 21; U.S.C., November 25, and Pomona on November 30. On December 9 the Shermans will meet St. Vincent's at Chemawa Park; the Selma Athletic Club, December 16; Haskell Indians from Kansas, December 23 at Los Angeles, and on New Year's Day the All-Stars of Los Angeles.

Last evening Hempel put the new line-up on a hay scales, and they weighed 1980. This is an average of 180 pounds per man, as the team stands in uniform; stripped, they will average about 175 pounds. The team has a heavy aggressive line, with strong and speedy tackles and guards, a shifty, steady-headed quarter, snappy backs and a giant, line-bucking full-back. The school has a squad of about forty men, all of whom are playing good football. Lupe Lugo and George Davis are playing halves and show form equal to Neafus and Tortes, both of whom are well known on Southern California gridirons.

John Galt is a reliable substitute full-back. Baldy, a fifteen-year-old boy, weighing 170 pounds, is always ready to go to their end, while Woody Whipple, Pulweider, John Bullock, Eligio Padilla and a dozen others are all eager to show their prowess should any of the men now selected become disabled. Hempel said this morning: "With such a team I hope we will go through the season without a single defeat. I say this confidently, although Sherman has a longer schedule of engagements than any team on the Coast."

BASEBALL AGAIN ON WEDNESDAY.

FINAL GAMES OF THE SEASON BEGIN NEXT WEEK.

Tacoma Series Having Been Transferred Here, Local Fans Will Have Eight Weeks of Continuous Ball. Looloos to Bring Two New Men Never Seen in Los Angeles.

Baseball next week.

This means that instead of three weeks away from home the Looloos will be away but two weeks and will arrive in this city next Monday to finish the season. The Los Angeles-Tacoma series that was scheduled for Tacoma next week has been transferred to this city on account of the small attendance at Tacoma and this means, that beginning next Wednesday there will be eight weeks of continuous ball here, the final game to be played Sunday, December 3, when the season of 1905 will come to an end.

At the present time Oakland is in the lead, with the other five teams bunched at an average of about 100 points behind. It is an impossibility to tell how the clubs will finish but it is not an impossibility for Tacoma, now at the bottom of the heap, to land in first place during the next two months for there is an average of about fifty games for each team to play. Los Angeles is scheduled for but forty-eight but has several postponed games that will surely be played off if the fight is close and we have a good chance to win. Our chances to get the second half are really very bright for with eight weeks on the home grounds the Looloos should have all the advantage that the home games mean to a club.

Now that the series with Tacoma has been transferred here Los Angeles will play on the local grounds with Tacoma two straight weeks; Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Portland and Tacoma in succession, the visiting teams being at San Francisco and Oakland the weeks they are not here.

Manager Morley left San Francisco last night and will reach here this morning, the team to come home Monday. With it will come two new players in Pitcher Nagle, late of San José, and Shortstop Middleton, the new Looloo man from the East. Both Toman and Bernard are to the bad on account of injuries, neither one having been right for several months. On the whole the team has done very well in its two weeks absence and will probably do even better on the home grounds.

FROM 'FRISCO IN FAST TIME.

A. J. WELCH AND CHAUFFEUR ARRIVE IN PACKARD.

Report Roads Good Most of the Way, but Experience Troubles This Side of Santa Barbara Where Heavy Teaming Has Cut up the Going Underfoot—Their Car.

With such startling strides has the automobile come to the front that what were inter-city records six months ago are now almost every day occurrences in the world of motor-car drivers.

Yesterday afternoon, A. J. Welch and Chauffeur H. E. Warner pulled up in front of the Western Motor Car garage on Hill street in Mr. Welch's 1905 four-cylinder Packard, fresh from the long run down the coast which they covered in an actual running time of 24 hours and 20 minutes, although the elapsed time was over a week. No attempt at a record was made, and stops were many en route. At Santa Barbara, Mr. Welch remained a week.

Warner drove the machine practically all the way, and reports the worst stretches of road encountered were in Ventura County. From San Francisco south to Santa Barbara the going was nothing to complain of; from the Channel City on into Los Angeles heavy teaming had cut up the roads so badly that they were in spots almost impassable. The big beet wagons were mostly to blame for the bad state underfoot.

The car in which Messrs. Welch and Warner are touring is of a type at present rather unfamiliar to local automobilists, though it will probably soon become well enough known here, as the Packard people are too enterprising to let as good motor-car territory as Southern California remain much longer without a representative agency. The machine is a twenty-four horse-power car, geared to fifty miles an hour. It is fitted with the new shock absorbers and a number of other modern improvements which the Packard concern is putting on its wagons.

LAST CHANCE FOR PRACTICE.

Many to Take Opportunity to "Tune up" Hand and Eye for Quail and Duck Season—The Programme, and Crack Shots Who Will be There Ready for Business.

This morning at nine o'clock on the grounds of the Los Angeles Gun Club near Sherman junction will begin the nineteenth semi-annual tournament of that organization at bluerocks.

It being the last opportunity the sportsmen will have to get into trim before the opening of the game season a considerable turnout is expected although the shoot was only conceived a week ago, and therefore has had no time to become generally known among the country trigger knights who form the bulk of the attendance at local trap events.

All the sweepstakes events are at fifteen birds, there being ten of them each day. This makes 150 birds each day or a total of 300 counting on average, which for first carries a prize of $5, and for second a prize of $2.50.

Three moneys, Chick system, will be the scheme of purse division. The features of today's shooting are the two-man-team championship and the Tufts-Lyon medal, the first at twenty-five birds; the second at fifty. Fred Mills of Santa Ana and O. O. Orr of this city hold the former trophy; the other medal was won last spring by Guy Lovelace, who will attempt to defend it.

Refreshments and shells will be obtainable on the grounds today. The local trapshots who did such good work up north, Messrs. Hagerman and Bungay, will be on hand this morning. Manufacturers agents as usual will be welcomed and permitted to shoot for the birds only.

It is expected tomorrow's crowd will aggregate about fifty shooters, about thirty being looked for this morning.

The shooters will gather at the Tufts-Lyon store about eight o'clock to go to the grounds

PART II: EDITORIAL, LOCAL AND BUSINESS SECTION

Pen Points

If the McCurdy children are not ancestor worshipers they ought to be.

One thing in favor of Mr. McCall is the fact that he never posed as the Superintendent of a Sunday-school.

There are people who believe in hell, but not in a material hell. Yet, without material, how can the place be operated.

New York is worse off than we thought. It is finding itself forced to accept Tammany Hall as the least of its evils.

The heart-breaking thing about it all is that "Everything's fair in business" seems to have been adopted as a motto by so many big men.

The way the Western States are going after Mr. McCall would seem to fully justify him in regarding them as the "enemy's country."

The most astonishing feature of this life insurance muddle is that Citizen Fixit Willard of Los Angeles has not yet taken a hand in it.

Whatever else may be said against him, it must be admitted that the President of the Mutual Life has been a good father to his children.

Looking at it in one way, perhaps we have no right to investigate the Mutual Life. Everything goes to show that it has been strictly a family affair.

Mr. Rockefeller announces himself as opposed to the destruction of the race. Are we to understand from this that he will now grant his competitors the right to live?

There is entirely too much talk about John D. Rockefeller, of course. But how are we to stop it? It is money that talks, and, oh, best beloved, that man has a stack of it!

If Mr. Fairbanks' object in moving into Illinois is to secure the backing of Uncle Joe Cannon, we can tell him he is taking a long chance. Uncle Joe may decide to back himself.

After all, perhaps it is rather unreasonable on our part to expect those "statesmen" who were bribed by the insurance companies to come forth and give their side of the story.

One witness in the insurance investigations declared that an intelligent man and a legislator are two different propositions. Well, nobody cares to dispute that kind of a statement.

District Attorney Jerome of New York will have no one but himself to blame if public opinion puts him in the Nicola Tesla class. In order to make good in this age a man has got to have something more than a mouth.

"Words are good only when backed up by deeds," said Theodore Roosevelt. This reminds us that those who oppose the acceptance of a free site for a new City Hall have not yet come forth with a similar offer, or anything like it.

A correspondent of the New York Sun explains to us that the word "graft" is an old Dutch word, meaning canal. But it makes no difference. We had already made up our minds to keep a close watch on the Panama business.

Instead of moving right into Illinois from Indiana, our advice to Mr. Fairbanks would be to locate on the line between the two. Then, in case of his nomination for the Presidency, he can hold front porch meetings in both States without leaving home.

The man who is crooked in business can't fall back on a stainless private life to save himself from the scorn of his neighbor. There's only one way, and that's to be straight up and down whether you are playing with the baby or trading in the market.

However it may fare in other places, it is certain that the Socialist movement has gained no foothold in Los Angeles. Even a proposition for the municipal ownership of John R. Haynes and C. D. Willard would be voted down almost unanimously.

The delegates from Argentina and Chile to the second peace conference of The Hague should not fail to carry with them a photograph of that statue of Christ which they have erected on the summit of the Andes between their two nations. It may serve to set the other nations on the right track.

Seldom have we seen a more beautiful example of paternal affection than that displayed by Mr. McCurdy of the Mutual Life. And yet we do not doubt but there are some policy holders in that company so narrow-minded and mean that they will fail to appreciate the generous disposition that "papa" made of their money.

We must freely acknowledge that we admire the nerve of the Count Okuma immensely. In the face of a national debt, the interest on which alone exceeds the revenues of the country, he asks the Japs not to become pessimistic. How are the poor, little, brown backs to bear the burden? The stomach of even a Jap sometimes craves for a square meal. The hunger belt has just so many holes and no more.

BUSINESS.

Speculative interest pretty well died out of the stock market at New York, yesterday, and a determination seemed to be reached to wait more definite outcome of the money situation. A report was circulated that the withdrawals of $4,500,000 from the Bank of France was destined for New York and not for London. The wheat market at Chicago showed a strong undertone. December closed at 85 1-8.

LEGISLATIVE GRAFT.

Indisputably, the most deplorable of the revelations thus far brought out in the insurance investigations now in progress in New York, is the fact that large sums are regularly devoted by insurance companies for use among the Legislatures of various States. We all know that State Legislatures are not impeccable, but it is not a pleasant nor a consoling reflection that so many of them are guilty of what Dist.-Atty. Jerome euphemistically characterizes as "great moral obliquity and moral obtuseness." We like to think that some legislators, at least, are honest.

There are many different varieties of graft with which members of State Legislatures are unfortunately familiar. There are two principal kinds with which they seem to be especially and culpably familiar in connection with the agents and managers of great life insurance corporations. In one sort of graft, the Legislature takes the initiative. In another, the insurance company is the primary offender. Both kinds are of course evil, and it is hard to say which is the more so.

When a Legislature meets, some of its members who are serving the public for what they can get out of the service, proceed at once to the introduction of "cinch" bills—measures calculated to inflict injury upon insurance companies. (Not all "cinch" bills are directed at insurance companies, but we are speaking, now, of insurance graft only.) As these measures are pressed, with a prospect of their passage, it becomes imperative that they shall be defeated. Money is regularly appropriated by the insurance companies, it seems, to defeat these obnoxious measures. It is called "legislative work." Agents of the companies are sent to lobby against the bills. Their methods of "persuasion" are many, and are best known to themselves and to members of the Legislatures with whom they come in contact. These are principally chairmen of committees and the more prominent "leaders" of legislative opinion.

The "persuasions" of insurance agents are generally effective in defeating the undesirable measures, but the work is rather expensive. Sometimes legislators are arrested, tried, convicted and imprisoned for accepting bribes. As a general proposition they are not. More rarely still, the man who offers a bribe is caught in the toils of justice. Such an occurrence, however, is so infrequent as hardly to be worth mentioning. Briber and bribee, in probably more than nine hundred cases out of a thousand, escape altogether.

Another form of legislative graft is where the insurance company draws up some measure which it desires to have enacted into law. In order to get it through the Legislature, money is required—or, as it is called, "legislative work" is necessary. This, too, is rather expensive, but the bill goes through if enough money and "work" are expended.

All this, as we have said, is most deplorable. It is more than that. It is a menace to the welfare and the perpetuity of free government. This growing potency of dollars—dollars—dollars—in all the affairs of life, must cease or the consequences will be more serious than any danger that has heretofore menaced the American republic. To recognize the seriousness of this growing menace is the first step toward avoiding its consequences.

It is gratifying to note some signs of an awakening public conscience. Through this beneficent and saving agency must come our avoidance of the dangerous rocks toward which our ship of state is drifting.

Legitimate enterprise is well. Reasonable money-making is a good incentive to progress. But if we allow our nation to become a colossal get-rich-quick concern—disregarding law, honesty, character, and all the civic virtues, in a mad scramble after dollars, no matter how obtained—what can we expect but disaster and dissolution?

But we shall emerge from this slough of graft and moral rottenness in which we are floundering. The future holds no such ignominious destiny for us as that we shall perish in the filth of our own degradation. The American conscience will rescue us from a fate so ignoble.

GIVE ALL A SQUARE DEAL.

The City Superintendent of Buildings, J. J. Backus, has sworn to complaints against the managers of six theaters for failure to comply with the ordinances designed to insure the safety of buildings used for public assemblage. The theaters against which he makes complaint are the Chutes Theater, the Casino, the Star, the Broadway, the Lyric, and the Cineograph.

In its recent report the grand jury found that Fischer's Theater, on First street, was in a dangerous condition for want of adequate fire exits, and recommended that it should either be made to comply with the ordinances or be closed.

Whether the grand jury overlooked the theaters alleged by the Superintendent of Buildings to be unsafe is a matter upon which there may be differences of opinion. At all events, the report of the grand jury was productive of much good. The proprietor of Fischer's Theater took immediate steps to improve conditions, and the Superintendent of Buildings has awakened to new and commendable activity.

The fact that stands out in boldest relief in this connection is this:

If these safety ordinances are good they should be enforced. If any of them are bad, they (the bad ones) should be repealed.

This is the whole thing in a nutshell. The ordinances that are supposedly in force should be so in fact, or should be annulled. It should not require an Iroquois horror every other year to impress this fact upon the minds of municipal officials nor upon the public mind.

Perhaps there may not be a repetition of the Iroquois disaster in fifty years. Perhaps there may be a repetition of it, on a scale large or small, in a month, or a day, right here in Los Angeles. No one can know, for such calamities come unexpectedly, and with terrible swiftness. The only right way to meet them is with all known precautions tending to make them, so far as may be, impossible.

Of course, there should be absolute impartiality in the enforcement of these laws—of all laws. There must be no exceptions, no favoritism, no grudges to pay off. Everybody concerned should be given "a square deal," including the public. In fact, the public is chiefly interested in having the laws strictly and impartially enforced. The public means all of us. We demand only what is right and just; and we demand that our demands be not ignored. The cases against these offending theater managers should be pressed. And are there any others, Mr. Backus?

TOO MUCH FOR PAT.

Before Pat Crowe proceeds to kidnap Rockefeller, as he swears he will some day, he would better stop and consider.

Kidnaping a billionaire presents several difficulties.

In the first place, who would give up $2,000,000 to get him back? Could a little fish get along without an octopus? Would the Rockefeller family like to burn all the gas they wanted for one glorious riotous night? And then some nights?

Then again, if they did pay ransom, John D. would probably stop the check and return the goods for more favorable quotation.

Once let John D. into the inner secrets of a profitable kidnaping combine, and poor Pat would probably find himself crowded out of his job and forced lower and lower until he would have to take up the oil business to earn the bread and butter of life.

John D. would soon absorb the kidnapers into a trust and come home with the $25,000.

If the ransom money were refused, it is quite possible that John D. might offer to buy his own life from Pat, giving stock in payment.

After which guileless, trustful Pat would be assessed for his stock until his money was gone, frozen out and finally kidnaped back (at reduced rates) and sued by John D. for having sold him damaged goods, he swearing that Pat represented a fine head of hair and a great digestion when payment was made.

Before he got out of the deal, poor Pat might be committed to a life of strenuous kidnaping of other people for the rest of his days to pay John off; and dying, in the end, discover that John had won the exclusive kidnaping concession and find himself a bankrupt kidnaper owing unnumbered royalties.

DRILL THE POLICE!

Acting Chief Auble will make a mistake if he listens to the childish howl that has gone up from the policemen against military drill.

No part of a policeman's duty is more important. It is fortunate that the police force has so thorough a tactician as Drillmaster Lenhausen.

In their protest to Capt. Auble, the policemen have objected on the grounds that the drill is too long, too intricate, and too hot in full dress uniforms.

The drill is not too intricate. The evolutions are those prescribed for the United States army, which are of the simplest character.

What the policemen really mean is that the drill is not limited to purely perfunctory movements.

The benefits of military drill are psychological even more than physical. Drill is a mental stimulus. It cultivates alertness, pliability of mind, concentration and the habit of instant response to leadership.

If the drill is reduced to perfunctory exercises which can be done without quick thinking, all of these benefits are lost.

Every police force, even in the most orderly community, must provide for the day when possible rioting may turn patrolmen into a little temporary army. A police force accustomed to severe military drill becomes a quick, snappy efficient machine, equal to many times its own numbers in disorganized lawlessness. The undrilled police force is a helpless jellyfish.

The only reason why twenty soldiers can cope with 1000 rioters is not because the soldiers are braver than the rioters but because they are drilled.

For everyday reasons why military drill should not be abandoned:

Our policemen, although a fine body of men, have often merited the criticism that they are slouchy and unsoldierly on their beats.

Furthermore, a policeman unable to endure two hours in full dress uniform has not the stamina or the strength to be a capable public protector.

OCTOBER.

The russet moth comes through the russet path,
With scarlet berries in her hair;
The gorgeous gifts that in her hand she hath,
The mellow autumn bade her bear,
A gift of opalescent light,
In memory of summer flight
Out through the purple air.

Before her, with their torches all aflame,
The acolytes of autumn run,
The oak trees burn and blush as red as shame
Beneath the ardent autumn sun.
The grapes are clinging to the vine,
Each one a bubble filled with wine
And each a purple one.

Her brow is graced with coronet of gold,
Her russet gown is dashed with light,
With jewels it is spangled, fold on fold,
Embroidered and with gems bedight;
She comes along the winding way,
Half sad is she, half light and gay,
Half russet and half bright.

The russet moth comes through the veil of haze,
With flashing jewels in her crown,
Around her feet the golden sunshine plays
And flings a glory on her gown;
With downcast eyes she comes the while,
But on her lips there is a smile,
The month of gold and brown.

Farthings a Drug.

Why not 2 farthings? Are not 2 farthings equivalent to a halfpenny, and 2 halfpennies worth a penny, and a dozen pennies change for a shilling? Not a bit of it. The omnibus conductor deals in coppers; he organizes his finances at the public house, where the horses drink water and their masters drink beer, and farthings are not recognized. Half-crowns, florins, shillings, sixpences, pennies, and perhaps one halfpenny he collects. Possibly the disappearing threepenny bit. But no farthings. Yet the enterprising crank might compel, invoking the police and the army, to enforce the truth that four farthings are equal to a penny, and legal tender for that sum.

Most conductors are adament against the farthing. A correspondent tells us of a girl returning from a shopping expedition. "She found to her horror only a halfpenny and two farthings in her purse when called on for her fare. The conductor refused to take those coins, and the girl was obliged to leave the bus and walk home, or, rather, run, through a part of London that was strange to her." The moral is that every one should keep in the pocket some coins between a sovereign and a farthing. This is a counsel of perfection for those among us who think only in sovereigns and those who must think in farthings!—[London Chronicle.

TO REACH THE CLOUDS.

Structure Higher Than Any in the World to be Built in New York.

[New York Herald:] Original always and in all things, New York is soon to have the oddest amusement enterprise on the face of the earth, in the shape of a tower taller than any structure in the world and equipped with a larger variety of combined entertainments an utilities than anything that has ever existed for the edification of the millions who are constantly and hungrily seeking new pleasures.

Called "The Weber Tower," after its designer, Carl Weber one of the best-known experts in the matter of tall steel-concrete constructions, the building will be unique in many ways, and when it has been erected, either in one of the parks of Manhattan or in some equally prominent spot, it will unquestionably be one of the foremost attractions of the metropolis.

In the first place it will reach the enormous height of 1250 feet, just 258 feet taller than the Eiffel Tower in Paris and more than twice as tall as the Washington Monument, which, with 555 feet, is at present the highest permanent structure in the world.

It will so far overtop everything in New York that comparison is idle, the Park Row Building, which now holds preëminence, being only 382 feet high, and the St. Paul Building, ranking second, having but 308 feet. In Europe, after the Eiffel Towel, there is only the Ulm Cathedral, with 528 feet, but this is excelled by the City Hall in Philadelphia, with 548 feet.

Height alone, however, will not be the chief recommendation of the Weber Tower. It will be a skyscraper of universal invitation. If you are a business man you will be able to rent offices inside its lean but lofty stretches. If you want an evening's frolic you will be escorted to the highest roof-garden in the world, 1100 feet above the sidewalk, which is so high that every other roof-garden will look like a pygmy patch of light without form or substance. If you are an astronomer you will find all the paraphernalia for the study of the heavens at such close range that you will hardly need a telescope. And above all there will be the necessary precautions to prevent you jumping off if are one of those persons who get that impulse whenever they reach the top of a high place.

Although virtually nothing has been known of this remarkable project except by those most intimately associated with it, the plans have so far progressed that in all likelihood it will be an accomplished fact in a reasonably short time. Several of the most influential capitalists in New York have taken it up and have been so much impressed with it that the vast sum required for it is practically ready and actual work will probably begin before winter sets in. So thoroughly has the scheme been worked out that the whole structure can be completed and ready for use within a year after the beginning of the operation.

In design the tower will be entirely novel. Its main part is to be cylindrical, in the form of a shaft 35 feet inside diameter, the lower 300 feet reinforced by a sistem of ribs, while the largest outside diameter will be 140 feet. Balconies for the accomodation of visitors will be provided at various heights, and the highest platform accesible to the public will be 1200 feet above the street level, where there will be space for as many as 1600 persons at one time.

According to the present plans, eight elevators will run in the main shaft, with a capacity of about 1250 persons every hour. The main platform, however, where there will be a roof-garden that can be enclosed when the necessity arises, will be 1100 feet high. Here there will be refreshment stands, a postoffice, telegraph offices, public telephones, toilet rooms, and about everything else that modern exigencies demand, while well-informed guides will be in attendance to point and explain the wonderful views from every side and to furnish field glasses when required. Another novel feature will be provision for a United States weather observatory, which will be higher than any now in use, as well as several rooms applicable to private scientific research.

From the base of the tower up to the 300-foot balcony there will be 18 stories, some of which will be utilized for affice purposes and some for entertainment. There will be ample room for a theater, as well as for a museum and other exhibitions. As a matter of fact, half a dosen distinct entertainment enterprises may be included in this great space without conflict. The second floor, however, will be reserved for a restaurant of the first-class, with about 10,000 square feet of floor space, and, of course, the most up-to-date improvements in the way of comfort and decorative effect.

On the lower floor there will be stores, but only such as will be in harmony with the purposes of the entire edfice, and here also will be located the electric machinery for the operation of the elevators and the power for the light, heat, ventilation apparatus, and so on, although this will be of such a magnitude that a part of it will go below the main stairway.

It is estimated that the cost of the new tower will be about $3,000,000, including electric equipment. Interior decoration and fixtures, and a reserve fund for emergencies. During the work of building, the public will be admitted on Sundays and holidays for several hours for a nominal charge, the receipts thus obtained being devoted to the payment of interest of the working capital during the period of construction. It is believed that the tower, when finally in operation, will be capable of accomodating easily 15,000 persons a day.

Stick to Your Seat.

If you are riding on a trolley car, and if your hat or any other property you may possess flies out the window or out the side of the open car, let it go! Take no chances on getting your head knocked off, and don't under any circumstances try to spring from the running board to rescue property while the car is running fast!

There have been some sickening accidents due to this carelessness or thoughtlessness on the part of people of late. Heads have been crushed against telegraph poles that were close beside the track when the owners of the heads leaned out to look for some flying article. Legs and arms have been broken when people lost their hold trying to lean out from the running board and prevent the loss of property. Jumps from the cars have caused death and mangling and terrible maiming. And all for the sake, as a rule, of saving some little bit of property that isn't worth stepping across the street to save under even ordinary circumstances!

Stick to your seat till the car stops, and if you lose a hat and retain intact the head under it think how much you've saved and be happy!—[Brockton Enterprise.

As Many Chances as Ever.

There are unquestionably many opportunities for success now, the same as there have been since the creation of the world, but now, as ever, they must be searched for. Everyone encounters obstacles, but it should be borne in mind that failures are intended to serve as stepping stones to success. Most successful men have been "broke," have met with failures, have been discouraged and have thought, as many others probably do today, that "life is not worth living," yet their perseverance and determination aroused their latent power and helped them to turn adverse conditions to good account. Those who struggle manfully and keep up their courage will not die without having achieved a measure of success befitting their intelligence and talents.—[Boston Globe.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Italian Benefit.

The largest concert of the early season was that last night at Simpson Auditorium, given by a well-selected company of local musicians as a benefit for the Calabria sufferers, in the earthquake devastated province in Italy. A fair gathering of representative people was in attendance and nearly $1200 was returned to the custodians of the fund in net proceeds.

At a benefit concert, where everybody contributes and everybody is striving, not for glorification, but for worthy charity, it is hard to select the popular favorites. Certain it is, though, that no greater artistic success was scored last evening than that gained by Arnold Krauss, in his masterly and finished rendition of Mendelssohn's opus 64 concerto. Every note, as smooth and even as the undulation from an open harp string, was bound to its fellow in an unrelenting legato, and out of the varying moods of his composer's thought Mr. Krauss rehewed for us a composite tonal picture, with rich lights and somber shades, delicate tints and sharp contrasts, all as perfect and poetic as a great virtuoso might wish. Such playing, in which he was supported con spirito by Miss Blanche Rogers, is a veritable opening of the inner gates of song.

Miss Rita Green, who has been for some months a favorite local singer, returned from San Francisco this week, and gave her audience last night a beautiful wee bit of dramatic colorature, in Mimi's well-remembered aria, from "Boheme." Miss Green uses a small voice with pure art, and Italians say that her enunciation of their language is unusually perfect.

Domenico Russo, who is in evidence at any affair of his people, sang with gusto and good voice several numbers—"Una Furtiva Lagrima," selections from "Traviata," and "La Donna Mobile." He covered himself with artistic glory in the first, was part of a duet in the second, and of course sang the last for an encore, after encores had been barred out by the management.

Mrs. Jo Hensel-Kleif and Mr. Jahn gave a difficult piano duet, Leo Cooper delighted his audience with a reading from Mrs. Browning's works, Miss Frances Close played a Wienlawski violin number, Mr. Colby gave the prelude to the third act of "Lohengrin" on the organ, and Miss Reese-Davies sang two airs from "Traviata."

Donatelli's band—now badly overloaded in the brass end—more's the pity—played valiantly to much applause.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

As a graceful tribute to the first president of the Friday Morning Club, Madame Caroline Severance, she was asked to take the platform yesterday morning and to call the club to order upon its first day of the new club year.

After a few words from Madame Severance, Mrs. Earnest F. Foster, upon whom her mantle of the chief executive has fallen, gave her first address to the members. More in the nature of an informal and heart to heart talk it proved to be, with sound sense and judgment clear through.

The first outlined what the Friday Morning Club is for, as it occupies a unique position, being neither a study club, a reform club, nor a philanthropic organization, and yet partaking to a certain extent of all three. "We blazed a fresh trail," said Mrs. Foster, "as a sort of reaction from our radical spirit. We might call ourselves a feminine triumphal democracy, for the Friday Morning Club is a liberal democratic organization for discussion, and though we do much to arouse interest and spur to action, our special province is discussion."

Mrs. Foster explained that as the club has grown so phenomenally, numbering nearly nine hundred members, the enjoyable informal discussions had become correspondingly difficult.

"A few of us lingered after our meeting to talk things over while the name was fresh in our minds, and from this simple beginning has grown our club luncheons and our 'cordiality' committee. These luncheons are not for the purpose of supplying the best sort of spread," she continued, "but to give the members a chance to express their views to one another."

Mrs. Foster called especial attention to the diversity of membership, including as it does, literary women, business women, society women, artists, musicians and philanthropic workers, affording in consequence a wide variety of opinions.

"We have thus she said, "into a closer and more formal, a more direct and human relation with other women, and with a membership as ours we certainly ought to hear all sides of a question."

Another point brought out by Mrs. Foster was that about the Friday Morning Club is that it makes no demands upon its members and that its activities can be laid aside at any time if more important and vital matters require their attention.

A matter of guests was taken up by Mrs. Foster, who explained that as the club was so large and the seating capacity of their auditorium so limited, a very stringent rules had been made in regard to inviting guests, and that no guests could be asked for the William Winter lecture.

A building committee, she stated, was conferring, and that soon it would be decided whether to buy the present clubhouse and enlarge it, or to erect one of their own elsewhere, as the club has outgrown its present quarters.

Mrs. Foster, the president's address there was a short talks from the heads of committees, and luncheon was served in the cheerily number at the close of the business.

A Map of California and Arizona.

A special map, showing springs and water holes in the deserts of California and Arizona, is printed in the Sunday Times of October 8. It will occupy a full-sized page, on the reverse side of which will be found detailed matter exploiting the vast desert country of the Southwest.

WARREN HAMLIN, who has had experience in newspaper work and as a lecturer, will open a class in literary journalism in October. As there is a steadily increasing demand for the work of writers, this opportunity should be taken by those who contemplate making literature their profession. Mrs. Hamlin will be at the studio on Monday, October 9, from 1 to 4, and will be pleased to talk to those interested. Instruction will also be given by correspondentary law.

MINES AND MINING.

RANDSBURG IS GOING AHEAD.

MORE TUNGSTEN TO BE SHIPPED TO GERMANY.

Yellow Aster Working for Bigger Water Supply to Increase Mill's Capacity—Greene Copper's Report for Twelve Months Shows Earning of Four Dollars a Share.

The successful shipment of tungsten from Randsburg to San Francisco whence it has been started on its ocean journey to Germany, is to be followed by others in the immediate future. The owners, Messrs. McCarthy and Taylor, are now talking of erecting a concentration plant to handle the low grade ore.

Philip Mertz and M. C. Curran, owners of the Opportunity, another tungsten property, are preparing to ship. They are getting ores running as high as 72 per cent.

The Yellow Aster is running its two mills to their full capacity of 600 tons. The company is now endeavoring to double its present water supply with a view to adding more stamps and increasing the output. The ore in sight is declared to be sufficient to run 200 stamps for years. Work is in progress at the company's old well.

The Butte is reported to be producing from $6000 to $8000 a month in dividends. The King Solomon, which was long ago shut down on account of litigation, is now running steadily, has some twenty tons of $100 ore on the dump which will be milled when fifty tons are ready. The Little Butte is also being worked by Henry Glondoni and Charles Taylor under lease. Other lessees who are operating at present are: Barney Ostick, Merced mine; J. O. Balschweld and Young Ray, Pearl Wedge mine, and Ed Shipsey and J. J. London, Napoleon mine.

GREENE'S PROSPERITY.

The Greene Consolidated Copper Company, which was some time ago reported sold to Phelps, Dodge & Company but is still doing business under the old management, has given out an advance statement of its report for the year ending July 31, which will be issued shortly. This shows a production for the twelve months of 44,211,895 pounds of copper at a cost of 10.6 cents a pound, not including construction, this amount being due to the excessive rains of the last season which caused several washouts and much caving-in at the mines. Net earnings were $3.24 per share and $2.27 after construction, this item having amounted to $831,000. The average yield of ore was only 3.51 per cent. as compared with about 4½ per cent. last year. Dividends paid amounted to $1,900,000, and $73,287 was carried to surplus. The average price received for copper during the year under review was 14.£ cents per pound.

"If it be assumed that Greene's copper is still costing 10.6 cents per pound, the company must be earning, on the 16½-cent copper market, at the rate of nearly $4 per share after construction, or 16 per cent. on the selling price of its stock," says the Boston Commercial. "There is believed to be a considerable short interest in Greene stock, and it is declared by those in a position to know that there are no large weakly margined holdings. The situation is such that a considerable advance in the price of the stock would seem certain. The company is getting the full benefit of the advance in the price of copper, its September output having been sold at an average of 16⅝ cents per pound."

BIBLE LESSONS.

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHERS AND OTHER BIBLE STUDENTS.

Prepared for The Times by J. S. Kirtley.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 8.

Daniel vi. 16-22: "Daniel in the Lions' Den."

THE CONNECTION.

This was probably 538 B. C. and Daniel was not an old man, over eighty. That night when he interpreted Belshazzar's dream, he city fell and the King perished. But before his death Belshazzar fulfilled his word by lifting Daniel into authority. When the Persian conqueror came in he recognized Daniel's value and kept him in power. This conqueror is called "Darius, the Mede." Cyrus was the real King of Persia and this Darius is not spoken of anywhere else, in the Bible or outside. The conclusion is that he was an eminent Mede, the highest representative of the King, placed over this nation and given the title and honors of King.

He was a good organizer and fine judge of men. He gave the people as much self-government as he could and divided them into one hundred and twenty provinces, with a satrap over each. Over these he appointed three presidents, who were his counselors. That was wise. But he was still wiser in making Daniel one of the three and finally the chief of the three. That meant trouble for Daniel, though. The other presidents became jealous of him and combined to put him out of the way. Their first effort was to find a flaw in his public services and bring charges on which he could be put out of office or put to death. They failed. They next played a trick on the King. They found material in three things—Daniel's religion; the fiction of the divine origin and rights of the King and the kingly conceit of Darius. With most orientals the King is descended from the gods, and his word is therefore infallible. The laws of the Medes and Persians changed not, because the King would not confess to being less than divine, by changing. Darius had the fiction to safeguard. They knew Daniel would not yield his religious convictions and habits. It pleased the King to have them propose that no one should make a petition to any god or man for thirty days, save Darius himself. He promised. Their revenge was coming. They hated Daniel for he was a stranger over them; he was honest—a rebuke to them; he was successful in the public service and showed them up in a poor light; he was loved by the King, more than they were; he kept aloof from them—they felt it. They have it all fixed—the King must grant their request or be put in a bad light; the law once made, the King cannot change it, without loss of everything that kings most prized; Daniel is so fixed in his habits that nothing can move him. They have all their arrangements complete.

THE LESSON.

I.

"Disobedient to the Decree." (Verses 10-11.)

"And when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; now his windows were open in his chamber toward Jerusalem; and he kneeled upon his knees three times a day and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime. Then these men assembled together, and found Daniel making petition and supplication before his God."

(1.) He was intelligent in his disobedience and not blind. He knew the jealous hatred of his fellow officials and probably expected them to resort to the usual oriental means of putting a rival out of the way; knew when the request was presented to the King and was confident it would be granted; knew just when it was signed and what it meant for him.

(2.) He was deliberate and not impulsive or hasty, or nervously excited. He did it calmly.

(3.) He was exact in his disobedience, for he did just what he had been doing all along. He often prayed in secret, while working or walking, but he had three regular seasons of prayer and he now observed them as usual. He prayed to God everywhere, but there was one place he went for privacy—his quiet room over the wall—and thither he goes as usual. He might have gone to a secret unseen chamber and no one would have known whether he violated the decree or not, but he would not be credited with denying his God. He could pray in any attitude and looking in any direction, but he always kneels in that house and always prays for his country with window open toward Jerusalem, expressing hope and love and confidence in the love of God for His people. He does it today.

(4.) He was not vindictive. He simply did right, knowing it was right and trusting God to keep him. He had no enmity toward the King. He was too great and strong to stop to fear or cowardly hatred.

(5.) He was seen by his enemies, for they "came thronging" to his home and stood watching. Those high officials are not too dignified to become treacherous, tricky murderers and sneaking informers.

(6.) He was joyous and grateful in his prayer, mingling thanksgiving for past blessings with petitions for future mercies. In fact, nothing is said about his petitions, though he must have prayed for his people and for himself.

II.

"Delivered to the Lions." (Verses 12-18.)

"And they came near and spake before the King concerning the King's interdict: Hast thou not signed an interdict, that every man that shall make petition unto any god or man within thirty days, save unto thee, O King, shall be cast into the den of lions? The King answered and said, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not. Then answered they and said before the King, That Daniel, who is of the children of the captivity of Judah, regardeth not thee, O King, nor the interdict that thou hast signed, but maketh his petition three times a day. Then the King, when he heard these words was sore displeased, and set his heart on Daniel to deliver him; and he labored till the going down of the sun to rescue him. Then these men assembled together unto the King, and said unto the King, Know, O King, that it is a law of the Medes and Persians, that no interdict nor statute which the King establisheth may be changed.

"Then the King commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now the King spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee. And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den, and the King sealed it with his own signature, and with the signet of his lords; that nothing might be changed concerning Daniel. Then the King went to his palace, and passed he night fasting; neither were instruments of music brought before him, and his sleep fled from him."

The witnesses gave proof, for they had seen with their own eyes and there were several witnesses. They did it adroitly, too. They first reminded the King that he had made such a decree, and he assured them that he had and that it was a changeless edict. Then they told him whom they had found guilty. They had succeeded in their plans.

(2.) The King's distress.

On the one side he saw their animus, knew they had played a bad trick, saw the scorn with which they spoke of Daniel, and their pride at befooling the King, mingled with a bit of contempt for him, and he knew it would be fiendish to punish so good a man. On the other side he felt compelled to let the law take its course. To break it would surrender the doctrine of the divine origin and rights of rulers and lose the credulous reverence ofthe people; would confess himself a common man and not a king, a weakling not wise enough to see a plot nor shrewd enough to keep from being befooled; would array himself against his own superior, if he was an underling of the great Cyrus, as he seems to have been. Then too he thought that Dante's God, who had done so much for him would deliver him. He allowed the punishment and sealed the door of the den of lions when Daniel was thrust in. He contrasts with Daniel, who calmly spent the night in the den while Darius, troubled by conscience and a tender love for Daniel himself tossed to and fro all night.

III.

"Delivered Safe From the Lions." (Verses 19-23.)

"Then the King arose early in the morning, and went in haste unto the den of lions. And when he came near unto the den to Daniel, he cried with a lamentable voice; the King spake and said to Daniel, O Daniel, servant of the living God, is thy God, whom thou servest continually, able to deliver thee from the lions? Then said Daniel unto the King, O King, live for ever. My God hath sent His angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, and they have not hurt me; forasmuch as before him innocency was found in me; and also before thee, O King, have I done no hurt. Then was the King exceedingly glad and commanded that they should take Daniel up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den and no manner of hurt was found upon him because he had trusted in his God."

No one was so glad as the King to find Daniel alive the next day. No one was so calm as was Daniel throughout the fierce trial. Two reasons of his safety are claimed—his confidence in God and his innocence. No one can commend the vindictiveness with which the King turned the punishment upon Daniel's enemies, but no one can deny that they deserved it.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

"The story of Daniel has many duplicates at oriental courts. Just as the envious satraps and hungry crew of place seekers had Daniel thrown into the den of lions so the eunuchs and satellites of the Ottoman seraglio seek the downfall and ruin of every official who tries with honesty and skill to serve the state. The ways of oriental courts are as changeless as the laws of the Medes and Persians."—[Wright.

"If I have a right to consider myself a Christian, and if I have attained to any usefulness in the church of Christ I owe it in the way of instrumentality to the sight of a companion who slept in the same room with me and who always bent his knees in prayer on retiring to rest. That scene aroused my slumbering conscience and sent an arrow to my heart. My conversion soon followed and my preparation for the work of the ministry. Nearly a half-century has rolled away since then, but that little chamber and that praying youth are still present to my mind, and will be even amid the splendors of heaven and through the ages of eternity."—[James.

POINTS TO IMPRESS.

(1.) That no duty is to be denied.
(2.) That in time of danger prayer is still more necessary.
(3.) That the faithless always find fault with the faithful.
(4.) That conceit is sure to lead to sin.
(5.) That safety is not found in secrecy.
(6.) That confidence in God gives courage before men.
(7.) That the consciousness of innocence is an armor of defense.
(8.) That God never deserts His friends.
(9.) That to suffer wrong is not so great a tragedy as to inflict wrong.
(10.) That faith in God prompts to fidelity to men.

THE UNIVERSAL WAR.

Terse comments upon the Uniform Prayer-meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies—Christian Endeavor, Epworth League, Baptist Young People's Union, Etc.—For October 8. "The Christian's Trials and Triumphs." James 1 1-8.

By William T. Ellis.

The battle for character is the one fight that is forever raging everywhere; and it is the finest spectacle the angels behold as they keep watch upon human-kind. Night and day this struggle rages, and often hardest in breasts where it is the least suspected. Men and women are striving for their divine heritage of nobility of soul. They want to conquer their baser natures and cultivate their better. To be the best that God will permit them to be is the sincerest ambition of a myriad of hearts; and it is the noblest ambition possible to mortals.

At eventide I floated up one of the most beautiful of the winding rivers of Maine. Smoothly, silently, swiftly the canoe was propelled by the skilful strokes of an old Indian. The setting sun cast the long shadows of the pines upon the water. A glint of red among the green, a rocky bluff, verdure-crowned, suddenly rising into view by a sharp turn in the stream, a snatch of sunset through the trees, a brown-carpeted cathedral of murmuring pines, a stretch of meadowland, with a typical old white and green homestead in the distance; the splash of an occasional fish leaping out of water—such were some of the delights of that peaceful voyage up the Kennebunk. It was a joy that parabled the eventide of a good life. Yet another and a better kind of pleasure was mine a few days later, when, alone in a small boat with an old fisherman, we battled with the tumultuous ocean. Far out from shore, where the heavy long roll of the sea, and the quick, crested and pounding billows, fested the timber of the craft, and seamanship of her skipper, we mastered wind and wave. And the exhilaration, the tingling delight, the singing joy of that experience far surpassed the quieter enjoyment of the river's placid breast and beauty-clad banks. So I could understand James' paradoxical exhortation to count it all joy when one falls into manifold trials. There is a joy in struggle which the sequestered cannot know. The testings of God are not to be shrunk from, but to be rejoiced in; for with them he sends the warrior's happiness and the warrior's reward.

Triumphs are born of trials. Where there is no struggle there is no victory. So he who would rejoice in success must first be ready for welcome testings.

The difference between a babe and a man is twenty years of conflict with the world. The testings of time and experience have given man his triumphs of character. Keep a babe in bed for twenty-one years, make no demands upon its powers of mind and body, and it will remain a babe to the end.

"Rejoice that He counts thee worthy,
Wrap thy mantle around thee,
Thy wound let no man know."

"Why comes temptation, but for man to meet
And master and make crouch beneath his foot,
And so be pedestaled in triumph."

"Nothing happens" to a Christian; everything, literally everything, that enters his life is sent by the all-wise and all-loving Father, and is designed for the perfection of character and the enlargement of capability.

Gothenburg Committee Begins New Campaign.

Permanent Headquarters are to be Opened.

Letter to Public Issued to Explain the System.

An important meeting of what has come to be known as the Gothenburg Committee was held yesterday in the Mason building, Fourth and Broadway, for the purpose of discussing the proposed plan of securing for a syndicate of local capitalists control of all the saloons in the city, with a view of adopting the famous Gothenburg plan.

When the matter was first brought to the attention of the public some months ago, it was the intention of those interested in it to wage a campaign until they had secured its adoption. Then the Owens River proposition was announced and urged upon the people, and rather than endanger that important matter by trying to further the other matter, the committee held its work in abeyance for a time until the Owens River bond matter had been decided by the people.

Yesterday's meeting was attended by nearly a score of the members of the general committee. Mr. Mason has offered the committee the free use of one of the offices in his building and it was decided to open headquarters here.

William Mead, who has made a study of the proposed plan, delivered an address in which he told in detail how the Gothenburg system would work if applied to Los Angeles. His report was received with enthusiasm, and it is understood that work be immediately begun to determine whether it will be possible to secure the adoption of the system in this city.

The committee also authorized the publication of an open letter in which a partial explanation of the benefits claimed for the system is made. The letter follows:

Relying on an intelligent and public-spirited citizenship to remedy admitted evils when a proper remedy is offered, we call attention to certain evils of the retail liquor business in Los Angeles and suggest a remedy.

First. There are too many saloons. No one will pretend to justify the existence of sixteen saloons within a radius of one block of a given point as being for the public good. If the two-hundred saloons were reduced to seventy-five, and these properly distributed, no citizen would suffer any inconvenience, and the public order and society would be greatly promoted.

The private saloon keeper with his personal interest in the profits of the business is constantly tempted to sell to minors and to drunken men, and the same motive causes a large majority of the saloon keepers to adulterate their wares, increasing their profits, but injuring their patrons.

From the nature of his business the saloon keeper feels compelled to take an active part in local politics and this activity is not conducive to good government.

To remedy these and other evils connected with the business we propose the adoption of a modified form of the Gothenburg system. We will incorporate a company with ample capital which will make the City of Los Angeles the following proposition:

The company will take the entire 200 saloon licenses issued by the city and pay the present revenue of $180,000 per year, closing one hundred and twenty-five of the saloons and running seventy-five.

After having paid the license tax to the city, the stockholders shall be entitled to a dividend not exceeding 6 per cent. per annum on the actual amount of their investment. All the profits above 6 per cent. per annum will be paid into the city treasury for the use or lessening taxation.

While the courts have decided that a man has a vested right to sell liquor, that the Police Commission can refuse licenses without showing cause, we do not favor anything that savors of confiscation, and would offer to buy the furniture and fixtures of every saloon now running, at their appraised value, and would also appraise the good will, paying for the latter in annual installments over a series of years and out of the profits. The payment for good will being regarded as purely moral and not a legal obligation.

Among the advantages of such a system as compared with the present would be:

First—The reduction in the number of saloons from two hundred to seventy-five.

Second—The closing of all saloons of disreputable class and the strict alliance with laws prohibiting the sale of liquor to minors and drunken men.

Sixth—The entire elimination of the saloon keeper and his organization from local politics.

Seventh—The large increase obtained in the revenues of the city resulting from all the profits being paid into the city treasury, causing a very substantial reduction in the rate of taxation, permitting the improvement of roads, parks and building of schools to an extent not possible with present revenues.

The accomplishment of these purposes is worthy the best efforts of every good citizen. The wage earner, the business and the professional man alike interested in all that tends to improve our city. We appeal to every citizen who believes these reforms will advance the moral and material interests of Los Angeles to unite with us in their accomplishment.

BUSSEY'S TALE.

Police Surgeons Treat Him for Facial Hurts Claimed to Have Been Sustained by Poisoned Towels.

Towels saturated with a poisonous fluid were placed in the room of A. Bussey, while through holes drilled in a partition the persons who sought to end his life witnessed the man's agony when he touched the clothes to his face.

Thus runs Bussey's version of a story which he has related to the police. Officers will investigate the affair.

The man formerly resided in the rooming-house, No. 513 South Spring street. Adjoining his apartments was a room occupied by an unknown man and woman, whose enmity Bussey believes he incurred because he sought to have them removed from the house.

Angered at his interference, the couple are said to have formulated a dastardly plan to either kill or disfigure Bussey for life. They first bored holes in the wall separating the two rooms, it is said, and then placed a quantity of poison on the towels with which Bussey was supplied. When he entered his apartments, Bussey declares, every movement was carefully watched by the couple through the peep-holes. After washing his face he applied a towel covered with the poison, and was saved from serious injury by promptly detecting the plot.

The poison, the man avers, produced a burning sensation, and the persistency of the couple whom he accuses caused him to remove to No. 1213 West First street, where he now occupies a room. Bussey visited the Receiving Hospital last night, where the injuries to his face were treated.

GRASS EXPERT HERE TO SEE.

PROF. S. M. TRACEY WILL TRY TO HELP ORANGE GROWERS.

Field Agent of the Department of Agriculture on Tour of Investigation—Will Confer With the Stockmen and Ranchers in Regard to Introducing New Forage Grasses.

To make peas grow in orange groves and to supply the poetical, theoretical lowing kine of Southern California with new fangled grasses they never ate before is the beneficent mission in this part of the State of Prof. S. M. Tracey, special agent of the Bureau of Plant Industry and Director of Agrestology, Department of Agriculture, to give his full official title. He is a guest at a downtown hotel and is incidentally visiting J. S. France, teller of the Merchants' National Bank, a relative by marriage. Prof. Tracey is accompanied by his daughter and will remain in this end of the State about a month pursuing his investigations.

PROF. S. M. TRACEY,
U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"What I want to do principally in Southern California," said Prof. Trecey last night, "is to ascertain if it is possible to recommend to the citrus fruit growers some plant or grass crop that can be successfully grown between the orange and lemon trees and used as a fertilizer, to take the place of the chemical fertilizers that it is necessary to use each year. I come in response to the requests these growers have made to the Department of Agriculture. I will also confer with the stock raisers here about the introduction of Para grass and Guinea grass for grazing and also endeavor to introduce the Cassava, the South American plant from which tapioca is made. Incidentally I will study the soils and the climatic conditions in order to arrive at a better understanding of the subject of grasses.

"The orange growers wish to know if some plant can be grown between their trees than can be plowed under and used as fertilizer and the only thing I can think of at present that will answer the purpose is one of the several varieties of vetch, which belongs to the pea family. It is a low shrub or vine which grows rather profusely and is eaten with a relish by both horses and cattle, and particularly the latter. As a crop it will produce about two tons per acre. It has valuable properties as a fertilizer and when not used as a forage plant if can be plowed under when green for purposes of fertilization. Even when used as a forage plant the droppings of the animals will more than make up for the eating off of the plant. It can never become troublesome as a weed in an orange grove for if it is plowed under before it matures it will not grow again without the ground being re-seeded. At the present time the seed is expensive but the seed from the first crop can be saved and new ground seeded.

"The ground must have some irrigation when the seed is planted but after it gets a start it will get along with but little moisture. The seed should be planted during the early part of January and the crop will mature in May. It is not a hot weather plant and would doubtless not live through the long hot summers here but it is certainly a valuable fertilizer.

"Speaking of grasses and forage crops there is nothing that can be grown here so cheaply as alfalfa but the Para grass that is the standard grazing forage in Mexico is almost as good and grows with less irrigation. The Guinea grass, which is the standard forage plant of Cuba and the West Indies, is a valuable grass and needs but little irrigation. Both of these grasses can doubtless be grown here with success and would prove valuable to stockmen.

"The growing of the cassava should also prove a valuable industry here. It is a root plant not unlike a sweet potato and I know of several factories in Florida that use it in making starch and it can be used as a food.

"Of course it must be understood that I am here not as a teacher but as an investigator and after a month's visit in Southern California I will be better able to judge of the conditions and the requirements in my particular line.'

Prof. Tracey has been doing government work off and on for the past twenty years and has been connected with the Department of Agriculture continuously for the past ten years. Prior to that time he was director of the State Experimental station in Mississippi and professor of botany in the State University at Columbia, Mo. He is a hale and hearty old gentleman, as are all those near to Nature's heart. He was in Los Angeles eighteen years ago when the business center was up near River Station and now comes back to a great, roaring city that obliterates the memory, almost, of the old pueblo.

MAY BE INCENDIARY.

Fire, possibly of incendiary origin, was discovered in the barber shop of J. W. Varley, No. 206 East Fifth street, at 11:30 o'clock last night. A postman passing noticed flames shooting upward from a pair of curtains which were hung in the front of the place. He broke in the door. The fire was extinguished within a few minutes, and but slight loss resulted. The proximity of a large carriage factory gave an aspect of seriousness to the blaze.

Detectives detailed to the case found several persons residing in the immediate vicinity who recounted a story of having seen a man, divested of coat and hat, fleeing from the front of the shop a short time before the fire was discovered.

FLYING DASH TO DEATHBED.

ENGINEER MAKES SWIFT RUN TO SAN BERNARDINO.

Dying Sister Makes Request to See Him; Railroad Company Gives Him Clear Track from Oceanside and He Fulfills Her Wish—New Home of the First Baptist Church.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 6.—Engineer Albert C. Long of the Santa Fe made a record-breaking run with a light engine from Oceanside to this city last night, summoned by the dying request of his sister that she might see him once more before the end.

This wish was conveyed to Superintendent Hitchcock, who immediately ordered a light engine to proceed from here to Oceanside, and wired instructions to Long, who was running a heavy freight into San Diego to sidetrack his train and run to Oceanside wit his big engine, there to connect with the light engine rushing to the sea from here.

Long reached the city at 2:15 this morning, and was hurried in a waiting carriage to the home of his dying sister, Mrs. Welch, who was just sinking into the stupor of death when he was ushered into the room. His coming aroused her, and for several moments her eyes were fastened upon him, an intelligent expression overspreading her face as he bent over and gave a fervent greeting which was at the same time a last farewell.

BAPTISTS' NEW CHURCH.

Sunday is to be a gala day among the local churches, especially the Baptists, all the churches of the city having decided to participate with the First Baptist Church in dedicating its new house of worship, which has just left the hands of the artisans.

Services in keeping with the occasion will be held in the church morning, afternoon and evening, an elaborate programme having been arranged. The dedicatory sermon will be preached in the morning by Rev. E. S. Graham, D. D., of Hannibal, Mo., who is one of the most widely-known Baptist clergymen of the West, and has the distinction of having preached more dedicatory sermons than perhaps any other Baptist divine in America, a total of 188 within the last ten years.

The new edifice, including grounds and furnishings, has cost in round numbers, $19,000, and from an architectural standpoint is one of the most attractive church buildings in this section of the State. Rev. Mark B. Shaw, the pastor, has personally suggested many of the improvements which it embraces, the result being that the structure has been built on practical lines, and every department is adapted to the use for which it has been designed. The church has a seating capacity of 1,000, including the Sunday-school room, which can be thrown open and made part of the general auditorium.

In the second story of the edifice, kitchen and banquet rooms have been arranged. The auditorium and Sunday-school are beautified with art glass, several very beautiful memorial windows having been donated, adding to the richness of the interior.

The First Baptist Church was organized November 10, 1884, with ten charter members and today the membership has reached 261. Of the ten charter members but two survive, Mrs. H. C. Rolfe, of this city and Mrs. Lucy M. Curtis, of Los Angeles.

Until 1881 services were held in the South Methodist Church, but in that year the Baptists erected their own house of worship on Third street, which they occupied until October 2, 1904, when the building and grounds were sold, and the congregation purchased the site of the present structure, at the northeast corner of Fourth and G streets, in the heart of a growing residence section. Until the completion of the Sunday-school the services were held in Masonic Temple. Rev. Mark B. Shaw has been pastor of the church since March 18, 1899.

WATER TRIAL DATE SET.

The suits of the City of San Bernardino against the Fontana Development Company, and of the Mount Vernon Water Company against the Lytle Creek Water Company, involving the same issues, have been set for trial for the first Tuesday in January, after dragging through the courts for many months. The points at issue are the right of the defendant companies to change the point of delivery to the plaintiffs of their share of Lytle Creek water, and the right to substitute pumped water for Lytle Creek water, both of which contentions are denied by the plaintiffs.

RIALTO CUTS MELON.

The net returns to Rialto fruit growers for the season of 1904-5 reach a grand total of $228,600, for the 865 cars of fruit of all kinds shipped. Of this number the California Citrus Union handled 444 cars, which netted $180,080, this including the shipments of the Rialto Citrus Union. The Rialto Orange and Lemon Association shipped 175 cars, netting the growers $49,496.61. The average number of employés daily engaged was twenty-five, the monthly pay roll reaching 51050.

Stipulations were filed yesterday in the two big percolating water suits of Katz against Walkinshaw and Barton against the Riverside Water Company, agreeing to the selection of Judge F. F. Oster of either Judges W. Bennett of Kern, J. E. Prewett of Placer, H. C. Gesford of Napa, or W. M. Conley of Madeira, to hear the actions, which involve the ownership of the percolating waters of this artesian basin.

SANTA ANA.

WILL GET THE FRANCHISE.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 6.—In response to the request of the Los Angeles Interurban Railroad Company for a franchise to build and maintain a line of electric power wires between Santa Ana and Newport Beach along country roads, the Board of Supervisors has decided to advertise such a franchise for sale. Bids will be opened on October 17, the franchise to be awarded to the highest bidder.

A petition for a similar franchise on South Main street and Fourth street within the city limits will be presented by the railway company to the City Trustees.

Construction work upon the electric line between this city and Los Angeles is temporarily at a standstill owing to a shortage of rails, which are, however, expected daily. A crew of 500 men has been at work laying a mile of track per day, and the steel is now down as far as the Orange County line.

The schooner Iaqua is at the Newport wharf discharging a cargo of lumber.

The home of C. B. Henry at Tustin was burned to the ground with all its contents Tuesday night. The fire started at midnight from an unknown cause.

Officers are searching for James Taylor, who is alleged to have stolen a horse from Gilbert Sproule, Southern Pacific agent at West Orange. According to Sproule's story, the accused man rented the horse and has thus far failed to return it.

FULLERTON.

WALNUT PRICES HIGH.

FULLERTON, Oct. 6.—A number of growers outside the association have received high prices for their walnuts this season and say the net prices will run a little above the figures fixed by the association. But the greater portion of the crop in the Fullerton and Anaheim districts will be moved through the associations, members saying they are entirely satisfied with the results. The price fixed by the general exchange was 13 cents for the best grades.

Some of the Fullerton growers who have sold independently of the association are: Bert Annin, G. W. Sherwood, John and Joe Wagner and E. H. Stone, to Stern & Goodman at 12½ cents. A. B. Johnson of Orangethorpe sold his grafted nuts to the same firm at 14 cents. There is a premium on this variety.

F. Boeckman made one of the best sales so far reported. He sold both hard and soft shells, orchard run, to Boyd & Weisel for 12½ cents.

At Anaheim, Mr. McLaughlin, A. Henry and Senator Jones sold to Boyd & Weisel, independently of the association.

FOUNDRY BURNS AT RIVERSIDE.

THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLAR DAMAGE BY NIGHT FIRE.

Mechanics Working Overtime Make Desperate Effort to Save Valuables from the Building, Which Melts Away in Flash—Third Disaster to the Shop Within Two Years.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fire destroyed the Riverside Foundry and Machine Works tonight almost in a breath. The damage is estimated at more than $30,000, and the insurance at $20,000 in a number of companies. This foundry has been burned out three times in two years.

Tonight the workmen were running a heat in the foundry. At 10:25, while the factory was full of mechanics, James broke out near the foundry furnace and within a minute the whole structure was a seething mass of flame. The workmen broke for the office to save the books and papers. Two desks were carried out.

The long office desk, containing the plans and drawings, was siezed and brought to the doorway. It was too wide for the door space. Policeman John Baird, who arrived within five minutes after the fire started, organized a sappers' corps. With crowbars and rams they attempted to batter in the frame wall surrounding the door. They worked like madmen for about two minutes and then the flames that had started nearly a hundred feet away, drove the struggling men from their work. The desk was left to burn with its forward end at the doorway.

The entire structure was destroyed in less than ten minutes. The remaining period of the conflagration was devoted by the firemen to saving the nearby property.

About three weeks ago the managers of the foundry moved the expensive patterns and other stock to a new building. Had it not been for this the damage would have amounted to $150,000. The building surrounding this expensive plant was of clapboards and burned like dry grass.

LEAVES WIFE AND CREDITORS.

Somewhat over a year ago, Joseph J. Anderson came to Riverside from Indio as his last known place of residence, and was arrested as a tramp. Miss Eva Jumper, engaged in missionary work among the fallen, took an interest in him. She converted him to the Methodist Church. He entered the Sunday-school in her class, and a short time afterward, on August 17, 1904, they were married. Last Monday he deserted her and absconded from his creditors. Dist.-Atty. Lyman Evans has on his desk a complaint for his arrest on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Before he left the city Anderson made the rounds of his acquaintances, securing money and clothing.

Charles Carroll, a letter-carrier here, is one of the victims and the signer of the complaint against Anderson.

Anderson's wife is prostrated with grief, and her parents today made arrangements to send her on a visit to relatives in San Francisco.

ELSINORE.

NEW BANK CASHIER.

ELSINORE, Oct. 5.—James A. Crane, for several years Santa Fé agent in Elsinore, has left that position and has engaged as cashier of the Consolidated Bank of Elsinore, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of S. E. Manatt.

Mrs. Susan Barkhurst and daughter Alice Meek of Catos, Oklahoma, arrived Tuesday to spend a year in Elsinore with Mrs. Barkhurst's brother, Capt. L. B. Peck.

Mrs. M. Hazzard, who has spent a month in Santa Ana, San Diego and Los Angeles, has returned home.

Dr. N. C. Whitfield has returned from Los Angeles.

SANTA BARBARA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 6.—The City Council last night laid over indefinitely the application of the Santa Barbara Ice Company for a franchise to lay refrigerating pipes in State street. The committee reported that the laying of pipes would incur more public inconveniences than benefits.

CITY BEVITIES.

At the request of the Water Commissioners, the City Council passed a resolution asking that the government establisha guaging station on the Santa Ynez River, near Lompoc. The commissioners are anxious to have accurate measurements of the rover's volume.

The Council has instructed the City Attorney to institute condemnation proceedings against the owners of the Peshine property on West Cañon Perdidi. The Commercial Club has recently built a road through this street over the hills and want the street opened.

Big preparations are being made by the local lodge of Woodmen of the World for the initiation of forty-three of their candidates of Ventura Saturday night. They will leave this city on the evening train with two bands.

TWO GAMES TODAY.

Two football games are scheduled for today, the headliner being the engagement between Los Angeles High School and St. Vincent's College on St. Vincent's Field.

Both the teams are in good shape for the fray, and each expects to win. St. Vincent's are crippled somewhat from their northern trip, and will play minus Murrietta, who has left the college—a good athlete and a versatile all-around man, gone.

St. Vincent's looks likely to win by about two touchdowns, and perhaps as many goals; the High School lads are no mean opponents, and will undoubtedly put up a plucky fight, though they are going out of their class in taking on a college eleven.

In the other game Ed Merrill's Occidental squad will tackle against the Co. F soldier boys in hope of piling up a better score than U.S.C. did last Wednesday, though prospects of this are none too rosy. The Black and Gold has lost a number of good men; the football candidates have not turned out to practice very regularly, and Merrill has had rather hard sledding in consequence.

At that, Occidental should have little difficulty in doing up the soldier boys.

BULLFIGHT.

Senors Antonio "Barrerito" Barrera, Antonio "Rubio" Gonzales, Enrique "Valiente" Acuna and Cecilio "Gordito" Lovato will go through the motions of another bloodless bullfight at Southern Pacific Park, Santa Monica, tomorrow at 2:30 p.m.

The Castilian gentlemen pulled off a performance of the same sort last Sunday in the presence of members of the Humane Society and quite a concourse of spectators. No horses are allowed in the ring, and no one, not even the bull, was hurt, though one of the banderilleros split his tight breeches clearing a fence to escape one of "Toro's" mad rushes.

There are four little brindled devils of bulls from Arizona which are full of Chile pepper, general cussedness and alfalfa hay, and these will furnish the material of sport.

DEATH WOUNDS MAJ. BURNHA

PASADENAN'S YOUNG SON DROWNED IN ENGLAND.

Second Crushing Blow to the Family in Its Foreign Travels—Wrangle Over Improvement of Street Likely to be Prolonged—Burglars Active in Southern Suburb.

PASADENA, Office of The Tim No. 26 South Raymond ave., Oct. To be drowned in the icy waters of English stream was the sad fate young Bruce Burnham, the seve year-old son of Major and Mrs. Fre erick Burnham of San Rafael Height according to a cablegram received b a relative in this city yesterday eve ing.

The cablegram was brief: "Bru drowned. Coming soon."

No further particulars have been re ceived.

The message was received fro Bourne End, England, and the occu rence puts an end to an intended re visit of the Burnhams to the field o Maj. Burnham's earlier exploits i South Africa.

The Burnhams are one of the best known local families, occupying magnificent residence overlooking th Arroyo in San Rafael Heights, a Bruce, their youngest son, was the pride of a doting parentage.

This is the second child the Burnhams have lost since they began journeying abroad; the first, Naida, a beautiful little girl, dying in South Africa while her father was on one of his many military exploits there.

One other son, Roderick, now a student at Throop Polytechnic Institute and a member of Throop 'Varsity squad. Yesterday evening the members of the College athletic association adopted suitable resolutions of condolence in behalf of their bereaved comrade.

STREET WORK WRANGLE.

It has been practically decided that there shall be no change in the preconcerted programme of improvement for Oakland avenue, a stormy protest over which was aired at the last meeting of the Council. At a conference of the Streets and Alleys Committee last night with a number of those interested, the question was discussed at length, and while the committee did not hold its decision for the next Council meeting, it may be said that they did not hear any seemingly valid reason why the proposed macadamising of the thoroughfare should not be carried out.

The project will inaugurate a new system of street improvement in Pasadena. The street will be sliced in such a way that about six inches below grade rolling may be begun, and on top of this rolled surface will be placed a layer of the best crushed rock obtainable, after which there will be applied a thin coating of disintegrated granite and rock screenings. After this will come a thorough coating of oil mixed with a heavy percentage of asphaltum. Then the mass will be sanded and rolled smooth.

BURGLARS ACTIVE.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to burglarize the residence of Gardener C. French, a few yards from the Raymon mansion on Buena Vista Drive South Pasadena, a few nights ago. Still another attempt is reported from the Longley residence in the same neighborhood.

Mrs. French was awakened about 1:30 by a noise and saw someone at a partly opened window. She called to Mr. Allerton, whereat the would-be burglar took to his heels and was not seen again. At the Longley residence, which is unoccupied, the caretaker says he discovered someone prying at one of the windows. The intruder became alarmed and vanished.

The election of a new set of officers for the senior class at the Pasadena High School yesterday evening passed off quietly, but not without a spirited contest. LeRoy Sherry was made president of the class, and Raymond Thompson will be the editor of this year's "Item."

SAVES MOTHER FROM BURNING.

HEROISM OF LONG BEACH LAD PREVENTS A TRAGEDY.

Throws Blazing Gasoline Stove Out of House and Extinguishes Fire Despite Serious Injuries He Had Sustained—Salt Lake Railroad to Begin Important Improvement.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 6.—Harry Powell, an eighteen-year-old boy, lies at his home in Bumett, swathed in cotton and cooling lotions terribly burned, but happy in the consciousness that his injuries were sustained in a successful attempt to save the life of his mother and the Powell home from destruction by fire.

Mrs. D. Powell was engaged this morning in preparing breakfast on a gasoline stove. Suddenly the tank burst an in an instant blazing gasoline was pouring over the stove and enveloping Mrs. Powell. She screamed for help and her son, Harry, who was in an adjoining room, rushed to her aid. Without hesitation he seized the stoze, carried it across the room and hurled it through a door into the yard, while the flames were burning his face, arms and breast. Then he and his mother extinguished the flames in the room. Dr. Bishop was called and attended the sufferers. Mrs. Powell is burned about the shoulders, but not so severely as her son, who will be confined to his bed for some time.

SALT LAKE'S BIG JOB.

The Salt Lake Railroad Company filed a petition with the Trustees Monday asking for the lease of certain property at West Long Beach at present under water, and this morning a contract was signed between the city and the railway company by which the city grants a lease of the lands which are being filled in from the harbor dredgings adjacent to Terminal Island. It is the purpose of the railway to build a stone breakwater, government consent having been obtained, across the curve in the coast on the ocean side of East San Pedro, where the dredgings are now beng dumped, to protect that part from the heavy tides and breakers that come sweeping in during the winter storms. This part is not available for wharfage purposes as the ocean is shallow there and it is exposed to the storms from the southeast. By building the bulkhead the dredgings will reclaim land and not wash back into the bay, as was feared by the government engineers. The cost of the breakwater is estimated at $50,000. The railroad acknowledges by this petition and contract the jurisdiction of Long Beach as lately acquired by annexation and asks for a lease for forty-six years at the nominal rate of $1 per year, and is made subject to all rights and claims of the United States government and its control. Long Beach will not guarantee title further than this.

WILD DASH OF RUNAWAY.

Dr. Albert E. Fitch of Cleveland, O., who is staying in Long Beach, hitched his horse to a buggy last evening, placed his two small children on the seat and was preparing to get in when his horse took fright and ran away, throwing Dr. Fitch with great force against a telephone pole. Dashing through the alley, the animal turned short and threw the children out. Neighbors rushed to their assistance but found them only slightly bruised. The horse ran from Fourth and Daisy to Ocean and thence east, scattering sections of the vehicle along the route and arrived at Pine avenue with only two front wheels. The maddened animau started out the pier toward the pavilion, but slipped on the cement approach and was caught.

LONG BEACH IN BRIEF.

The Harbor Committee of Long Beach meets Saturday afternoon to organize and discuss matters pertaining to the dredging of the harbor and also to adjust the lines between the Long Beach extension of the Terminal Island annexation and the Wilmington incorporation.

The Salvation Army brought down to the beach today 250 aged poor of Los Angeles for an outing. They were in charge of Maj. and Mrs. Percy Morton, Adjt. and Mrs. Plumstead and Ensign and Mrs. Davis. Luncheon was provided by the ladies of the local churches. The old people apparently enjoyed the outing thoroughly.

The total railroad assessment within Long Beach city limits is $102,155. Of this the Salt Lake is assessed $40,200 and the Southern Pacific $30,107.

CLAREMONT.

COLLEGE AFFAIRS.

CLAREMONT, Oct. 6.—Six men debated last evening in Society Hall, trying to gain place on the first debating team, from whose number representatives for Pomona College will be chosen to meet Occidental in debate. Messrs Giffen, A. C. Reed and Sourwine are members of the first team as it stands and Hawkinson, Hartshorn and Bishop on the second team.

Covina High School football team played the 'varsity a practice game Thursday afternoon. Covina was given the ball nearly all the game. Coach Noble tried out about thirty players and found much good material.

SHARKS SEIZE BIGGEST FISH.

AVALON ANGLERS SUFFER FROM SEA VARMINTS.

AVALON, Oct. 6.—The monstrous sharks continue to be the excitement at this fishing resort. Not a day passes but some angler comes in with the experience of having lost a fish—his biggest one—to a shark. This morning it was E. B. Blinn a wholesale lumber man, recently of Chicago, but henceforth to be a resident of Pasadena, where he is building an elegant home.

Mr. Blinn was out with Capt. Washburn of the Magic Isle, and ran into a school of albicore that were ravenously hungry. He had safely landed a number when he dropped his hook in front of the largest of the bunch and in an instant it darted away with the bait.

Blinn's 900-feet of line was run out while he put on the brake till the smoke rose from his reel like that from the stack of a locomotive. Only a dozen feet remained on the spool.

When of a sudden it stopped. When the angler reeled in he found only the head of the biggest albicore, estimated at forty-five to fifty pounds, on his hook. A huge shark had bitten it in two just back of the long fins, as clean as if with a cleaver. Mr. Blinn would like the photograph of a fish that requires a forty-five pound bait.

So annoying have the sharks become that they have actually put a stop to grouper fishing for the market. The huge creatures would follow the boats around and when a haul was made they would deftly clean every hook of its victim, and in doing this would more frequently than not carry away the fisherman's entire outfit of twenty to thirty hooks and line. At least a dozen boatmen are laid up here waiting for the pests to emigrate so that they may again get to business.

AFFIDAVIT FOR THIS.

George Farnsworth came in the other day with one of the woodiest of fish stories. It brought him a lot of guying, but he made good his assertions.

He was fishing for grouper (which is the common name for the red fish of the rock cod family) when a big shark appeared and, one after the other, swallowed some seven or eight fish on Farnsworth's hooks and then broke the line. Farnsworth pulled up and went elsewhere to get rid of his persecutor, but it followed him and, when the fisherman finally stopped the shark came up under his boat and, seizing the "shoe" in its teeth, gave a shake which almost shook Farnsworth into the water.

When Farnsworth's veracity was questioned, he beached his boat, and there on the shoe are the imprints of the animal's teeth!

ISLAND BREVITIES.

P. L. Steiner of Chicago has joined Mrs. Steiner here for a few days. They will go to Portland next week, when Mrs. Steiner will return here for the winter.

SANTA MONICA.

FORESTRY STATION PLANS.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 6.—Now that J. P. Barber, foreman of the State University's forestry experiment station located in Santa Monica cañon, has arrived and taken charge of the work, it is expected there will be only a brief delay in a renewal of operations there. The forest fires of a year ago denuded the grounds of shrubbery and flowers, as well as the buildings of the station. The regents at once made an appropriation for their rebuilding, but before anything could be done the legislature authorized an exchange of station sites if deemed best. Several offers to exchange were submitted, but no recommendation for an exchange was made. The law gave six months from March 10 in which to consider and effect the exchange, and it consequently became a dead letter on September 10. No exchange having been made, preparations are now under way for the erection of buildings to cost not less than $5000. It is presumed these will be erected this fall.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The School Trustees, now having $60,000 available for use in the construction of three new school buildings, have engaged C. H. Russell to prepare plans for the proposed structures. These designs are to be submitted next week for adoption, and it is expected that at least one of the buildings will be made of brick of home manufacture.

BEACH TOWN BRIEFS.

The popularity of the North Beach as training quarters for pugilists is nothing dimmed. Burns is already at work here for his bout with Sullivan, and Hanlon is anxious to return to put himself in shape for a go with Herrera.

The Santa Monica Lecture Class is to be addressed on Monday by Mrs. Willoughby Rodman of Los Angeles, and also by Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden.

Santa Monica cricketers have lined up with considerable strength for the initial game tomorrow afternoon on the Polo grounds. The North Side eleven consists of J. D. Browne, C. LeBas, D. and S. Kennelly, R. M. Fripp, T. Feron, J. C. Crosier, T. Sutton, G. L. Waring, J. B. Proctor, F. J. Townsend and D. S. Lowden. The South Siders are: A. L. Trench, H. W. Bainbridge, A. W. Lawe, A. J. Wilkins, E. B. Tyler, A. A. Kilson, N. Kilson, R. Williams, F. E. Lee, P. J. Dudley and A. Stanchfield. From these two teams a strong eleven will be selected to contest with the St. George's team of Los Angeles in the Angel City, on Oct. 14.

MONROVIA.

FOR BIGGER WATER SUPPLY.

MONROVIA, Oct. 6.—The city government will undertake to conserve 10,000,000 gallons of water by bulkheading the Twin Springs tunnels in Sawpit Cañon, from which a portion of the local water supply is drawn. J. H. McClymonds, City Engineer, estimates that the tunnel drained originally an immense reservoir, and that by closing up all escapes but the pipe the water will again gather in the channels of the rocks instead of pouring out during the season of rains, and that this will increase the flow of water in the pipes from eight to ten inches during the dry season. The undertaking is not an expensive one, and if successful will be applied at other points where the city secures mountain water.

FOOTHILL FANCIES.

The People's Gas Company and the Edison Electric Company are to show Monrovia people how well they can light a city block before submitting bids for the contract. There is a general demand for a larger number of lights, and the new contract will be for 120 sixteen-candlepower incandescent electric lights, or 50 or more 200-candle-power gas lights.

Mayor F. A. Eno and others from Long Beach were here yesterday to get a lesson in roadmaking from this city's excellent oiled and packed streets. They follow Pasadena's delegation, who found the best roadways in Southern California within Monrovia city limits.

Bishop S. S. Caldwell of the African Methodist Episcopal Church preached at the home of his denomination here last evening. This was the bishop's regular visit, and he found the church is in an excellent financial condition, and with an unusually large attendance.

OCEAN PARK.

TO ILLUMINE STRAND.

OCEAN PARK, Oct. 6.—The Broadway illumination idea has impressed itself with such favor upon this beach that a movement is growing which is expected to result in the lighting of Pier avenue, Ocean Front and Marine street. Samples of the electric light clusters have been received and placed in position and the property owners propose to erect them, provided the municipality will furnish the electric fluid. The idea is to make the ocean frontage as light as day from Kinney street as far south as Ozone avenue.

VENICE.

BOATHOUSE CHOSEN.

VENICE, Oct. 6.—The site for the new boating house for the Lemcke Boating Company has been selected, and work is to be commenced without delay in the construction of a $10,000 structure. It will be located just east of the bath-house on the canals and will be 90x175 feet. The canals in front of it are to be widened and deepened to accommodate the racing and pleasure craft, of which two car loads are now enroute. The boat-house will contain ladies' quarters and there will also be a commodious dancing pavilion. The building will be Venetian in design.

HITTING UP THE "TRAIL."

Final contracts have been signed and the major portion of the "Trail" attractions of the Lewis and Clark fair at Portland are due to arrive and be ready for business on this beach while December is yet young. Owing to the enormity of the proposition the original plan of housing these sideshows on the "Frolic" pier had to be abandoned and a more roomy site has been selected on the sands in the canal district. The plans for a $50,000 pavilion on the pier had already been prepared and work was to have commenced in a few days. Now the building operations will be in the other direction.

GOOD-BY MARCHETTI.

Signor Carlo Marchetti has abandoned the command of the ship Cabrillo forever and aye, being succeeded by J. L. Wheat, who will keep the fires banked until a contract is closed with some caterer for the operation of the hostelry. The same action is expected to be taken in the case of the St. plan for the national convention. Marks Hotel.

WHITTIER.

WILL HAVE CLUBHOUSE.

WHITTIER, Oct. 6.—The women of the East Whittier Improvement Club have purchased the brick pumphouse of the East Whittier Land and Water Company and will have it converted into a clubhouse. The grounds are already set to suitable trees and shrubs and the location is excellent.

QUAKER CITY NOTES.

At the Board of Trade meeting last evening a committee was appointed to interview Gov. Pardee, who heads the Pathological Station Site Commission, and try to get him to come to Whittier as the guest of the Board of Trade, to inspect local conditions with a view to locating the station here.

James M. Frazier, a member of Whittier Post, G.A.R., died Thursday morning at the Soldiers' Home. Funeral services will be held at the Holiness Church here Saturday afternoon.

LORDSBURG.

PASTOR'S GRIEF SHARED.

LORDSBURG, Oct. 6.—The exclusive dispatch in The Times this morning announcing the death of Russell R. Kimmell on the train near Buena Vista, Colo., was a great shock to the many friends of the family here. He was en route from his home in Dayton, O., accompanied by his brother, Rev. A. V. Kimmell, and family. Rev. Kimmell recently accepted the pastorate of the Progressive Brethren Church of this town, one of the most important charges of this denomination on this Coast, and was on his way to commence his labors in a new field. MRS. SANDOVAL DEAD.

Wife of Mexican Banker and Agent Passes Away After Enduring a Serious Operation.

Prominent Mexican families in Los Angeles were shocked and deeply grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. Aurello Sandoval, of No. 827 South Figueroa street, wife of the senior member of the firm of A. Sandoval y Ca., of Nogales, Mex., and Los Angeles, bankers and international agents. Mrs. Sandoval's death came after the performance of an operation at one of the local hospitals, and terminated a week of intense suffering.

Though she had been a permanent resident of Los Angeles less than two years, Mrs. Sandoval was one of the best known and best liked of the women of the Mexican colony. She was 36 years of age, and leaves two young children. Before her marriage Mrs. Sandoval was one of the belles of Sonora. She was a woman of personal beauty and fine character. COSTLY CABLES EDITED.

Class of Men Who Make Money by Deciphering Long Cipher Messages.

[Pearson's Weekly.] You don't write a cablegram as you would a letter, beginning with "Dear Sirs" and ending with "I am, yours very faithfully." Only millionaires could do such a thing.

With rates ranging up to 7s 7d a word you have got to be more careful than you would even with an ordinary "tannergram."

Prices per word used to range a lot higher. But they are high enough still to render first-rate "code," expensive as it is, much more of a necessity than a luxury.

As to the dearness of the code books, it must be remembered than they may cost thousands of pounds to compile. Yet the number of copies sold may be so small as to be insignificant. Fancy prices per copy, then, are the rule.

And it's worth it. It's often worth a fortune to get news quickly and secretly. So what is a paltry £10 expended on the latest code? Without talking of coups or fortunes the business man may save that amount on an ordinary every-day message, which the use of the code book reduces to the cost of a few shillings.

When Admiral Rosjestvensky was hugging the coast of French China recently, preparatory to taking his fleet out for the Japs to send to the bottom, many such messages as this were received by the Government in St. Petersburg from the unfortunate officer: 31,625, 28,710, 16,429, 25,341, 80,314, 75,296, 58,537, 42,174.

These groups of figures are all on the same principle. Take one of them. It might represent a word, or it might represent a sentence or part of one.

The first two figures would represent the page of the admiral's code book in which the word or words would be found. Turning to that page in his duplicate copy of the book, the Minister's secretary at St. Petersburg would at once see what the remaining three figures stood for. Having translated one group of figures he would go on to the next, and so on.

A lengthy business this, calling for special training. But, not to speak of Russia, sometimes the head of a Government department even in this country will prefer to do his work for himself rather than intrust the task to any subordinate.

Another form of cryptographic message will be after the following style. "Bread tea table spoons lettuce chair carpet cold."

No reference to 5 o'clock tea this, whatever it may look. Probably Lord Charles Beresford received some such message when he got his instructions what to do with the Russian fleet if it ventured nearer the Far East than the Spanish port of Virgo until some explanations had been rendered on a certain recent occasion.

Other forms of cipher message are constructed by transposing letters of the alphabet—making d stand for e, e represent b and so on.

This form of message is about as secret as any, but quite as costly—because as long—as one written in full plain English.

Press messages are occasionally built up from code books. But a foreign correspondent would have to be a genius to send some messages in this form—so very different are their contents from the more stereotyped commercial phrases for which provision is made in the code books. As a matter of fact, brevity is usually achieved by sending the information in skeleton form.

A London sub-editor will receive about ten words from a correspondent in Japan, and will amplify this into a column of most excellent reading. So that after all the cost is not so great.

It is a mistake, however, to imagine, as some skeptical persons pretend to do, that some of the more enterprising dailies do not spend huge sums when occasion requires on foreign telegrams. As much as £2000 has been spent on the foreign news contained in one issue of a daily paper only.

Every Sunday the Times has the monopoly of a certain cable for receiving long dispatches from its Calcutta and other Indian correspondents.

The cable companies do not like code messages. They know that they divert vast sums of money annually from their coffers. But they daren't refuse them, for fear of what the government might do.

So they protect themselves to the extent of limiting each word to ten letters. A German, for instance, would not be allowed to send Feuerversicherungsgesellschaft (fire insurance company) as one word.

A class of men who make money out of cablegrams have received the name of "packers." These men are really editors, for long messages intended to be cabled are intrusted to them by business houses to be pruned and reduced to the lowest "sending" limits. Of the money thus saved they receive a percentage.

The actual compilation of the big codes is a well paid but brain-racking business. Experts have to be "all-there," and to know many languages. A fair proportion of them go mad.

DEATH WOUNDS MAJ. BURNHAM.

PASADENAN'S YOUNG SON IS DROWNED IN ENGLAND.

Second Crushing Blow to the Family in Its Foreign Travels—Wrangle Over Improvement of Street Likely to be Prolonged—Burglars Active in Southern Suburb.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 36 South Raymond ave., Oct. 7.—To be drowned in the icy waters of an English stream was the sad fate of young Bruce Burnham, the seven-year-old son of Major and Mrs. Frederick Burnham of San Rafael Heights, according to a cablegram received by a relative in this city yesterday evening.

The cablegram was brief: "Bruce drowned. Coming soon."

No further particulars have been received.

The message was received from Bourne End, England, and the occurrence puts an end to an intended revisit of the Burnhams to the field of Maj. Burnham's earlier exploits in South Africa.

The Burnhams are one of the best-known local families, occupying a magnificent residence overlooking the Arroyo in San Rafael Heights, and Bruce, their youngest son, was the pride of a doting parentage.

This is the second child the Burnhams have lost since they began journeying abroad; the first, Naida, a beautiful little girl, dying in South Africa while her father was on one of his many military exploits there.

One other son, Roderick, is now a student at Throop Polytechnic Institute and a member of Throop track squad. Yesterday evening the members of the College athletic association adopted suitable resolutions of condolence in behalf of their bereaved comrade.

STREET WORK WRANGLE.

It has been practically decided that there shall be no change in the pre-concerted programme of improvement on Oakland avenue, a stormy protest over which was aired at the last meeting of the Council. At a conference of the Streets and Alleys Committee last night with a number of those interested, the question was discussed at length, and while the committee withheld its decision for the next Council meeting, it may be said that they did not hear any seemingly valid reason why the proposed macadamizing of the thoroughfare should not be carried out. The project will inaugurate a new system of street improvement in Pasadena. The street will be sliced in such a way that about six inches below the rolling may be begun, and on top of this rolled surface will be placed a layer of the best crushed rock obtainable after which there will be applied a final coating of disintegrated granite or screenings. After this will come a thorough coating of oil mixed with a heavy percentage of asphaltum. The mass will be sanded and left smooth.

BURGLARS ACTIVE.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to burglarize the residence of Gardener L. French, a few yards from the fine mansion on Buena Vista Drive in South Pasadena, a few nights ago. Another attempt is reported from the Longley residence in the same neighborhood.

Mr. French was awakened about 2 o'clock by a noise and saw someone at a partly opened window. She called to Mr. Allerton, whereat the would-be burglar took to his heels and was not seen again. At the Longley residence, which is unoccupied, the caretaker on his discovered someone prying at one of the windows. The intruder became alarmed and vanished.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES.

Miss Anna Munger, whose marriage to Roy Henderson will be one of the features of next week's social calendar was the guest of honor yesterday afternoon at a charming hearts party given by Mrs. Albert E. Edwards at her home on Galena avenue. Besides the guest of honor those present were: Miss Harry Munger, Mrs. R. Munger, Mrs. George Frost, Mrs. C. Mortimer Henderson, Mrs. Frank Burnham, Mrs. Chester Woodbury, Mrs. John Holmes, Mrs. Roy Thomas, Mrs. Ben Whitehead, Mrs. Guy Wood, Mrs. T. W. Wood, Misses Lotta Henderson, Alice Pritchard, Jennie McLean, Jessie Thomas, Miss Gordon, Marie Gordon, Ella Brown, Miss Sue Brown, Anne Belmore, Mae Deitrich, Beulah Hasbrouck, Natalie Wheeler.

PITHY PARAGRAPHS.

When the case of E. J. Mahan was called in the Police Court yesterday morning it was to answer to a charge of trespass, and not until after the courteous complaint had been made and read, to the prisoner's astonishment, did the authorities discover their mistake. Mahan is the man wanted for grand larceny in San Francisco. Chief of Police Pinkham yesterday received information that an officer is coming for the prisoner.

The election of a new set of officers for the senior class at the Pasadena High School yesterday evening passed off quietly, but not without a spirited contest. LeRoy Sherry was made president of the class, and Raymond Simpson will be the editor of this year's "Icam."

The funeral services of the late Mrs. C. Sargent were held yesterday afternoon at the residence on Holliston ave. Members of the Monday Afternoon Club, of which she was the president, as well as founder, attended the ceremony in a body, and the eulogy was spoken by Rev. Malcolm J. Dana.

The funeral of Marion Hawkins, the Covina youth killed by the accidental discharge of his own revolver while out hunting, was held yesterday, services being conducted by Rev. M. W Haley, an old friend of the family. Mr. Kingsley Macomber left yesterday for New York, where he will join Mrs. Macomber, who, with Mrs. Harry Hamilton, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harkness. All will return to California before cold weather in the fall.

The first arrest for violation of the new ordinance restricting boys under 18 from entering such places resulted in a fine of $10 for J. Nabashimi, proprietor of the place.

SAVES MOTHER FROM BURNING.

HEROISM OF LONG BEACH LAD PREVENTS A TRAGEDY.

Throws Blazing Gasoline Stove Out of House and Extinguishes Fire Despite Serious Injuries He Had Sustained—Salt Lake Railroad to Begin Important Improvement.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 6.—Harry Powell, an eighteen-year-old boy, lies at his home in Bumett, swathed in cotton and cooling lotions terribly burned, but happy in the consciousness that his injuries were sustained in a successful attempt to save the life of his mother and the Powell home from destruction by fire.

Mrs. D. Powell was engaged this morning in preparing breakfast on a gasoline stove. Suddenly the tank burst an in an instant blazing gasoline was pouring over the stove and enveloping Mrs. Powell. She screamed for help and her son, Harry, who was in an adjoining room, rushed to her aid. Without hesitation he seized the stove, carried it across the room and hurled it through a door into the yard, while the flames were burning his face, arms and breast. Then he and his mother extinguished the flames in the room. Dr. Bishop was called and attended the sufferers. Mrs. Powell is burned about the shoulders, but not so severely as her son, who will be confined to his bed for some time.

SALT LAKE'S BIG JOB.

The Salt Lake Railroad Company filed a petition with the Trustees Monday asking for the lease of certain property at West Long Beach at present under water, and this morning a contract was signed between the city and the railway company by which the city grants a lease of the lands which are being filled in from the harbor dredgings adjacent to Terminal Island. It is the purpose of the railway to build a stone breakwater, government consent having been obtained, across the curve in the coast on the ocean side of East Sar. Pedro, where the dredgings are now being dumped, to protect that part from the heavy tides and breakers that come sweeping in during the winter storms. This part is now available for wharfage purposes as the ocean is shallow there and it is exposed to the storms from the southeast. By building the bulkhead the dredgings will reclaim land and not wash back into the bay, as was feared by the government engineers. The cost of the breakwater is estimated at $50,000. The railroad acknowledges by this petition and contract the jurisdiction of Long Beach as lately acquired by annexation and asks for a lease for forty-six years at the nominal rate of $1 per year, and is made subject to all rights and claims of the United States government and its control. Long Beach will not guarantee title further than this.

WILD DASH OF RUNAWAY.

Dr. Albert E. Fitch of Cleveland, O., who is staying in Long Beach, hitched his horse to a buggy last evening, placed his two small children on the seat and was preparing to get in when his horse took fright and ran away, throwing Dr. Fitch with great force against a telephone pole. Dashing through the alley, the animal turned short and threw the children out. Neighbors rushed to their assistance but found them only slightly bruised. The horse ran from Fourth and Daisy to Ocean and thence east, scattering sections of the vehicle along the route and arrived at Pine avenue with only two front wheels. The maddened animau started out the pier toward the pavilion, but slipped on the cement approach and was caught.

LONG BEACH IN BRIEF.

Mrs. L. P. Byerly, who disappeared from home two weeks ago, after a tiff with her husband, has written to a friend from Inyo county, but makes no reference to her family affairs.

The Harbor Committee of Long Beach meets Saturday afternoon to organize and discuss matters pertaining to the dredging of the harbor and also to adjust the lines between the Long Beach extension of the Terminal Island annexation and the Wilmington incorporation.

The Salvation Army brought down to the beach today 250 aged poor of Los Angeles for an outing. They were in charge of Maj. and Mrs. Percy Morton, Adjt. and Mrs. Plumstead and Ensign and Mrs. Davis. Luncheon was provided by the ladies of the local churches. The old people apparently enjoyed the outing thoroughly.

The total railroad assessment within Long Beach city limits is $102,155. Of this the Salt Lake is assessed $40,200 and the Southern Pacific $30,107.

SHARKS SEIZE BIGGEST FISH.

AVALON ANGLERS SUFFER FROM SEA VARMINTS.

AVALON, Oct. 6.—The monstrous sharks continue to be the excitement at this fishing resort. Not a day passes but some angler comes in with the experience of having lost a fish—his biggest one—to a shark. This morning it was E. B. Blinn a wholesale lumber man, recently of Chicago, but henceforth to be a resident of Pasadena, where he is building an elegant home.

Mr. Blinn was out with Capt. Washburn of the Magic Isle, and ran into a school of albicore that were ravenously hungry. He had safely landed a number when he dropped his hook in front of the largest of the bunch and in an instant it darted away with the bait.

Blinn's 900-feet of line was run out while he put on the brake till the smoke rose from his reel like that from the stack of a locomotive. Only a dozen feet remained on the spool.

When of a sudden it stopped. When the angler reeled in he found only the head of the biggest albicore, estimated at forty-five to fifty pounds, on his hook. A huge shark had bitten it in two just back of the long fins, as clean as if with a cleaver. Mr. Blinn would like the photograph of a fish that requires a forty-five pound bait.

So annoying have the sharks become that they have actually put a stop to grouper fishing for the market. The huge creatures would follow the boats around and when a haul was made they would deftly clean every hook of its victim, and in doing this would more frequently than not carry away the fisherman's entire outfit of twenty to thirty hooks and line. At least a dozen boatmen are laid up here waiting for the pests to emigrate so that they may again get to business.

AFFIDAVIT FOR THIS.

George Farnsworth came in the other day with one of the woodiest of fish stories. It brought him a lot of guying, but he made good his assertions.

He was fishing for grouper (which is the common name for the red fish of the rock cod family) when a big shark appeared and, one after the other, swallowed some seven or eight fish on Farnsworth's hooks and then broke the line. Farnsworth pulled up and went elsewhere to get rid of his persecutor, but it followed him and, when the fisherman finally stopped the shark came up under his boat and, seizing the "shoe" in its teeth, gave a shake which almost shook Farnsworth into the water.

When Farnsworth's veracity was questioned, he beached his boat, and there on the shoe are the imprints of the animal's teeth!

ISLAND BREVITIES.

P. L. Steiner of Chicago has joined Mrs. Steiner here for a few days. They will go to Portland next week, when Mrs. Steiner will return here for the winter.

SANTA MONICA.

FORESTRY STATION PLANS.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 6.—Now that J. P. Barber, foreman of the State University's forestry experiment station located in Santa Monica cañon, has arrived and taken charge of the work, it is expected there will be only a brief delay in a renewal of operations there. The forest fires of a year ago denuded the grounds of shrubbery and flowers, as well as the buildings of the station. The regents at once made an appropriation for their rebuilding, but before anything could be done the legislature authorized an exchange of station sites if deemed best. Several offers to exchange were submitted, but no recommendation for an exchange was made. The law gave six months from March 10 in which to consider and effect the exchange, and it consequently became a dead letter on September 10. No exchange having been made, preparations are now under way for the erection of buildings to cost not less than $5000. It is presumed these will be erected this fall.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The School Trustees, now having $60,000 available for use in the construction of three new school buildings, have engaged C. H. Russell to prepare plans for the proposed structures. These designs are to be submitted next week for adoption, and it is expected that at least one of the buildings will be made of brick of home manufacture.

BEACH TOWN BRIEFS.

The popularity of the North Beach as training quarters for pugilists is nothing dimmed. Burns is already at work here for his bout with Sullivan, and Hanlon is anxious to return to put himself in shape for a go with Herrera.

The Santa Monica Lecture Class is to be addressed on Monday by Mrs. Willoughby Rodman of Los Angeles, and also by Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden.

Santa Monica cricketers have lined up with considerable strength for the initial game tomorrow afternoon on the Polo grounds. The North Side eleven consists of J. D. Browne, C. LeBas, D. and S. Kennelly, R. M. Fripp, T. Feron, J. C. Crosier, T. Sutton, G. L. Waring, J. B. Proctor, F. J. Townsend and D. S. Lowden. The South Siders are: A. L. Trench, H. W. Bainbridge, A. W. Lawe, A. J. Wilkins, E. B. Tyler, A. A. Kilson, N. Kilson, R. Williams, F. E. Lee, P. J. Dudley and A. Stanchfield. From these two teams a strong eleven will be selected to contest with the St. George's team of Los Angeles in the Angel City, on Oct. 14.

MONROVIA.

FOR BIGGER WATER SUPPLY.

MONROVIA, Oct. 6.—The city government will undertake to conserve 10,000,000 gallons of water by bulkheading the Twin Springs tunnels in Sawpit Cañon, from which a portion of the local water supply is drawn. J. H. McClymonds, City Engineer, estimates that the tunnel drained originally an immense reservoir, and that by closing up all escapes but the pipe the water will again gather in the channels of the rocks instead of pouring out during the season of rains, and that this will increase the flow of water in the pipes from eight to ten inches during the dry season. The undertaking is not an expensive one, and if successful will be applied at other points where the city secures mountain water.

FOOTHILL FANCIES.

The People's Gas Company and the Edison Electric Company are to show Monrovia people how well they can light a city block before submitting bids for the contract. There is a general demand for a larger number of lights, and the new contract will be for 120 sixteen-candlepower incandescent electric lights, or 50 or more 200-candle-power gas lights.

Mayor F. A. Eno and others from Long Beach were here yesterday to get a lesson in roadmaking from this city's excellent oiled and packed streets. They follow Pasadena's delegation, who found the best roadways in Southern California within Monrovia city limits.

Bishop S. S. Caldwell of the African Methodist Episcopal Church preached at the home of his denomination here last evening. This was the bishop's regular visit, and he found the church is in an excellent financial condition, and with an unusually large attendance.

OCEAN PARK.

TO ILLUMINE STRAND.

OCEAN PARK, Oct. 6.—The Broadway illumination idea has impressed itself with such favor upon this beach that a movement is growing which is expected to result in the lighting of Pier avenue, Ocean Front and Marine street. Samples of the electric light clusters have been received and placed in position and the property owners propose to erect them, provided the municipality will furnish the electric fluid. The idea is to make the ocean frontage as light as day from Kinney street as far south as Ozone avenue.

VENICE.

BOATHOUSE CHOSEN.

VENICE, Oct. 6.—The site for the new boating house for the Lemcke Boating Company has been selected, and work is to be commenced without delay in the construction of a $10,000 structure. It will be located just east of the bath-house on the canals and will be 90x175 feet. The canals in front of it are to be widened and deepened to accommodate the racing and pleasure craft, of which two car loads are now en route. The boat-house will contain ladies' quarters and there will also be a commodious dancing pavilion. The building will be Venetian in design.

HITTING UP THE "TRAIL."

Final contracts have been signed and the major portion of the "Trail" attractions of the Lewis and Clark fair at Portland are due to arrive and be ready for business on this beach while December is yet young. Owing to the enormity of the proposition the original plan of housing these sideshows on the "Frolic" pier had to be abandoned and a more roomy site has been selected on the sands in the canal district. The plans for a $50,000 pavilion on the pier had already been prepared and work was to have commenced in a few days. Now the building operations will be in the other direction.

GOOD-BY MARCHETTI.

Signor Carlo Marchetti has abandoned the command of the ship Cabrillo forever and aye, being succeeded by J. L. Wheat, who will keep the fires banked until a contract is closed with some caterer for the operation of the hostelry. The same action is expected to be taken in the case of the St. plan for the national convention. Marks Hotel.

WHITTIER.

WILL HAVE CLUBHOUSE.

WHITTIER, Oct. 6.—The women of the East Whittier Improvement Club have purchased the brick pumphouse of the East Whittier Land and Water Company and will have it converted into a clubhouse. The grounds are already set to suitable trees and shrubs and the location is excellent.

QUAKER CITY NOTES.

At the Board of Trade meeting last evening a committee was appointed to interview Gov. Pardee, who heads the Pathological Station Site Commission, and try to get him to come to Whittier as the guest of the Board of Trade, to inspect local conditions with a view to locating the station here.

James M. Frazier, a member of Whittier Post, G.A.R., died Thursday morning at the Soldiers' Home. Funeral services will be held at the Holiness Church here Saturday afternoon.

LORDSBURG.

PASTOR'S GRIEF SHARED.

LORDSBURG, Oct. 6.—The exclusive dispatch in The Times this morning announcing the death of Russell R. Kimmell on the train near Buena Vista, Colo., was a great shock to the many friends of the family here. He was en route from his home in Dayton, O., accompanied by his brother, Rev. A. V. Kimmell, and family. Rev. Kimmell recently accepted the pastorate of the Progressive Brethren Church of this town, one of the most important charges of this denomination on this Coast, and was on his way to commence his labors in a new field. The family will reach here Sunday morning with the remains.

COSTLY CABLES EDITED.

Class of Men Who Make Money by Deciphering Long Cipher Messages.

[Pearson's Weekly.] You don't write a cablegram as you would a letter, beginning with "Dear Sirs" and ending with "I am, yours very faithfully." Only millionaires could do such a thing.

With rates ranging up to 7s 7d a word you have got to be more careful than you would even with an ordinary "tannergram."

Prices per word used to range a lot higher. But they are high enough still to render first-rate "code," expensive as it is, much more of a necessity than a luxury.

As to the dearness of the code books, it must be remembered than they may cost thousands of pounds to compile. Yet the number of copies sold may be so small as to be insignificant. Fancy prices per copy, then, are the rule.

And it's worth it. It's often worth a fortune to get news quickly and secretly. So what is a paltry £10 expended on the latest code? Without talking of coups or fortunes the business man may save that amount on an ordinary every-day message, which the use of the code book reduces to the cost of a few shillings.

When Admiral Rosjestvensky was hugging the coast of French China recently, preparatory to taking his fleet out for the Japs to send to the bottom, many such messages as this were received by the Government in St. Petersburg from the unfortunate officer: 31,625, 28,710, 16,429, 25,341, 80,314, 72,296, 58,587, 43,174.

These groups of figures are all on the same principle. Take one of them. It might represent a word, or it might represent a sentence or part of one.

The first two figures would represent the page of the admiral's code book in which the word or words would be found. Turning to that page in his duplicate copy of the book, the Minister's secretary at St. Petersburg would at once see what the remaining three figures stood for. Having translated one group of figures he would go on to the next, and so on.

A lengthy business this, calling for special training. But, not to speak of Russia, sometimes the head of a Government department even in this country will prefer to do his work for himself rather than intrust the task to any subordinate.

Another form of cryptographic message will be after the following style. "Bread tea table spoons lettuce chair carpet cold."

No reference to 5 o'clock tea this, whatever it may look. Probably Lord Charles Beresford received some such message when he got his instructions what to do with the Russian fleet if it ventured nearer the Far East than the Spanish port of Virgo until some explanations had been rendered on a certain recent occasion.

Other forms of cipher message are constructed by transposing letters of the alphabet—making d stand for a, e represent b and so on.

This form of message is about as secret as any, but quite as costly—because as long—as one written in full plain English.

Press messages are occasionally built up from code books. But a foreign correspondent would have to be a genius to send some messages in this form—so very different are their contents from the more stereotyped commercial phrases for which provision is made in the code books. As a matter of fact, brevity is usually achieved by sending the information in skeleton form.

A London sub-editor will receive about ten words from a correspondent in Japan, and will amplify this into a column of most excellent reading. So that after all the cost is not so great.

It is a mistake, however, to imagine, as some skeptical persons pretend to do, that some of the more enterprising dailies do not spend huge sums when occasion requires on foreign telegrams. As much as £2000 has been spent on the foreign news contained in one issue of a daily paper only.

Every Sunday the Times has the monopoly of a certain cable for receiving long dispatches from its Calcutta and other Indian correspondents.

The cable companies do not like code messages. They know that they divert vast sums of money annually from their coffers. But they daren't refuse them, for fear of what the government might do.

So they protect themselves to the extent of limiting each word to ten letters. A German, for instance, would not be allowed to send Feuerversicherungsgeselischaft (fire insurance company) as one word.

A class of men who make money out of cablegrams have received the name of "packers." These men are really editors, for long messages intended to be cabled are intrusted to them by business houses to be pruned and reduced to the lowest "sending" limits. Of the money thus saved they receive a percentage.

The actual compilation of the big codes is a well paid but brain-racking business. Experts have to be "all-there," and to know many languages. A fair proportion of them go mad.

The produce market opened active yesterday, and considerable trading resulted. Receipts were generally light and prices well maintained.

Ranch eggs were steady at 27 cents, and conditions were reported slightly easier on account of the increased receipts from Santa Ana.

Butter was in strong request, valley receipts being inadequate to meet the demand. Storage stocks were freely drawn upon, but dealers were unable to fill a number of orders.

Northern peaches were active at 1.00, but local were jobbing at 65 to 75 cents.

Muscat grapes were in good demand at 70 to 85 cents, Black Moroccos 90, Tokays 1.00 to 1.25.

Strawberries were again in active demand, and with only moderate receipts Tropicos were firm at 8 cents, and Gardenas 6 to 8. Blackberries were moving freely at 6 to 7 cents, and raspberries 20 cents a box.

Cantaloupes were jobbing at 2.00 to 2.25, and watermelons at 20 to 1.75.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Speculative interest never well died out of the market today, and the determination seemed to be reached to await more definite outcome of the money situation. The rate for call loans did not rise to the high level of yesterday, but the average rate at which call money was placed was above that of yesterday. Some trust companies were reported to be calling loans, and this gave the impression that these institutions had about reached the limit of their ability to relieve borrowers from the banks by transfer of loans, a process which has gone on steadily for several weeks past. This being the case, and with the depletion of bank reserves still interrupted, an actual contraction of credits would be indicated for the immediate future, rather than the shifting about of accommodations to enable the banks to preserve the semblance of a surplus, which has gone on up to this time. The probability of a weak bank return tomorrow also came in for consideration. There is the chance that the readjustment of the incongruities presented in last week's banking operations into this week's statement. This may affect the showing of loan items, which the calling of loans during the week would naturally tend to reduce. The subtreasury has taken from the banks thus far this week only $1,467,000, as compared with nearly $7,000,000 last week. But estimates by bankers, a regular movement of currency to and from the interior indicate a sufficient balance of the movement against this center to bring a cash loss for the banks to $6,000,000 or $7,000,000. Next week it is expected that preparations will begin for the payment at the end of the week of the last installment of the Japanese local subscriptions, which calls for a maximum of about $20,000,000, modified to the extent that payments in full may have been anticipated. Foreign money markets were somewhat disturbed also by the money position, Paris selling investment securities in London and London selling here. There was a slight reaction in the discount rate at Berlin, but the rate advanced in London to within a shade of the bank rate, and there was an upward reaction from the recent downward course of sterling exchange in Paris. It could not be learned that any part of the day's large arrivals of gold in London had been secured from New York, but a report was circulated here that yesterday's withdrawal of $4,500,000 from the Bank of France was destined for New York and not for London, as reported yesterday. Intimations from Washington that plans were taking form for an issue of Panama Canal bonds took their place with other subjects bearing on future requirements upon the money market. News of the day otherwise was not of much interest and was of scarcely any effect. Reports of railway earnings for August, including those of the Harriman Pacifics and St. Paul, were notable for the large portion of the increase in gross earnings which was absorbed by increased operating expenses, which, in the case of the St. Paul, was sufficient to leave only a nominal increase in the net earnings. The rate for sterling exchange went lower here in response to the stiff money market. Exports of wheat for the week showed a decline of 992,290 bushels from those of last week, explaining the scarcity of grain bills in the exchange market. The early downward movement of stocks was generally recovered before the end of the day on a dull buying movement. The closing tone was irregular. Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,080,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on call.
